A Little Politics.
Babies, Aviation, Beer.
No Socialist Worry.
More Women Wanted.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

WHEN WALL STREET awoke yesterday and measured the height of the tidal wave, it was frightened. Prices that had gone up before election dropped again. Strange phenomenon, for even the dullest multimillionaire might have known what the result would be. Even this writer knew, or thought he did.

Lord Beaverbrook, who owns the London Express, asked on the first of the month for an opinion on the election, and got on November second, the following by cable:

"Believe Republican defeat overwhelming. Doubt if Republicans carry ten states."

They only carried six.

ANYBODY MIGHT HAVE KNOWN IT.

IN THE Menorah maternity wing of Beth-El Hospital, Brooklyn, ten babies were born on election night. Three were boys, and all three were named for the new President as follows: Franklin Delano Mayblum, Franklin Delano Finkelstein, and Franklin Delano Ragin.

May the three infants prosper and never have cause to wonder WHY they were named Franklin Delano.

THE AVIATION departments of the Army and Navy are eager rivals as to which shall supply Gov. Roosevelt with his official flying machine and pilot. He flies a good deal, and doubtless will fly more than ever after he enters the White House.

That is excellent news, for the President, looking down, will see how much chance a man on the ground, or a ship on the surface, would have against bombs, poison gas and machine gun fire from the air. About as much chance as a rabbit against an eagle.

PERHAPS GOV. Roosevelt will decide that the flying machine deserves a department of its own, instead of being a subordinate branch of Army and Navy.

He might take for himself that aviation portfolio in the cabinet. That would prevent jealousy or anger in Army and Navy departments and is the sort of thing Mussolini would do. Perhaps we need a "sort of Mussolini."

WETS CONTROL both houses, but not by two-thirds, so they can't take the Eighteenth Amendment out of the Constitution. They can and probably will change the Volstead law. Hearts that turn toward the foaming pots of beer will probably be gratified.

It is pathetic that the richest nation in the world should rely for the solution of its money problem on a glass of beer and the amount that the drinker can be taxed.

THE WISE man who knows what it is to swim in rough water and intends to succeed in spite of depression will let somebody else have the beer.

Beer makes you sleepy, contented with yourself and the world. It is an excellent thing for the hard-working laborer, a bad thing for the man who wants to use his brain. Nothing more dangerous than a state of contentment.

Let him who must drink take good light wine, mixed with enough water to cut the alcoholic content down to two per cent.

ITALY IS interested in this election: France also, because they believe our door will be thrown wide open to foreign wines. But Italy and France will probably be disappointed.

Getting away from prohibition will be done in a grudging way, and all foreign alcoholic concoctions may be barred.

The British Empire, trying to encourage use of "empire grown wines" among its people, isn't succeeding well with its Australian and South African products. It takes a long time to change fashions in wine.

The best wines outside of France, Italy and Germany are grown here in California, Ohio and other states. American wine drinkers will probably have to content themselves with home products.

MR. HILLQUIST, Socialist candidate for Mayor of New York, got more than 250,000 votes, and Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, got a big vote. However, our "best minds" that sit, watch and wonder need not be disturbed.

Mr. Hillquist, one of the ablest lawyers in New York, extremely intelligent and practical, knows, and would tell you, if he cared to, that this country is far from any real Socialist party.

THERE WILL be "few women in the next Congress." A bad thing for Congress. A dozen sensible women as nearly as possible like Jane Addams, of Chicago, would do great good in Washington.

VERY FEW English women are able to pass the difficult examinations required to gain the high places in the British civil service. In fact, no woman passes the hardest of them, and this is called a sign of female inferiority.

The Lord did not make women to pass difficult civil service examinations. He made them to create men that can pass them.

Abraham Lincoln's mother could hardly read or write—if she could read or write at all. She couldn't pass any examination. But she did more for the world than any man in England, including any hundred university "honor men" that pass examinations easily.

What you KNOW is not as important as what you DO.

EATON ASKS SUBPENAS ISSUED IN INQUIRY

Insull Company Deals Investigated By Committee

HARRISBURG, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Oliver K. Eaton, Pittsburgh, counsel for the Senate Utility Investigating Committee, today asked that subpenaes be issued for the bank and brokerage accounts of four present and two former Public Service Commissioners.

The committee took the matter under advisement and withheld immediate decision.

Form letters asking for the financial records have been sent by Eaton to a number of former commissioners and all present commissioners.

Eaton said he had had a number of replies to his letter, but that S. Ray Shelby, Uniontown, a present member of the Public Service Commission, had not answered the letter.

BENN BALKS

The Pinchot appointees to the commission answered the letter, promising to give the committee the requested information for the period covering their services on the commission instead of for the last 10 years, saying they assumed that Eaton wanted the information only for the period of their service.

Former Commissioner James S. Benn replied to Eaton's letter that he had turned the matter over to his attorney, Ira Jewett Williams, Philadelphia, who would send an answer to the committee.

Williams' reply, as read by Eaton to the committee, stated that Gov. Pinchot, following a re-

STOCKS BULGE ON 'GOOD NEWS'

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The stock market shook off yesterday's little attack of nerves and pushed forward today under the stimulus of favorable developments, the chief of which was an increase in the Steel Corporation's unfilled tonnage.

Expressions of confidence in the future of business and in the ability of the newly elected Democratic administration to handle the situation satisfactorily were made by several important financial and industrial leaders. Cheer engendered by these statements was enhanced by favorable dividend action by a half dozen big corporations.

At the start of business stocks were little changed and drifted in a narrow range until around midday when the Steel tonnage figures showing an increase of 11,000 tons for the month of October were issued. There was an immediate upturn in the Steel stocks, followed by substantial gains in other directions.

The principal commodity markets improved also. Wheat and cotton moved forward under fairly heavy demand.

A 4-point rise in Owens Illinois Glass to a new 1932 high was outstanding the group of stocks identified with prohibition reform.

River Search Urged For Missing Auditor

Ralph E. Davis, consultant engineer, with offices in the Union Bank Building, today asked police to redouble their search for his friend, Ralph Irvine, 45, auditor, of Cincinnati, who disappeared here a week ago Sunday.

Irvine left all his effects in his room in the Fort Pitt Hotel. Davis suggested the river be dragged.

Grid Player Killed, Brother Ends Life

RAYMONDVILLE, Tex., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Glenn Lawrence, Raymondville High School football team end, who was injured two weeks ago in a scrimmage which resulted fatally for his brother, "Blondy" Lawrence, a fullback, shot and killed himself today.

Women 'Wets' Exceed Drys In Congress

MRS. EDITH NOURSE ROGERS

Feminine Members Two-Thirds for Repeal

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(INS.)—The women of the next Congress will be "wet" by a two-thirds vote.

Three veteran women members of the House, who were re-elected, will vote to submit repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. They are Mrs. Florence Kahn (Rep.), of California; Mrs. Mary T. Norton (Dem.), of New Jersey, and Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers (Rep.), of Massachusetts. The latter voted against beer last session.

Mrs. Hattie Caraway (Dem.), of Arkansas, sole woman Senator, is a dry.

But Virginia Jenckes (Dem.), of Indiana, won her House seat by ousting the veteran Representative Fred Purnell (Rep.), who was backed by the Anti-Saloon League.

Miss Kathryn O'Loughlin (Dem.), elected to the House from Kansas, is listed as a dry.

Houston Sued By Alderdice Over Job

Robert J. Alderdice, city budget controller, has filed a $50,000 suit for damages against John D. Houston, retail grocer, based on allegations Houston made in two recent letters to City Council.

The suit was filed through Attorney Howard Zacharias. In the letters to Council Houston declared, among other things, that the office of budget controller was unnecessary and a waste of the taxpayers' money. He also said Alderdice had a relative working on the payroll at the City Home and Hospital at Mayview.

CHRISTMAS BEER AIM OF WETS

Drive Opened for Action by 'Lame Duck' Congress

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—With "Beer by Christmas" as their slogan, backers of modification of the Volstead act in all parts of the nation today opened their drive for action in the short session of Congress which convenes December 5.

Although the new Congress elected Tuesday is overwhelmingly for a prohibition change, leaders of the organized wets object to a delay of months in converting what they believe is the will of the people into action. The new Congress comes into power March 4.

NO IDLE JEST

The "Beer by Christmas" slogan is no idle jest. Quick action by Congress is highly important if the average citizens in most parts of the country is to get a chance to taste beer, say the wets.

Nearly three-fourths of the state legislatures of the country meet in January and February. If Congress acts by Christmas, these legislatures will have time to consider repeal of their local prohibition law to permit sale of beer.

Even if President-elect Roosevelt should call a special session after March 4 to legalize beer, in most states action by state Legislatures would be delayed two years.

Serving notice he will press for passage of a beer bill immediately on the convening of Congress next month, Representative John J.

6 MILLION LEAD FOR ROOSEVELT

The popular plurality vote for the presidency attained by Franklin D. Roosevelt, approached the 6,000,000 mark today with one-sixth of the districts yet to be recorded. It was expected that final tabulations would bring it close to 7,000,000.

To date the popular vote of Democratic and Republican presidential candidates totaled:

Roosevelt	19,721,239
Hoover	14,018,781

Final returns from congressional contests today served only to increase the staggering Democratic majority in the new House. The Democrats also won a smashing majority in the new Senate.

No party in all the nation's history has ever won such victories in both House and Senate in a single election.

The lineup of the new Congress, as compared to the old Congress in the coming short session, follows:

SENATE

	Democrat	Republican	Farmer-Labor
Short session	47	48	1
New Congress	59	36	1

HOUSE*

Short session	221	211	1
New Congress	311	112	5

*There are two vacancies in the short session. In the new Congress seven seats are still in doubt.

The Democratic majority of (at least) 187 in the new House never before has been equalled. The majority of 22 in the new Senate matched a like margin won by the Democrats in 1854, but exceeded several times since by the Republicans.

HOOVER AID OFFERED TO ROOSEVELT

President to Start Return to Capital Tomorrow Night

PALO ALTO, Cal., Nov. 10. — President Hoover was "just loafing" today. A thousand and one weary days and nights of unremitting toil were behind him. Until tomorrow night he intends to enjoy to the fullest the relaxation afforded here at his beautiful California home.

Next week thte President will be back in Washington to wind up his administration. One of his first acts will be the issuance of an invitation to Franklin Delano Roosevelt to come to the White House and discuss methods of expediting the nation's recovery.

The Executive, it was learned authoritatively, is anxious to make good his promise he would be of "every possible helpful service" to the newly elected Democratic administration.

Recovery, he feels, is well on the road. He wants nothing to interrupt its progress. He bears no rancor over his smashing defeat at the hands of Gov. Roosevelt and is hopeful merely that a meeting of the two might produce a strengthened program to battle the depression.

Roosevelt Ridicules London Debt Visit

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 10.—(INS.)—President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt spent his first day back in Albany resting at the executive mansion and reading countless messages congratulating him on his sweeping victory.

Through his secretary, Mr. Roosevelt sent word to waiting newspapermen that he was "more tired" than he had thought and probably would remain at the mansion during the day. He canceled a lonference at the capitol with Budget Director Mark Graves, which had been scheduled for noon.

When the President-elect was informed through his secretary of reports published in London today that he had said he would visit England before taking office and that he was willing to make favorable war debt terms, he smiled and asked:

"Who's looney now?"

Bremen Sets New Atlantic Record

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(INS.)—A new trans-Atlantic speed record was set today by the North German Lloyd liner Bremen, which captured the prize from its sister ship, the Europa, by stilling its engines at Ambrose lightship 4 days 16 hours and 13 minutes after leaving Cherbourg breakwater.

The mark betters the Europa's by 23 minutes and the Bremen's own by 27 minutes at an average speed of 27.41 knots over the winter route, which is 70 miles shorter than the summer course used when the Europa's record was set.

THE NEW DEAL

FELLOW AMERICAN CITIZENS, we are all patriotically interested in the welfare of our country.

Different political affiliations have led us to take various views of what would be best for our country.

But the election is now over. The question of who are to be our leaders and what policies are to be pursued is decided.

Let us all now harmoniously realize that what has happened in the election is for our country's best benefit.

FIRST, AN overwhelming popular verdict has been rendered and if we have faith in popular government, if we have confidence in the wisdom and judgment of the people, we must bow in respect, and almost in reverence, to the might and majesty of this irresistible expression of the popular will.

Second, we must lay aside personal preferences and prejudices and estimate fairly and appreciatively the high qualities of the leaders our people, in the exercise of their liberties, have so nearly unanimously chosen.

Third, we should review again the points of the platform of the elected party and the principles and pledges of the elected candidates, and realize that there is nothing in them which is vague and evasive, nothing which is not honestly and earnestly intended to benefit our people and promote the welfare of our nation.

All that is needed, therefore, to make this benefit to our people, this ideal of progress and prosperity, an actuality in our nation, is wholehearted co-operation with our newly-elected leaders on the part of all the people of this land of ours, regardless of previous opinion and party affiliations.

MR. ROOSEVELT and Mr. Garner are entirely worthy of our confidence and co-operation.

They are both extremely able men, who have worked their way to the top and honorably won the high positions they now occupy.

They are thoroughly experienced men, having been in active American political life for a great many years.

They are vigorous, energetic, determined men, ready to meet the situations which await them, as Mr. Roosevelt met the convention at Chicago face to face, immediately and intrepidly.

They are both intense Americans. The welfare of their own people—your welfare, whether you be Democrat or Republican—will have their first consideration.

PROGRESS, PROSPERITY, national prestige are no longer around the corner. We have taken firmly the forward step and TURNED THE CORNER.

Now let us stride forward, all of us American citizens together, in confidence and in patriotic accord, to a new goal for our American republic, and let that goal be not merely the revival and restoration of the prosperity and position and degree of progress which we possessed in the past, but a better and greater accomplishment, a higher level of moral and material attainment than any nation has ever achieved before in the history of the world.

MEN LINKED IN $97,000 ROBBERY

Seized in Chicago in Trap of Pittsburgh Bond Dealer

Shrewdness of a Pittsburgh broker today was responsible for the holding of three men in Chicago, one of whom, at least, was accused of possessing bonds stolen in a spectacular raid on the First State Bank of Holland, Mich., last September 29.

The holdup, staged in dime-novel manner by 11 men with pistols, sawed-off shotguns and sub-machine guns, netted for the bandits cash and bonds totaling $97,000. A nation-wide search failed to trap the gang until the quick-witted broker sounded the alarm when attempts were made to dispose of $6,000 in bonds here.

BROKER SETS TRAP

The suspects held in Chicago are Mac Berkston, Bergston or Bergson, alias Joseph Yoder, who attempted to sell the bonds here, police say, and Julius Schrieber and Daniel Grosse, arrested in Bergston's company.

The first clue came last Friday when Berkston walked into the Pittsburgh brokerage office and asked that the bonds be sold, the check to be delivered the following day, police assert. The broker, suspicious, checked and found the bonds were "lost" securities. Notified by United States Fidelity and Guarantee Company, the following day, that they had been stolen in the Michigan holdup, the broker and the surety company—which had insured the Holland bank against theft—laid a trap.

The trap fell through when Berkston telephoned, asked that the check be sent to him in care of Faroll Brothers, prominent Chicago securities firm. An envelope with a blank slip of paper was dispatched and a trap laid in the Board of Trade Building where the Faroll offices are.

CAPTURED IN OFFICE

Berkston was captured yesterday when he called for the check; Grosse and Schrieber, who had accompanied him, were apprehended in the lobby of the building.

City Detective Lieut. Edward Harkins today said Assistant District Attorney George F. P. Langfitt decided his office would not claim the prisoner, whom Michigan authorities probably will want to extradite to Holland on more serious charges than could be placed here.

Detectives today said a man for whom they are searching had tried, last Friday, to dispose of other bonds taken in the holdup, to another brokerage firm here.

MISS BERNADINE TUCKEY

Jury Holds Her Not Intoxicated at Wheel of Auto

Bernardine Tuckey, 22, of Hazel drive, Mt. Lebanon, was acquitted yesterday on charges of driving her automobile under the influence of liquor and aggravated assault and battery.

The jury divided the costs between Miss Tuckey, Inspector Jacob Dorsey and Alyce Miller, 22, of 4308 Perrysville avenue, the latter two the prosecutors.

The charges grew out of an automobile accident February 18 on the Boulevard of the Allies when Miss Tuckey's car injured Miss Miller.

Mrs. R. B. Mellon Safe In Crash; 2 Hurt

Two persons were injured when their automobile was struck at Allegheny and Pennsylvania avenues, North Side, by a sedan owned by Mrs. R. B. Mellon and in which she was a passenger, according to a report to police.

Walter Bandi, 47, of 1301 Esplanade street, driver of the smaller car, received contusions of the left shoulder, and his wife injuries to the chest. Both were taken to the Allegheny General Hospital in the Mellon car, where they were treaeted and allowed to go home.

The Mellon car was driven by a chauffeur, Robert Cunnington, 45, of 706 South Aiken avenue. When Mrs. Mellon and the chauffeur agreed to settle damages, police reported, no arrests were made.

RIDDLED G. O. P. COUNTY LOOKS AHEAD TO MAYOR FIGHT

CONGRESSMEN, LEGISLATORS DEFEATED

Sweep of Democrats Disrupts Party Machinery

A dismembered Republican organization in Allegheny County emerging from a bewildering nightmare which saw its traditional solidarity disrupted today had turned its eyes toward the future, hoping to rebuild its fences prior to next year's municipal election.

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, with 933 of 938 districts in Allegheny County reporting, received 188,481 votes to 151,408 for Hoover, and 930 districts gave Lawrence H. Rupp 169,608 to 148,547 for James J. Davis for United States Senator.

MAYOR FIGHT LOOMS

Accepting the results of the Democratic sweep philosophically, many leaders today were discussing the mayoralty fight which occurs next year. County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern was discussed as a potential candidate by some groups, while Judge Frank P. Patterson was mentioned by others, and that by no means exhausted the field of potential aspirants.

Henry Ellenbogen, Democrat, whose eligibility to sit in the next Congress has been questioned, due to his receipt of final citizenship papers on June 17, 1926, and the constitutional requirement that seven years of citizenship is mandatory before taking office, declared he will be sworn in when the time comes. He defeated Harry A. Estep. However, if no special session is called before June 17, Ellenbogen will be eligible to take his seat.

Edmund F. Erk has questioned the loss of his Thirtieth District seat to the Democrat Twing Brooks. The figures, with one district missing, are now: Erk, 34,452, and Brooks, 35,162.

DUNN FAR IN LEAD

Guy E. Campbell, veteran Republican Congressman, is considered hopelessly behind Matthew Dunn, Democrat, in the Thirty-fourth District. The vote, with only two of 240 districts missing, is 35,493 for Campbell, and 39,985 for Dunn.

Upsets in the Legislative districts are as follows:

Second District—Brennan, 7,356, and Friel, 7,235, Democrats; Metzler, 6,890, and Maloney, 6,467, Republicans, with 5 of 42 districts missing. Politicians say the returning board count will show the Republicans winners.

Sixth District—Gallagher (Rep. and Dem.), 28,818; Kane (Dem.), 17,825; Cawley (Rep.), 14,075. The loser is Dr. William Renne (Rep.), with 13,507. Kane is president of the Pressman's Union and active in labor circles.

Seventh District — Powers (Dem.), 6,850 and McGinnis (Dem.), 6,735 are winners, with Rooney (Rep.), 5,921 and Wettach (Rep.), 5,755. Only two of 37 districts are missing.

Eighth District — Hough (Rep.), 9,116; O'Keefe (Dem.), 8,604; with Seymour (Dem.), 8,102 and Stadtlander (Rep.), 7,872. One one of 39 districts is missing.

Tenth District—Complete returns from 150 districts show two Democrats supplanted two Republicans, but Democrats expect to take the two other places when the returning board makes the official count. The totals:

William J. McBride (Rep.), 28,199; James L. Quinn (Dem.), 27,326; James H. McClure (Rep.), 27,182, and George V. Beech (Dem.), 26,955; J. H. Steel (Rep.), 26,668; William L. Callahan (Dem.), 26,561; George F. Craddock (Dem.), 26,217, and Frank J. Riddle (Rep.), 25,933.

Twelfth District—With 143 of 175 districts in, the totals are O'Rourke (Rep. and Dem.), 40,925; Steedle (Rep.), 23,560; Rectenwald (Dem.), 23,377, and Harmuth (Dem.), 22,599; Westwood (Rep.), 22,598; Boyer (Rep.), 22,517, and Travers (Dem.), 22,275. Only one vote in this total distinguishes Democratic Harmuth and Republican Westwood. Other changes in ranking are expected.

Other congressional winners returned were Clyde Kelly and M. J. Muldowney, Republicans. The remaining legislative districts likewise gave Republican victories.

PROBE P. S. C. ACCOUNTS

cent hearing of the committee, had stated that the information used by Eaton in an inquiry into the stock transactions of former Commissioner Benn had been prepared by Attorney General William A. Schnader for the Governor and given to Eaton.

The first witness at the hearing today, M. A. Miller, treasurer of the Penn Central Light and Power Company, told the committee that the financial policies of the company were directed from the New York office of the Samuel Insull holding companies.

Eaton resumed his examination of Miller when the committee reconvened, continuing a detailed inquiry into loans and bond issues involving the Penn Central.

He traced the interlocking directorates of the various Insull units in the state and had the witness identify numerous entries in the book of the now bankrupt National Electric Power Company, top company in the Penn Central group.

ORDERS FROM NEW YORK

Eaton charged that the Penn Central directorate—which included both Samuel and Martin J. Insull—merely ratified orders from New York.

Miller testified at the last hearing on October 28. At that time he was questioned about intercompany loans between the Penn Central and other subsidiaries of the Mid-West Utilities Company, part of the collapsed Insull system.

Re-payment of a $2,500,000 loan to Penn Central by Electric Engineering and Management Company, of New York, was described by Miller. He said Penn Central did not keep this money but parcelled it out to other companies in smaller loans.

Eaton said these loans were "check-kiting" transactions and that the loans were passed around in a circle which finally brought the actual cash back to its source.

'RE-ARRANGEMENT'

Miller denied Eaton's assertion and said the transactions were a "re-arrangement of loans.' He said he could not describe all of the details of these transactions as he was not familiar with them.

DEALS ATTACKED

Eaton devoted his initial attack today to two transactions which Miller testified had been made by Penn Central in compliance with instructions from New York officers, H. A. Bush, E. B. Zeigler and W. W. Bell were named by the witness as issuing various instructions in connection with the Penn Central finances. All are officers of Electric Management and Engineering, National Electric Power, Municipal Service Company and other units of the old Insull system.

A loan of $2,758,000 by Penn Central to municipal service for the Altoona and Logan Valley Railway Company was reviewed first. It was made, Miller said, on instructions from Bush.

Referring to the mounting indebtedness of the railway company, Eaton asked Miller, who was also an officer of that company, whether the railway company was not "owing immense amounts of money which they couldn't pay."

Miller said:

"No, I wouldn't admit that."

INSULL CASE FACES SNAG

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Prosecution of Samuel Insull and Martin Insull on charges of embezzlement and larceny in connection with the collapse of the vast Insull utilities holdings was a cause of speculation today.

The presidential warrant for Samuel Insull's extradition from Athens, Greece, was in Washington. Two assistants to the present state's attorney were on their way to Greece without it. And a new state's attorney will be in office before Insull could possibly be returned for trial.

State's Attorney John A. Swanson, who brought about the indictment of Samuel and Martin Insull, the latter now in Canada, was defeated by his Democratic opponent, Thomas J. Courtney.

State's Attorney-elect Courtney said:

"The Insulls will be prosecuted to the best of my ability if I find they have violated any law."

But he added that he would not have first-hand knowledge of the case until he takes office December 5.

FRANCE SEEKS BRITISH UNITY ON DEBTS

Stand By Roosevelt Stirs European Speculation

By ARNO DOSCH-FLEUROT
International News Service.

PARIS, Nov. 10.—The government of France turned to Great Britain today to determine its course of action with regard to the war debt payment due on December 15.

Premier Edouard Herriot launched active negotiations with British representatives, indicating that France is hopeful of joint action with Great Britain, or intends to follow the lead taken by London.

French government officials were outspoken in declaring that the United States elections have served to change "the entire international situation." They maintain this view in spite of denials that war debts have any connection with the Lausanne reparations settlement, disarmament and the forthcoming international economic and monetary conference.

Some French observers speculated as to whether Gov. Roosevelt, as President, will accept the negotiations carried on during the past year by Ambassador Hugh Gibson, Senator David A. Reed and Norman Davis, President Hoover's chief emissaries in the field of foreign relations.

Not only debts, but disarmament and the economic conference are hanging in the balance.

Some commentators thought it likely that consideration of all outstanding problems should be postponed until after Gov. Roosevelt's inauguration.

In this connection, it was reported the government was preparing some sort of tentative note in line with the resolution proposed in the Chamber of Deputies by Louis Marin refusing payment of the December 15 instalment. Few commentators feel that Herriot would go as far as Marin's resolution, but he is faced with the necessity of taking some step to pacify a chamber that now appears to be nearly unanimously opposed to further payments.

BRITAIN ANXIOUS

LONDON, Nov. 10.—(INS.)—Hard on the heels of the American election, Great Britain turned with anxiety today toward the question of her $95,500,000 instalment on war debts due to United States on December 15, exactly five weeks hence.

The nation looked to Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald to take the floor in the House of Commons and outline the British government's position on debts and, perhaps, make a plea to the United States for revision.

Bills Drafted for Presentation to Congress

O'Connor (Dem.), of New York, today addressed an open letter to members of the present House to get together on a measure that can be rushed through Congress. His letter said:

"It is my desire to obtain a symposuim of the views of the members of the present House of Representatives, as well as those of the Seventy-third Congress, so that whatever bill is voted upon will, as nearly as possible, represent the unanimous views of all those interested in the cause."

DEPEND ON GARNER

The wets are counting upon the prediction of Speaker John N. Garner, of the House; Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, Democratic leader of the Senate, and the action of voters on Tuesday to assure beer. Robinson said he saw no reason to delay action. Representative Celler (Dem.), of New York, said:

"I shall demand that the House Judiciary Committee meet the first week in December so that a beer bill can be passed before the Christmas holidays. It must be passed in time for Legislatures to act."

Another reason Democratic leaders see for action this winter is that Gov. Roosevelt might be relieved of the necessity of calling a special session. They remember that the special session called by President Hoover had much to do with destroying his administration in the eyes of the people. Vice President-elect Garner is understood to be strongly opposed to a special session.

HOOVER ENIGMA

President Hoover's attitude on beer is unknown. However, Senator Reed (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, after visiting the White House during the campaign, predicted passage of a beer bill this winter. This was accepted as an implied promise that the President would approve such a bill. The drys believe he would veto it.

Before Tuesday's election sale of beer after action by Congress would be legal in but six states. At the election eight states repealed local dry laws, one took prohibition out of its constitution and two others voted wet in "straw ballots."

The wet majority in the House will be overwhelming. The tabulation stood today: For repeal or modification of Eighteenth Amendment, 335; drys, 47; undecided or attitude doubtful, 53.

The Senate, too, will be wet, though by a much smaller majority. The anti-prohibitionists expect the wet sweep in western referendum elections to cause several holdover senators to change their attitude, thus increasing the wet predonderance.

States Repealing Dry Laws Have 40,000,000 Population

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(INS.)—More than one-third of the people of the country—over 40,000,000 in all—will live in states having no prohibition enforcement laws as a result of the wet avalanche in Tuesday's election.

The state laws were knocked out in referendum elections where the question of continuance of state prohibition enforcement was a clear-cut issue in eight states.

Before Tuesday's election six states, New York, Maryland, Montana, Nevada, Wisconsin and Massachusetts, with a combined population of over 20,000,000, were without state enforcement codes.

The referendum elections, on the basis of returns today, repealed dry laws in California, Washington, Arizona, Louisiana, New Jersey, Colorado and Oregon, and called for a state control system in Michigan.

In addition Connecticut voted to call on Congress to repeal prohibition. Wyoming voted for national repeal and North Dakota apparently removed prohibition from the state constitution. The states in which the state dry laws were at issue have a combined population of over 24,000,000.

250-Pound Sheriff, From Far West, For Congress

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Congress needs a football player from the Far West—a Sheriff, too, for that matter—so William I. Traeger (Rep.), of the Fifteenth California District, is going to fill both bills. This 52-year-old, 250-pound, six-footer admits it.

Sheriff of Los Angeles County, one of the numerically few native sons of the Golden State's metropolis, he played football for Stanford University from 1899 to 1902. He later coached at Pomona College and University of Southern California.

Before entering politics, he practiced law.

OHIO PROPOSES VOTE ON BEER

COLUMBUS, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—A proposal to initiate a bill in the Ohio General Assembly to legalize 2.75 per cent beer was filed today with Attorney General Gilbert Bettman for approval of its form and intent.

The proposal would amend the Crabbe act, Ohio's prohibition enforcement law, to permit the manufacture and sale of beer.

It was signed by S. P. Bush, of Columbus; Thomas Donnelly, of Columbus, secretary of the Ohio Federation of Labor; Mrs. F. Walter Bailey, of Springfield, and Mrs. Zora Cummings, of Toledo, the latter two heads of organizations for prohibition reform.

If the matter submitted to the Attorney General is approved, it will be circulated among voters preparatory to introduction in the Legislature next January.

THOMAS VOTE UNDER MILLION

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(INS.)—With late election returns indicating he apparently received only slightly more than 750,000 votes, Norman Thomas, Socialist party candidate for President, admitted today he was disappointed at the size of the vote so far tabulated.

Socialist party leaders had hoped for a vote of at least 2,000,000, while Thomas himself declared he had expected more than 1,000,000.

In 1920, when the Socialist vote reached its peak, the late Eugene V. Debs, then presidential nominee of the party, received 919,799 votes.

Thomas, back from Milwaukee, where he spent election day, reiterated his belief that President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt was given a large part of the protest vote he expected to poll.

Latest reports covering less than half the country's districts, credited Thomas with 373,692 ballots.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Incomplete figures of Tuesday's election show that Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, polled 45,299 votes in 36 of the 67 counties that unofficially tabulated the Socialist vote. The same counties in 1928, showed a Socialist vote of 12,971.

He died in St. Francis' Hospital. He was taken from the river by William Knightly and A. F. Stretiss. The case is a suicide, according to the coroner's office.

POLL FORECAST LANDSLIDE TO ROOSEVELT

Hearst Paper Survey Early Predicted G. O. P. Downfall

By COLE E. MORGAN
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—From the "first straws" in mid-August to the "final word" two days before the election, the Hearst newspapers consistently predicted the election of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt as President of the United States, and by landslide proportions.

Day after day, and week after week, for 12 weeks, the Hearst newspapers, through the analysis of returns in their nationwide postcard Presidential poll, pointed unerringly to the overwhelming defeat of President Hoover.

Here are excerpts from this prophetic log of Democratic triumph and Republican downfall:

Sunday, Aug. 14.

"First straws in the wind of the 1932 campaign are blowing in the direction of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt. With scattered returns in hand and canvassed from all the 48 states the Democratic nominee starts off with a 63 to 37 per cent advantage over his Republican opponent."

Sunday, Aug. 21.

"Two and a half to three months in advance of the November election voters of the country appear to be in opposition to the re-election of President Hoover."

Thursday, Aug. 25.

"Gov. Roosevelt in 11 states has the support of more 1928 Hoover voters than the President has."

Saturday, Aug. 27.

"The threatened revolt in the corn belt country against the re-election of President Hoover continues to grow."

Monday, Aug. 29.

"On the face of returns tabulated to date Gov. Roosevelt has a potential safe electoral vote of 332 to his credit outside of the doubtful zone."

Sunday, September 4.

"Arizona, California, Idaho, Nevada, Utah and Washington, which have not gone Democratic in a presidential election since 1916, appear two months in advance of the November election as likely to give their electoral votes this year to Gov. Roosevelt."

Sunday, September 11.

"The sweep of California by Gov. Roosevelt is no myth. It is a reality."

Monday, Sept. 19.

"The Roosevelt sweep of the Far West shows no sign of abating."

Monday, Sept. 26.

"Six weeks before the election the Far West appears safe for Gov. Roosevelt."

Monday, Sept. 26.

"A popular vote majority of 4,500,000 for Gov. Roosevelt over President Hoover is indicated by the presidential poll of the Hearst newspapers."

Sunday, Oct. 2.

"President Hoover probably will be the worst defeated President to stand for re-election in many decades."

Monday, Oct. 3.

"With the presidential campaign five weeks to go, Gov. Roosevelt looks a sure winner by a landslide electoral vote."

Sunday, Oct. 16.

"Gov. Roosevelt appears certain to poll a popular vote of 21,000,000 on November 8."

Wednesday, Oct. 26.

"The Pacific Coast, with the election less than two weeks off, can be counted beyond any question of doubt for Gov. Roosevelt. California has in prospect a half million majority. Washington looks like a Roosevelt state by approximately 115,000. Oregon seems good for 70,000 on the Democratic side."

Sunday, Nov. 6.

"Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt will be elected President next Tuesday. The Democratic nominee will have a popular plurality over President Hoover of around 4,500,000 and a clear majority over all candidates of around 3,500,000. This is on an anticipated popular vote of 37,500,000."

Statesmen, Pugilists Give Praise to Farley

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Democratic National Chairman James A. Farley tackled his mail and telegrams today and found that many eminent men had ranked him as the "greatest presidential campaign manager of all time."

Among the hundreds of congratulatory messages that he received were many from prizefighters and trainers with whom he has dealt as a state boxing commissioner.

There also were enthusiastic greetings from the nation's principal brewers, Gustav Pabst, of Milwaukee; August A. Busch, of St. Louis, and Jacob Ruppert, of New York.

A telegram from Jack Sharkey, heavyweight champion of the world, read:

"Roosevelt victory a smash-in knockout. No chances for anyone to cry robbery."

Max Schmeling, recently defeated by Sharkey, and his manager, Joe Jacobs, once very bitter toward the state boxing commission, sent a joint telegram which read:

"Congratulations on your great victory."

Senator Hiram Johnson, insurgent Republican Roosevelt supporter in California, wired:

"I take off my hat to the greatest political general of our time. You did a wonderful job."

Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, wired:

"Greatest campaign manager of them all."

James J. Corbett, former heavyweight champion of the world; Harry and Jack Warner and Sidney Kent, motion picture company executives, joined in the chorus.

Republicans Will Rule 'Lame Duck' Senate

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—The national election has given Congress into Democratic hands by margins approaching all time records, but one prize—control of the Senate during the immediate short session—was snatched from them by an extraordinary Republican rally in New Jersey.

The Democratic majority of the next House stood nearly three to one as the victorious forces swept past the 300 mark. The next Senate's strength was definitely put down at 59 Democrats, 36 Republicans and one Farmer-Labor.

Control of the Senate in the "lame duck" session turned on two elections for unexpired terms, one in Colorado, the other in New Jersey. While Karl C. Schuyler, the Republican candidate in the western state, won his race; Senator W. Warren Barbour, of New Jersey, won from his Democratic rival, Representative Percy H. Stewart. Late votes, counted after Barbour had conceded defeat, turned the trick.

This left the standing for the remainder of the old Congress at 48 Republicans, 47 Democrats and one Farmer-Labor.

While the overturn in the new Senate robbed Republican ranks of every regular leader whose seat was at stake, the devastation in the House toppled over the veteran Gilbert N. Haugen, of Iowa, who had withstood every opponent since 1899; eliminated Will Wood, of Indiana, chairman of his party's congressional campaign committee and former chairman of the Appropriations Committee; defeated Michener, of Michigan, and Purnell, of Indiana, both keystones of the Republican machine in the House, and ousted every Republican congressman from West Virginia, including Carl G. Bachmann, Republican whip of the House.

STALIN'S WIFE POISONED, ENEMIES OF SOVIET DECLARE

KILLED BY FOOD SENT HUSBAND, RIGA ASSERTS

Nadya Gave Her Life Protecting Dictator, Rumor Holds

International News Service.

RIGA, Nov. 10.—Riga, hotbed of anti-Soviet propaganda, today heard numerous rumors as to the cause of the mysterious death of Mme. Nadya Stalin, wife of the Soviet dictator.

The most persistent rumor, for which there was no confirmation whatever, was that Mme. Stalin had been poisoned. A story greedily lapped up by the anti-Soviet press reported that Mme. Stalin, who was described as the Kremlin's "court taster," fell victim to poisoned food intended for her husband's consumption.

This version further stated that Mme. Stalin died not at Moscow, but in her summer home at Gorki, a residence formerly occupied by Nicolai Lenin.

Few Friends at Red Bier Of Obscure Mrs. Stalin

MOSCOW, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—The body of Nadya Alliluieva, wife of Joseph Stalin, lay in state today in the lofty hall of the Central Executive Committee Building on Red Square, opposite the tomb of Lenin and only a block away from the Kremlin where she had lived inconspicuously for 13 years.

Flowers banked the red coffin and five uniformed comrades who were her classmates at the All-Union Industrial Academy, stood as a guard of honor while a military band played.

Even in her death the public appeared not to know that she was the wife of the most powerful figure in all Russia. Only a few people filed past the bier.

The newspapers gave her death a quarter of a page, but for all most of Moscow knew, here was only another staunch Bolshevik who had died.

The funeral will be held tomorrow in Novodevichi Monastery, where are buried the first wife of Peter the Great, the wife and daughter of Boris Gudonov, and Chekhov, the novelist.

Only a few months ago Mrs. Stalin completed a three-year course at the All-Union Industrial Academy, which qualified her as an expert in the production of artificial silk and made her eligible to a high administrative-technical post in an important section of the Soviet textile industry.

She was the youngest daughter of Sergei Alliluieva, a locksmith. In his house Stalin often found refuge during underground revolutionary activities in Tiflis, and therefore he knew Nadya virtually from childhood. At the time of their marriage he was 40 and she was 17.

When Stalin attained power his wife remained consistently in the background.

FARMERS TALK MILK PRICES

In the absence of Dr. Clyde L. King, public service commissioner, who had been chosen to act as mediator, farmers and representatives of milk dealers sought to adjust differences without an arbiter at a price-fixing conference today in the Mayfair Hotel.

Illness kept Dr. King in his home in Harrisburg, it was said.

About 100 farmers of Pennsylvania and Ohio, representing about 7,000 milk producers, members of the Dairymen's Co-operative Sales Association, were present, along with 50 representatives of larger milk dealers in the Pittsburgh district.

The farmers are demanding a flat rate instead of the present sliding scale with the present top price around $1.95 per 100 pounds. They also are insisting that they negotiate with the dealers direct instead of their representatives.

Rope Saves 3 as Flames Rise in Beechview Home

Woman, Boy Trapped By Fire Lowered to Street by Man

A woman and a boy were lowered to the street with a rope from the second-floor window of a burning house at 2128½ Broadway avenue, Beechview, by the boy's father, who also escaped the flames by sliding down the rope last midnight.

The blaze originated in a vacant storeroom on the first floor and was spreading to the second floor, where James Armenti, owner of the house; his son, John, 6, and Mrs. Emma Lohmeyer, 59, a housekeeper, were asleep.

Awakened by the heavy smoke, Mrs. Lohmeyer aroused Armenti and his son and then ran to the window. Mrs. Lohmeyer suffered cuts on the hands when the glass shattered as she attempted to open the window to summon help.

Armenti procured a rope, tied it around his son's waist and then lowered him to the street. After lowering Mrs. Lohmeyer, Armenti used the rope in sliding to safety.

Mrs. Lohmeyer's injuries were treated by a nearby physician.

The damage to the house was estimated at $2,500.

Fire of undetermined origin did $500 damage to a vacant house at 106 Gross street late last night. The house, police said, had been vacated a few hours before the blaze.

'32 NOBEL PRIZE AWARDED TO GALSWORTHY

Novelist Third Briton To Win Honor for Literary Work

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—The 1932 Nobel Prize for Literature was bestowed today upon John Galsworthy, the British novelist.

The author of "The Forsyte Saga" had been mentioned in newspaper predictions as the probable recipient of the award.

Last year's prize was won by Erik A. Karlfeldt, of Sweden. Sinclair Lewis, who received the prize in 1930, was the first American to be so honored.

FIRST BOOK IN 1898

Since 1901 when the prizes were established under the will of Alfred B. Nobel, Swedish scientist, who invented dynamite, only two other Englishmen have won the award for literature. Rudyard Kipling took it in 1907 and George Bernard Shaw in 1925.

Galsworthy, now 65, published his first novel, "Jocelyn," in 1898, under the nom de plume of John Sinjohn. It was not till 1904 that he attracted general attention with "The Island of Pharisees," the first of a series of novels dealing with problems of the social world.

The most famous of his works, of course, are those comprising the Forsyte series, which trace the fictional history of the Forsyte family in England and America.

WORKED WITH CONRAD

He also has engaged successfully in the drama, a field in which his notable productions include "Loyalties" in 1922 and "Old English," in which George Arliss was an outstanding success. He also wrote "Escape" in 1926 and "Exiled" three years later and a number of other plays.

Tradition credits Galsworthy with launching that other immortal, Joseph Conrad.

Last year's prize was worth $31,000.

PROUD, SAYS AUTHOR

ARUNDEL, SUSSEX, England, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—John Galsworthy was informed today that he had won the Nobel prize in literature. He said:

"I'm very pleased and very proud."

ATLANTIC COAST SWEPT BY GALE

Associated Press.

A tropical hurricane which bore down on the Bahamas and Cuba, leaving at least 10 dead and several score of others injured, swept up the Atlantic seaboard today until the fury of its winds had spent itself on New York, New Jersey and New England.

Rain fell hard and steady over most of the East during the night and the winds left behind a mountain of wreckage.

In New York City and New Jersey railroad and ferry service was badly crippled, cellars were flooded by tides of immense proportions and houses near the coast line were unroofed.

In New England, Connecticut and Massachusetts were especially hard hit. High winds kicked up the greatest tide in 16 years and forced hundreds of cottagers along Long Island Sound to flee their homes.

In Boston and vicinity schools were suspended for the day and an unruly sea stopped shipping. The East Boston airport was under water and all flying activities ceased.

Reaching into Southern New Hampshire and Vermont, the rain and winds tore down telephone and electric light wires and flooded highways.

STORM TERROR KILLS CHILD

LANCASTER, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—A terrific windstorm howled about the little Mennonite church at Rohrerstown last night, and Elsie Shertzer, 14, huddled closer to her father, Landis.

Windows rattled, rain pelted the panes and the noise drowned the praying of the congregation. Then the lights went out.

Elsie slumped forward in her seat. They carried her from the darkness—dead.

Physicians assert the child died of fright.

Democrat's Victory Over Oddie Assured

RENO, Nev., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Election to the Senate of P. A. McCarran, over Senator Oddie, Republican, assured Nevada of a solidly Democratic delegation in Congress.

James G. Scrugham, former governor, easily defeated S. S. Arentz, Republican incumbent, in the race for Nevada's lone seat in the House. Senator Key Pittman (Dem.) did not have to stand for re-election.

Jury in Bank Trial Told of Missing Bond

Cashier at Bellevue Accused of $73,000 Defalcation

Testimony that A. D. Smith, former secretary-treasurer of the closed Citizens Trust Company of Bellevue, was able to be about his home and talk with the bank examiner at a time when he was supuosed to have been suffering from a nervous collapse, was given today by the examiner at Smith's trial on charges of embezzlement, perjury, false entry and making a false return to the banking department.

EXAMINER TESTIFIES

Examiner Paul A. Yeager, on the witness stand yesterday, was the first witness today as the case, charging $73,000 embezzlement, was resumed.

Yeager testified he went to the bank October 23, 1931, the day it closed, and that Smith was there. A short time later, he said, Smith left for downtown. It was brought out then that Yeager had heard that Smith collapsed at the Oakland Savings and Trust Company later in the day, and had gone home to bed. Yeager said he went to Smith's house at 522 Teece avenue, Bellevue, at 4 p. m., that Smith came to the door from his second floor apartment, and admitted him. He said they went upstairs together and discussed the bank's closing.

BOND MISSING

Yeager testified as to records of the bank, including a $50,000 Liberty bond, which he said was not in the legal reserve fund of the institution. Yeager said that $33,000 in Liberty bonds was in the reserve fund.

H. E. Kirk, assistant secretary-treasurer, testified that none of the legal reserve securities were in the bank vault around September 29, 1931, about the time the bank was to file its report on its financial condition. His suspicions were not aroused by the fact that the securities were missing, he testified, and he said nothing to the directors. It was his custom to look in the vault about once a month to see if the securities were there, he said.

GENEVA RIOTS COST 12 LIVES

GENEVA, Nov. 10.—(INS.)—With all available troops on duty, virtual martial law prevailed today in Geneva, site of peace and disarmament conferences and headquarters of the League of Nations, following clashes between Swiss soldiers, Nationalists and Communists which took a toll of 12 lives.

Coincident with the arrival of three Socialist leaders from Berne, arousing fears of new riots, the City Council issued an order forbidding groups of more than two persons to congregate in the streets.

Three regiments of soldiers were mobilized and the local population was advised to remain at home. The League of Nations building will be guarded throughout the night.

An investigation into yesterday's outbreak revealed that troops were fired on by Communists from roof tops before spraying them with machinegun bullets. The Communists have threatened a general strike.

2D KAHN TRIAL JURY SOUGHT

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(INS.)—Selection of a jury was begun today at the trial of the $500,000 suit brought by Mme. Lydia Lindgren, opera singer, against Otto H. Kahn, millionaire music patron. The singer charges breach of contract.

Mme. Lindgren, known in private life as Mrs. Raoul Querze, of Flushing, Queens, is suing on the ground that Kahn failed to keep an agreement he made with her to pay her $160,000 as recompense for dropping a slander suit against Mme. Julia Clausen, another opera singer. The plaintiff further claims that her own operatic career was materially damaged by Kahn's withdrawal of his patronage of her work.

The case was tried a year ago but was dismissed on the ground that no case had been established. The Appellate Division overruled the decision of Supreme Court Justice Charles J. Druhan and ordered a retrial.

The trial today was before Supreme Court Justice Frank F. Adel, in Long Island City.

20,000 Men Back On Dodge Payroll

DETROIT, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—K. T. Keller, president of Dodge Brothers Corporation, said today that approximately 20,000 employes of the motor manufacturing company are now back on part time work preceding the introduction of a new model. He said that 10,000 more are scheduled for recall within the next two or three weeks when production opens.

JOHN D. GLAD 'GOOD MAN WON'

Praises Will Rogers' Consolation For Hoover

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 10—(AP.)—Time was when a presidential election was an important event in the life of John D. Rockefeller, Sr., but he has seen a lot of water flow over the dam in the 94 years he has lived.

"Neighbor John"—that's his designation when he comes to Florida for his annual winter sojourn—didn't discuss politics except indirectly when he arrived here this morning en route to his estate at Ormond Beach.

A Republican of long standing, Mr. Rockefeller is, as one member of his household put it, "always glad to see any good man win, regardless of party."

The founder of the Standard Oil fortune indicated his sympathy for President Hoover by calling attention to a brief article in the paper he had on his breakfast table, written by Will Rogers, the humorist. He said:

"That is something mighty fine. Will has written some very good stuff lately."

The article referred to addressed consolation to Mr. Hoover from "the whole American people," which the writer said "is no doubt greater than that ever shared by a losing President." It added:

"There is nothing personal in that vote against you."

But Mr. Rockefeller preferred to talk about the sunshine which streaked across the station platform. There have been 23 presidents to come and go since he was born. Martin Van Buren was chief executive then, and when Mr. Rockefeller first was old enough to vote, Zachary Taylor was elected.

"Neighbor John" did not lose his sense of humor and sportsmanship over President Hoover's defeat. He left his Pocantico Hills home without voting. He arrived here on the coolest morning of the winter thus far, but he was impressed most by the relatively warm sunshine.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—A new kind of first lady will step into the White House on March 4.

She is Anna Eleanor Roosevelt, an individual.

In the pastel-tinted pageantry of presidents' wives, she will stand out, a distinct and clear-cut portrait.

And when her name becomes a part of history books, she will be known as the first mistress of the White House who dared to enter that tradition-laden atmosphere as a personality distinct from that of her husband, a modern and vital woman with her own interests, her own pursuits.

There have been lovely and gracious first ladies, remembered with genuine fondness for their charms, their talent as hostesses.

But without exception their one aim has been to provide a background against which their husbands might stand out in bolder relief.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt is capable of providing that background.

BUILDS OWN CAREER

But in addition the strength of her own character, her own mind, must stand out as a force in itself.

Eleanor Roosevelt has not been content to be merely the wife of a great man.

She has built up for herself a separate career, and in the midst of the social demands upon her as the wife of a State Senator, an Assistant Secretary of the Navy and a Governor, she has found time to do the things which interest her—things which have nothing to do with the separate political career of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Half of her life she has given over to her official duties as the wife of a rising power in American politics. And that half she has done well, presiding over the social functions at the executive mansion in Albany with as much charm and tact and social ease as if that were her sole interest in life.

But the other half is her own.

And that half she has devoted to a crowded career that would absorb the entire time and interest of several less competent and energetic women.

PART SCHOOL OWNER

She has strongly marked views on most of the problems of the day. Sometimes they agree with those of her husband, sometimes they do not.

Whether or not their ideas coincide does not bother either of the Roosevelts. Each respects the other's rights as an individual. And neither tries to force opinions upon the other.

During her husband's term as Governor of the state of New York, Mrs. Roosevelt has spent the first three days of each week teaching civics and modern history in the Todhunter School for Girls in New York City, of which she is part owner.

The rest of the week she has devoted to the official dinners, the teas, the thousand duties that are part of the wife of a Governor.

FACTORY THRIVES

And, in between times, she has found time to superintend her own furniture factory in Hyde Park, where skilled workmen turn out reproductions of early American furniture. She has made of it a thriving business.

As her husband's importance in the national scene has grown, Mrs. Roosevelt has had less and less to say about her private and personal views on living social problems. But her convictions are just as strong as they ever were.

She has her own circle of friends, chosen because of genuine liking and community of interests, and not governed in the slightest by social or official restrictions.

These tried and true friends, these separate interests, she has kept apart.

She has not allowed her own pursuits to interfere in the slightest with her duties as an official hostess and as a wife of the Governor, now the president-elect. But she has kept them.

And, say those who know her best, she will continue to keep them, as wife of the President.

The intimates of Mrs. Roosevelt know that she will be as gracious and socially competent a first lady as any of her predecessors in that commanding position.

But they know, too, that she will not sacrifice her rights as an individual, even on the altar of the presidency.

Lone Republican Wins in Wyoming

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Nov. 10.—The only successful Republican contender in the Wyoming elections, on the face of 629 unofficial precincts today, was Representative Vincent Carter, of Kemmerer, who held a lead of 42,234 to 41,096 for Paul R. Greever, Democrat.

Gov. Roosevelt had 52,297 votes to 36,986 for President Hoover.

Added returns boosted the margin given the state dry law repeal measure, 537 precincts showing: For, 32,567; against, 12,239.

Minnesota's House Lineup Undecided

ST. PAUL, Nov. 10.—(AP)—A combination of a record field of 31 candidates and weather conditions today had kept in doubt the makeup of Minnesota's delegation of nine representatives in the next Congress.

Two incumbents, Paul J. Kvale, Benson, Farmer-Labor, and A. H. Andresen, Red Wing, Republican, were among the nine leaders.

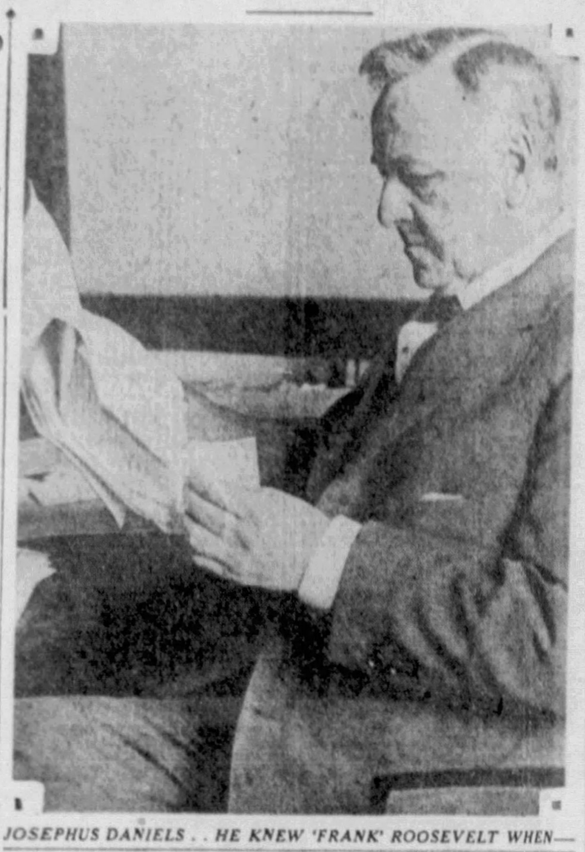
Magnus Johnson, of Kimball, Farmer-Labor, led all candidates.

Daniels Recalls Roosevelt's Victory Over State Bosses

Legislature Tied Up By 'Youngster' In First Term

By JOSEPHUS DANIELS
War Time Secretary of the Navy.
Written Expressly for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

"The boy is father to the man" may be paraphrased in Roosevelt's case to read that if you wish to know what a mature public official will do, find out what he did when he flashed his prentice sword. He and 20 other Democrats in the Legislature of New York in 1911 held that body in session so long it came to be compared to the Long Parliament. If a youngster could tie up a Legislature and compel the party bosses to let the boys "call the figgers," the country said, "You'd better keep your eye on that youngster." And he has been in the public eye ever since and much of the time in public office."



JOSEPHUS DANIELS . . HE KNEW 'FRANK' ROOSEVELT WHEN—

Started in 1910

In 1910, the Democrats of the Senatorial district in which Poughkeepsie is situated, offered young Roosevelt the nomination for the State Senate. It wasn't a bright outlook for the beginning of a political career. Only one time had a Democrat in that district been successful since 1854. In accepting the nomination, he said:

"As You know, I accept the nomination with absolute independence. I am pledged to no man; I am influenced by no special interests, and so I shall remain."

He won by a majority of 1,140. When the young Senator went to Albany, occupying seat No. 26, there was no hint of the political scrap of which he was to become the center. They labeled him "the college kid," gave him the chairmanship of the Committee on Forest, Fish and Game, little reckoning that he would soon go gunning for a favorite of the Tammany Tiger. United States Senators were then elected by members of the Legislature and that body to which Roosevelt had been elected was to choose a successor to Chauncey M. Depew, scheduled for retirement.

The Democrats had at least three men in that body who were to become national figures—Alfred E. Smith, leader of the House; Robert F. Wagner, leader of the Senate; and Franklin D. Roosevelt, a trio who have rarely known defeat in New York state. Their names in the Empire State spell victory.

Defied Bosses

The bosses, who controlled a large majority of the Democratic caucus, had selected William F. Sheehan to wear the senatorial toga. He was a lawyer of ability who represented big interests and it was believed by Roosevelt and others that if he was elected he would not vote very differently on the issues affecting big business from Platt and Depew.

Anyhow, Roosevelt saw the danger and didn't like Sheehan's so-called conservatism and nearness to the big bosses. He said:

"I was elected on an anti-boss platform. We made it the issue. We knew it was the burning question in the people's minds, and it makes no difference to me now which party the bosses try to run."

The bosses gave little heed to what they thought was the ineffectual kicking up of the heels of a young political colt. Should they make their fight in the caucus or out? They asked Al Smith, leader of the House, for the rule as to obligation to caucus action. He said:

"Boys, I want you to go into the caucus. If you go in, you're bound by the action of the majority. That's party law."

The Insurgents elected to stay out, and issued a pronunciamento that they would stay out of the caucus until Sheehan's name was withdrawn.

Won Battle

Said Murphy:

"They'll be out a long time."

He was right. They stayed out 60 days. Sheehan lacked 10 votes of election, and nine more joined the 21 Roosevelt insurgents. Two months passed. No election of a Senator. Then Murphy capitulated. Judge O'Gorman, a progressive judge and member of Tammany, committed to the support of Woodrow Wilson for President, was elected. Roosevelt said:

"We would have taken O'Gorman in the beginning and have been perfectly satisfied."

By voting for him, Roosevelt and his associates disproved the charge that they were opposed to Sheehan because he was a Catholic, for O'Gorman was of that faith, or hostile to a Tammany man if he met the requirements. The difference was in the attitude toward progressive policies. The Insurgents had won.

Roosevelt no longer "insurged." He worked with his party associates for enlightened and humane legislation. Most of the insurgents were defeated for re-election, but Roosevelt was returned by an increased majority. He captured a large farmer vote, usually Republican. That is what he did when he ran for Governor. Again many Republican farmers voted for him for President. Why? They saw he had a clear understanding of the new day and was sympathetic with agricultural reforms.

Real Progressive

It was victorious fighting that gave Roosevelt his place in the political world.

The day of lip service to Progressive principles and policies at Washington will end the hour Roosevelt is inaugurated. To the marrow of his being he is a Liberal Progressive and will make his administration one free from Standpatism and Favoritism.

Only Progressives will be on guard and in command in his administration. There will be no place for those who lack the stomach to fight for the carrying out of the pledges made by the party platform and his own promises. Only those who believe in "the New Deal," and are ready to enlist for the war to put it in operation, will officer the mighty army that on Tuesday was entrusted with carrying into effect a peaceful revolution in principles and methods.

As a boy, though he could not vote, Franklin Roosevelt preferred Bryan to McKinley because he saw the Bryan campaign of 1896 as a turning away from the static forces which had permitted the gobbling up of most public resources and the control of government by the few and for the few. He felt that Bryan's real crusade was against Privilege.

The next installment of Josephus Daniels' story of Franklin D. Roosevelt will appear in tomorrow's Sun-Telegraph.

Edison could not have passed any of those examinations.

WHILE WE talk about sweet peace, using taxpayers' money sending observers abroad to persuade France and Italy not to tear each other's eyes out, wise France goes ahead protecting herself in the present and preparing for the future.

The principality of Monaco, with the big gambling house on the edge of the Mediterranean, entirely surrounded by French soil, has kept its independence because it was polite to Napoleon, and the Prince of Monaco has been an independent ruler.

Now he accepts $500,000 in cash, $150,000 a year for himself and his descendants. Monaco becomes French, and will be taxed by France, and FRANCE HAS PERMISSION TO FORTIFY THE BIG MONACO ROCK IN CASE OF WAR.

C. M. SCHWAB, who has known what it was to hand one thousand dollar bills around, in charity, as freely as the average man hands out cigarets, returns from Europe saying:

"The worst is over, but DON'T BE TOO OPTIMISTIC."

Excellent advice.

The best way to be not "too optimistic" is to work hard and THIS TIME save part of what you get.

When steel production amounted to 20,000,000 tons Mr. Schwab told the late J. Pierpont Morgan that production would go much higher.

It did go to 56,000,000 tons. Schwab says now that it will go even higher than that, and, of course, it will. Men have only begun to build. More steel than has ever been used will be needed for high airplane landings alone.

LAWYERS SAY that circumstantial evidence is better than the testimony of witnesses, because human beings don't remember accurately. They do not, indeed.

The temporary Mayor of New York, Joseph V. McKee, who made an excellent impression, was not nominated for the permanent job. One hundred and forty thousand voters wrote his name on the ballot, and they spelled it SEVENTY-EIGHT DIFFERENT WAYS.

IN OCTOBER about 105,000 telephones were taken out of service in the United States. Ninety thousand were discontinued in September, 201,000 in August.

Strange that so many should relinquish the three things that are, practically, most important in the way of modern convenience, automobile, radio, telephone.

LaFollette Predicts Progressives' Union

ERIE, Pa., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Senator Robert LaFollette, of Wisconsin, Progressive, is "highly gratified at the course taken in Tuesday's election" and believes "Progressive Republicans will cooperate with Democrats in everything constructive."

Commenting on prohibition, the Senator, here for a lecture last night, said the "need for additional revenue will aid in bringing the return of liquor sales."

HOOVER'S LEAD IN STATE NOW 163,187

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Latest incomplete and unofficial figures of the presidential election in Pennsylvania give President Hoover a plurality of 163,187.

Returns from all but 77 districts give Hoover 1,437,951 and Roosevelt 1,274,764.

Senator James J. Davis has a plurality over Lawrence H. Rupp, his Democratic opponent for United States Senator, of 176,223 in 8,029 of the 8,199 districts in the state. Totals: Davis, 1,345,930; Rupp, 1,169,707.

STATE TICKET WINS

All Republican candidates for state offices received substantial pluralities in the incomplete returns. Latest figures show:

Auditor General, 50 counties, Waters (Rep.), 1,003,027; Shannon (Dem.), 788,944.

State Treasurer, 49 counties, Baldwin (Rep.), 1,000,755; Sarig (Dem.), 774,267.

Supreme Court, 47 counties, Linn (Rep., 963,631; Higbee (Dem.), 761,404.

Superior Court, 48 counties, Republicans, Parker, 937,196; James, 898,404; Stadfeld, 897,531; Democrats, Henderson, 716,141; Douglas, 678,214; McWherter, 683,956.

Incomplete figures show that Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, polled 45,299 in 36 of the 67 counties that unofficially tabulated the Socialist vote. The same counties in 1928 polled a total vote of 12,971. In the 1932 total of 45,299, Philadelphia contributed 12,726 as against 2,439 in 1928.

ASSEMBLY GAINS

In the wake of the national landslide, Democrats practically tripled their membership in the General Assembly.

In the Senate, for which complete returns were available today, they held six of the 50 seats. In the House, with 10 Allegheny contests unreported, they won 59 of the 198 decided contests. During 1931-32 they held two senate and 22 House seats.

The Democratic gains assumed additional importance in view of the Gov. Pinchot-Republican organization battles which have marked the Assembly sessions of the last two years. Democrats may hold the balance of power in the House.

In electing 11 members of Congress, Democrats made a gain of eight, a big inroad into the delegation of 34 Pennsylvanians. A gain of 36 seats was made by Democrats in the Assembly and a gain of four in the State Senate.

MARTIN'S VIEWS

Despite this epochal upset, Gen. Edward Martin, State Treasurer and chairman of the Republican State Committee, said in a statement issued at Harrisburg that he was proud of Pennsylvania for the part it played in the national elections. He said:

"In the face of a landslide, which was more like an earthquake, the voters of the Keystone State were steadfast to the principles of the party which has moulded the American nation.

"There is a lot of glory in all this and I congratulate the people who did it."

Billiard Champion To Take Seat in New Congress

EVERETT, Wash., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Monrad C. Wallgren, Congressman-elect and national amateur billiard champion, takes both his billiards and politics seriously.

In 1929, he won the national 18.2 balkline title from Percy Collins, of Chicago. He is still Pacific Coast and Pacific Northwest champion.

Democratic voters of the Second Washington Congressional District chose him to succeed Lin H. Hadley, Republican veteran of nine congresses.

Wallgren is 41 and a jeweler.

RUPP DEBATES DAVIS CONTEST

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Nov. 10.—(INS.)—The seating of James J. Davis, re-elected United States Senator from Pennsylvania, may be contested, it was learned today. Lawrence H. Rupp, his defeated opponent, said:

"If there is any evidence of an extensive fraud or excessive use of money at Tuesday's election I will take action.

"At present I have no proof of irregularities, but several friends have suggested that a checkup of the returns should be made, and I have agreed that this be done.

"Watch will be kept on the count in Philadelphia and other counties.

"I am taking this step merely as a precaution and will proceed only in the event that gross irregularities are revealed."

S. Davis Wilson has accepted, at the request of Rupp, the appointment as counsel to represent his interests in the investigation of the vote cast for United States Senator in Pennsylvania and in connection with a probable protest to be made to the United States Senate against the seating of Senator Davis.

Beaver Senator, Vet Of 4 Terms, Loses

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Nov. 10.—Fred W. Patterson, of New Brighton, member of the Legislature from Beaver County for four terms, was defeated by Eugene A. Caputo, Democrat, of Freedom. The vote was Patterson 6,344, Caputo 8,599. Although Hoover carried the county by 653, Congressman J. Howard Swick lost to his Democratic opponent, Samuel B. Wilson. The vote of Lawrence and Butler counties elected Swick. Assemblyman Alonzo S. Bachelor, Monaca, Republican, was elected State Senator. Two Republican candidates in the Second Legislative District, A. M. F. Stiteler and Harold E. Crag, were elected.

Oklahoma Defeats Murray's Tax Plan

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—The same unequaled tide of Oklahoma ballots that washed the state's first complete Democratic ticket into power, today had drowned Gov. Murray's initiated income tax measure by a margin of more than 15,000 votes. The bill was designed to boost rates on large incomes to a maximum of 10 per cent.

Two impeached former governors were elected to state offices—"Jack" Walton, as State Corporation Commissioner, and Henry S. Johnston as a State Senator.

WAR DRAMA ON WCAE -:- Woodside Hero In Battle Story -:- LONDON STARS ON AIR

Veterans to Join in Armistice Programs Featuring Radio Broadcasts Tonight

A dramatization of the World War battle in which Capt. Robert G. Woodside's activities won for him the Distinguished Service Cross is presented by an all-star cast under the direction of Ed Harvey from the studios of WCAE tonight, topping a varied list of Armistice Eve programs. During the broadcast, scheduled for 11 p. m., the County Controller gives a brief talk. One of the greatest arrays of ex-service men offered on any radio program marking the end of hostilities participates.

Capt. Woodside

In addition to Woodside, Paul H. Griffith, state commander of the American Legion, and Gen. Edward C. Shannon, Lieutenant Governor of Pennsylvania, also speak. As a special feature, Lieut. James McF. Hays, who served in the Navy, contributes a wartime story of the sea. The musical portion of the program, presented under the direction of David Levin, formerly of the Navy, includes authentic songs of all nations engaged in the conflict.

Harvey, program manager of WCAE, who prepared the presentation, served with the 48th Highlanders of Canada and the 3rd Brigade, 1st Canadian Division, for almost five years.

Other pre-Armistice Day programs today include: Tribute to the A. E. F. by the United States Army Band, WJAS at 4 p. m.; the broadcast premiere of "The New Earth," Henry Hadley's ode on the part America played in the war, featuring the Chicago a capella choir and a symphonic orchestra, KDKA at 8; broadcast from the banquet of the 111th Field Artillery at the Fort Pitt Hotel, with addresses by Lieut. Gov. Shannon and Maj. Gen. Price, KQV at 8 p. m.

Tomorrow's Armistice Day features are: Nationwide network (WCAE, WJAS and KDKA) observance of the one-minute silence at 11 a. m.—the time at which hostilities ceased on November 11, 1918; "Lest We Forget," a special dramatic and musical production, WCAE at 2:30; a talk by Estelle Greenawalt Dillon, who served at the front during the war in the motor and ambulance units, WCAE at 3:30; Armistice Day memorial service for Woodrow Wilson, wartime President, with Newton D. Baker, President Wilson's Secretary of War, as principal speaker, WJAS and KDKA at 4 p. m., and England's Armistice Day Remembrance Festival in the Albert Hall, London, WCAE at 3 o'clock.

Program Pointers

Two leading English stage artists — Colin Keith-Johnston, star of the London and New York productions of "Journey's End," and Jack Buchanan, now in America for the opening of his new motion picture, "Magic Night"—are featured with Rudy Vallee and his Connecticut Yankees over an NBC network, including WCAE, tonight at 8 o'clock. Helen Broderick, star of Earl Carroll's "Vanities," with her vaudeville partner, Lester Crawford, and Eddie Peabody, celebrated jazz banjoist, also are starred on the program. Miss Broderick, Crawford and Buchanan offer songs and comedy, while Keith-Johnston presents a scene from "Journey's End."

Miss Broderick

Jack Denny, leading his famous orchestra, offers a group of currently popular Broadway melodies, including "Hold Up Your Hand," "This Is No Day Dream," "Love Is My Inspiration" and "With a Song In My Heart," on WJAS at 8:45.

Listening In

Wynn Leads Poll.
Melton's 35 Hats.
Hall's 'Third Degree.'

As ballots in the United-American Bosch Radio Star popularity poll continue to pour in, standings in various groups are changed to a considerable degree. Ed Wynn continues to lead in the comedians' division; Kate Smith takes first place in the singers' group, with Connie Boswell second and Jessica Dragonette third, and Ernest Hutcheson piles up votes for the lead among instrumentalists, with Rubinoff second . . . Others leaders in the poll are Frank Read-

Miss Boswell

ick, actors; Guy Lombardo, orchestra leaders; Ted Husing announcers, and Myrt and Marge, miscellaneous programs.

Arthur Allen, of the Stebbins Boys, sailed last week for Havana on his first vacation in five years.

Hah! Eddie Cantor, bright-eyed comedian with Rubinoff, was elected "president" in an election concluded last week in Washington. The "election," conducted by the Chamber of Commerce of that city, is held regularly—all for the fun of it because residents of the district are disfranchised by law . . . and here's Eddie's "thank you" wire:

"Please convey to the voters of Washington, D. C., my congratulations for having selected the best possible man for their needs stop by the way what are their needs stop have selected my entire cabinet today Mickey Mouse stop if you dont hear from me for the next month Ive gone fishing using four or five photographers for bait Eddie Cantor."

It's all in the family . . . Freddie Rich, the maestro, is a brother of Thaddeus Rich, violinist with the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, and Albert Rich, tympanist in the New York Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra . . . Fred Berrens is the son of the noted Jewish actor, Bernard Bernstein . . . Andre Baruch, the announcer, is a nephew of the financier, Bernard Baruch . . . Bud Collyer, CBS vocalist, is the brother of June Collyer, popular screen star . . .

James Melton admits only one extravagance—he owns 35 hats.

Competing with Sigmund Spaeth, the "Song Sleuth," Jack Pearl as the modern "Baron Munchausen" is causing fan mail writers sleepless nights trying to spell his name . . . Letters addressed "Montchozen," "Mumcharzin," "Monchazin," "Monchauser," "Moncion" and "Bunchauser" all find their way eventually to his excellency, the Baron . . . and many listeners, probably fearing complications, resort to such simple devices in addressing mail as "the Baron," "His Excellency, the Baron" and "Oh, Baron!"

Big Bill Hall was forced to submit to a near "third degree hazing" after a recent recital at a Police Association meeting . . . As Bill finished singing, a husky Irishman in the rear shouted:

"Say, I know you. Your name isn't Hall. It's Langman, and you're the son of Capt. Langman and brother of Patrolman Langman." . . . So Bill admitted his identity.

Price Imitates Eddie Cantor

Georgie Price sings songs—a la Eddie Cantor—from Eddie's new picture, "The Kid from Spain," as a WJAS highlight at 7:45.

The romantic story of "Red Rover," a Robin Hood of pioneer days, is the "Death Valley Days" dramatization heard over KDKA at 9.

The half-melancholy intonations of the jazz comedian, Ted Lewis, are adopted by Ward Wilson at 7:15 on KDKA.

Fray and Braggiotti, the CBS piano duo, introduce another novelty—interpretations of "Lady Be Good" as George Gershwin wrote it and as Chopin would have composed it—and a musical version of Joyce Kilmer's poem, "Trees," on WJAS at 10:45.

Effective today, the "Sonata Recital" formerly heard Saturday night on WWSW, moves to a 3:30 p. m. Thursday spot.

Drama Bares Thurston War Role

The true story of how Howard Thurston assisted the secret service in apprehending a spy is dramatized on NBC-KDKA at 8:45 p. m. The tale involves a plot to destroy a transport of American soldiers en route to France during the World War.

Ceremonies attending the presentation of the 1932 Medal for Good Diction on the Radio to David Ross, CBS staff announcer, are broadcast over coast-to-coast NBC and CBS networks, including WCAE and WJAS, today at 2:30 and 3 o'clock respectively.

Frank La Forge, internationally-known concert pianist, inaugurates a series of weekly musicales featuring his outstanding pupils today at 3 o'clock over WJAS.

PAIN DEADENED CHEST COLDS LOOSENED WITHOUT DRUGS

Get quick relief from neuralgia pain, sciatica pain, neuritis pain, rheumatic pain, lame back, stiff neck, headache, strains and chest colds by rubbing plenty of Baume Bengué (pronounced Ben-Gay) on the spot. It doesn't blister or stain. Rub it in till it sinks down and soothes the pain or breaks up the chest cold. Take no drugs, for any drug that is powerful enough to "deaden" pain or loosen a chest cold may not be good for you.

But beware of imitations. Ask your druggist for Baume Bengué by name (called "Ben-Gay" in English). There are many analgesic baumes, mostly cheap imitations of Ben-Gay made out of synthetic drugs. That is why they are cheap. That is also why they are ineffective. Insist on Ben-Gay and you will get real results.

GARBAGE BURIAL PLAN UPHELD

Representatives of the Joseph Miele Company of Maplewood, N. J., low bidder on the city garbage contract outside of the North Side, have defended the company's plan of burying the refuse in a strip coal mine in Patton Township.

The company's stand was given yesterday by two engineers, Norman S. Sprague and George W. Schusler, of Pittsburgh, in the presence of City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt, and Dr. P. E. Marks, St. Clair Cooper and Charles Parkinson of the Department of Health.

No action was taken by the city officials.

The Miele company is low bidder on the garbage contract for the city, excluding the North Side, their bid being $5.95 a ton as compared with the American Reduction Company's bid of $6.58 a ton. On 80,000 tons a year the city would save $50,400 by awarding the contract to the low bidder.

The city garbage disposal specifications forbid the dumping of garbage inside or outside the city limits. The company's engineers contend that "dumping" is not contemplated, and that burying is a different proposition, an old and accepted method of disposal used in many cities.

Pennington Scorns Talk of Politics

John D. Pennington, prohibition administrator for the Pennsylvania-Delaware-New Jersey district, who arrived in Pittsburgh yesterday, announced he is not concerned as to the political aspect of prohibition.

DUNLAP SAVES ON COFFEE

The opening of the port of Santos, Brazil, blocked for a time by revolution, has resulted in the city's coffee requirements for Mayview and the Municipal Hospital being filled at lower prices.

The Young-Mahood Company was awarded contracts for 15,000 pounds of coffee for Mayview, and 250 pounds for the Municipal Hospital on low bids of 14.4 and 15.4 cents a pound, according to W. R. Dunlap, director of the Department of Supplies.

Dunlap threw out coffee bids late in September while the port of Santos was closed. The lowest price then was 17.5 cents a pound.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—A divorce from Lionel R. V. Margolies, film art director, has been awarded to Mrs. Lala Claire Margolies, daughter of a wealthy Antwerp and New York diamond merchant. She accused Margolies of cruelty.

Superior Judge Georgia Bullock, who awarded Mrs. Margolies the divorce, ordered the art director to pay her $50 monthly for the next six months.

Drys Seize Liquor In East End Raid

Twenty-six bottles of gin and 24 pints of whisky were confiscated yesterday by prohibition agents in a raid on a speakeasy in Station street near Frankstown avenue, according to the agents' report. Rex Ray was arrested.

In Shore avenue, McKees Rocks, the agents reported seizing an automobile and 30 gallons of moonshine and arresting Emil Leon and Michael Dursi.

Fight colds this year at one-third the ordinary cost

PEPSODENT ANTISEPTIC is 3 times as powerful as other leading mouth antiseptics. Hence it goes 3 times as far. And whether you buy the 25c, 50c, or $1 size, you still get 3 times as much for your money.

THE children—the whole family—can escape more colds this year. Can get quicker relief from those they catch. And you can save $2 out of every $3 by using Pepsodent Antiseptic. The money you save results from Pepsodent's remarkably high germ-killing power.

Here's the difference!

It's a simple problem of arithmetic. Pepsodent is three times as powerful as other leading mouth antiseptics—by adding water it goes three times as far—gives you three times as much for your money—and gives you extra protection against sore throat colds and unpleasant breath.

The old-fashioned mouth washes must be used full strength to be effective. So Pepsodent Antiseptic was made powerful enough to be diluted and still kill germs in less than 10 seconds—yet it is completely safe when used full strength.

Don't risk health

It's costly enough to use a mouth wash that should be used full strength. But it's more costly to dilute that mouth wash and not kill the germs. That's why we warn you to choose an antiseptic that, even when diluted, kills germs. Insist on Pepsodent Antiseptic—and be safe. Safeguard health and save money.

IMPURE BREATH (Halitosis)

The amazing results of Pepsodent Antiseptic in fighting sore throat colds prove its effectiveness in checking Bad Breath (Halitosis). Remember, Pepsodent is 3 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics. Remember, even when diluted with water it still kills germs.

Some of the 50 different uses for this modern antiseptic

Cold in Head; Throat Irritations; Voice Hoarseness; Bad Breath; Cold Sores; Canker Sores; Mouth Irritations; After Extractions; After Shaving; Minor Cuts; Blisters; Loose Dandruff; Checks Under-Arm Perspiration; Tired, Aching Feet

FEDERAL RAIL RULE OPPOSED

Speaking at a luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday, Samuel O. Dunn, of Chicago, editor of "Railway Age," opposed government ownership of railroads, and advocated "equality of opportunity to compete with other carriers." He said in part:

"If net earnings can be increased under private ownership, then government ownership is unnecessary. If net earnings are not to be increased, then government ownership would result in a deficit which would merely increase the burden of taxes under which the entire public is now groaning."

COURT WARNS LATE COMERS

Charging that it was the inclination of attorneys and their clients to regard the court as subject to their convenience, Judge Frank P. Patterson issued a warning late yesterday that bonds would be forfeited unless the defendant appeared in court by 11 a. m.

He further ordered postponements of cases be granted only in extreme cases. He said the courts will have no future time for cases postponed now.

Marie L. Aebersold, 1214 Allegheny avenue, in presenting her divorce case to Judge James H. Gray testified her husband frequently choked her. She was married to Louis A. Aebersold, a baker, in 1925, when she was 17.

She said her husband worked but little at his trade and came home intoxicated almost daily. She declared she had not seen or heard from him for two years.

Auto Toll Compared To Gettysburg Loss

Automobile accidents in Pennsylvania every two years claim as many lives as were lost in the battle of Gettysburg, according to a statement by the Pittsburgh Motor Club. Officers of the club predicted motor accidents and deaths in 1932 will be less than last year.

BUSINESSMEN ASKED TO WAR ON BONUS

Carlton Ketchum, executive committee member of the Anti Bonus Veterans' Equity League, has issued an appeal to businessmen opposed to immediate bonus payment to join the campaign of the National Economy League.

The appeal was made yesterday at the Rotary Club's luncheon in the Fort Pitt Hotel. Ketchum besides condemning the bonus payment, stressed opposition to existing measures providing allowances for veterans not disabled in the war, and concessions given "able-bodied discharged emergency officers." Declaring there are at least 6,000 of the latter group, he said:

"They are receiving $7,000,000 more each year than their widows and children would if they had been killed in action."

CLASSES VETERANS

Ketchum placed veterans in three classifications, as follows:

"First, what we may call the legion group, as representing all the established veterans' societies. It is broken into two elements, the regulars who agree with its present policies, and are the majority, and the dissenters. The regulars consist of the typical organization men; the joiners; of the paraders; of the purely physical types who attend meetings for the entertainment and the refreshments; the emotionally excitable, and some true idealists of the very democratic school. At present, this controlling element in the legion also includes a large number of men who are remarkable in no way, but are confused and resentful over general conditions. This whole group is led and controlled by the politicians, professional or legion.

"The dissenting element includes many men with the organization concept who are also idealists, peacetime as well as wartime patriots.

ANTI-LEGIONNAIRES

"Second, there's the anti-Legion group. This contains most of the Bourbons, also those idealists who are individualists rather than organization men, and a number of plain ordinary 'ferninsters.' This crowd has never done anything for the veterans, and as a group is unlikely to do much for the country.

"Third, and most numerous by far, is the unorganized group. This is at least three-fourths of the whole number of veterans. Among them are some friendly to the Legion—how many, no one knows; a section hostile to the Legion viewpoint, and that, too, cannot be measured; a good many who don't even think of themselves as veterans and many whose opinions are so nebulous or fluctuating that can't be counted anywhere."

BEAVER, Pa., Nov. 10.—County detectives and state police are looking for a hunter who wounded William Hastings, 35, of Freedom, 14 times in the face, arms and head with bird shot. After firing at Hastings the hunter disappeared in the woods.

Genuine Test of Skill Offered For Expert Solvers of Ciphers

Only 'Key' to New One Is That It Is Historic

Today cipher No. 8 should puzzle a few of you cipher fans who complain about easy puzzles.

Sharpen the old pencil and remember the only tip you can have is that the subject and the key is historic. That won't help you much, the Cipher Editor hopes; his life's ambition has become to stump a few of the fans.

And if you tend toward swelled heads, remember the "Sunset" cipher and don't boast.

Yesterday's Sun-Telegraph Cipher No. 7 was easy if you perceived it was a rectangular affair, seven letters over and nine lines deep and read diagonally.

Here's the answer:

ASCOA STBNF PISUE OUNEQ
AECOR DCMCI TNAAI TOIVS
DENME IDREA TTNTS XINIS
SDX

SOLUTION

Transposition cipher—Simple diagonal.

This is a simple transposition cipher. Arrange in rectangular form, as below and then start with the first letter on the left, followed by "B" below—and read diagonally.

VETS ARRANGE ARMISTICE FETE

World War veterans of the Pittsburgh district began mobilizing here today for the anniversary of Armistice Day.

Distinguished visitors were to be greeted by the men of their old commands. Maj. Gen. Adelbert Cronkhite was to be welcomed by a group of 80th Division veterans. With him will be Col. E. G. Peyton, leader of Pittsburgh's 320th Infantry Regiment. A dinner will be held by Company K, 320th Infantry in the Mayfair Hotel tonight.

A royal welcome awaited Brig. Gen. E. C. Shannon, lieutenant governor of Pennsylvania and former commander of the 111th Infantry. The regimental banquet will be held in the Fort Pitt Hotel tonight. Tomorrow the annual military ball of the organization will be held in Islam Grotto Temple on the North Side.

Veterans to Attend Memorial Service

An Armistice Day memorial service will be held by the Ralph McNulty Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, in the form of a solemn high mass tomorrow at 8:45 a. m. in St. Kieran's Church, Lawrenceville. Post members will march from Fifty-fourth street and Carnegie avenue to the church. The Rev. John A. Sullivan, of Duquesne University, will deliver the sermon.

Legion Will Oppose Second Bonus March

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Louis A. Johnson, national commander of the American Legion, addressing a legion meeting here last night said:

He said, however, that the legion "would fight vigorously" for immediate payment of the bonus.

BING & BING MANAGEMENT

SUSPECT OWNS GOOD MEMORY

Francis O'Donnell, alias "Doc" O'Brien, of Norristown, member of an alleged bandit gang, has a keen memory, South Side police agreed today.

O'Donnell, sought for almost a month, was found yesterday in the city hospital at Mayview, where he was sent following his arrest several weeks ago in the downtown section.

Precinct detectives took O'Donnell to the stores which the gang had robbed. On nearly every one he corrected the victims on the amount of cash stolen. Some of the victims underestimated, but O'Donnell put them right.

Seven other members of the gang were captured October 16, following a North Side store holdup, and are now awaiting trial.

Objectionable Situations Should Be Met

Should mamma pick up after papa?
Or is he just a big baby if he expects her to?
Alma says she shouldn't, and he is.

Myrtle started the argument. She was a June bride, and before she marched up the aisle with the big boy and went to nest-keeping with him, she thought he was just perfect. Then—

"I am so discouraged!" she wailed. "I was raised to be neat and orderly, and he just drops his clothes where he takes them off, and leaves damp towels all over the bathroom, and I don't know what to do!"

Alma had that kind of husband, too. But did she put up with it? Or fight with him about it? Get in on her broadcast and see.

SAME EXPERIENCES

Dear Sally:

I've read Perplexed Myrtle's letter and your answer, and though I usually agree with you, I think you are wrong when you say that her new husband's disorderliness shouldn't disturb her too much. So I want to tell her of my experience. Maybe it will help her.

My grandmother had five children, and a husband who expected to be picked up after and waited on. He was a fine man, but, according to my notions, such a big baby—worse than their children. My grandmother simply wore herself out picking up after them all.

My mother and father were very devoted and she, like her mother, was very neat. But she didn't pick up after Dad. He learned to do it for himself, and he respected her for making him.

The boy I married eight years ago was neat and clean, but, like Myrtle's boy, he left things here and there, wherever he finished with them. At first I picked them up, too, and held my tongue. But what I didn't think!

TALKED TO HIM

Well after a few months I woke up. Here I was, picking up after a big he-man as though he were a little child. I wouldn't do it for my children when they came. I knew that.

So I didn't quarrel with him about it, but one night I had a little quiet, friendly talk with him. And I think he was a little bit ashamed when I pointed out (in a nice way) what a big baby he was to leave things around like that and expect to be waited on.

Well he has tried to be more orderly since then. I never nagged him about it when he forgot, but I jokingly reminded him of it.

Now, after eight years, you'd never know him. Everything is put away, and he is such a dear about helping me.

We have two wee girls, one 6 months old and the other 4½ years. We are such a happy family. Neatness and order reign supreme. Even the little girl keeps her room and playhouse neat and clean.

I have my hands full, but with the help and love my husband gives me my tasks are not heavy. He respects me because I stand up for myself. It is 50-50 with us in everything.

NECESSARY IN MARRIAGE

So, Myrtle, look ahead to the little family you may have and work for their happiness. Win, though, with a smile and lots of love, but stand firmly on your own feet. Don't let yourself be a doormat. Lead that husband of yours by a thread and you'll have him eating out of your hand and not expecting you to be just a housekeeper. ALMA.

That's a fine letter, Alma. And you're right. It's bad business to quarrel; but it's worse business to let a situation accumulate which will poison a home with self-pity and resentment. When such a situation arises, have it out with the other fellow!

Marriage is as much a business as any other. You'd talk straight to a business partner over any condition which was harming the firm. Then talk straight to your life partner.

And that goes for more than picking up after others. It goes for every pesky complication that arises in marriage. Meet 'em with love. Meet 'em with tact. But meet 'em! For if you don't, marriage will go out on the big wind—and you'll be left wondering how it all happened.

FAY KING

By FAY KING

Jokesters tell us that water is only for washing and running under bridges.

But water is as important as food or earth for human, animal or plant life.

A man can live longer without food than he can without water. Crops in the finest soil perish for want of rain.

I lately took a "sick" geranium plant to a florist "doctor" for advice, and was told it needed water. But I had been watering it. Those sprinklings were not enough.

It must be put into water covering the whole pot, for a good long drink.

To my amazement it drank up two big basins full of water. It has grown green and revived to beauty and is sprouting three tiny new leaves.

The wonders of water!

Contract Bridge

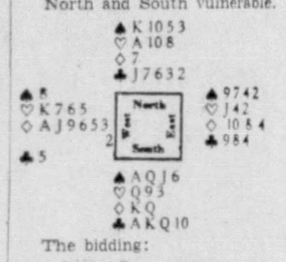
-:- How to Play -:-
How to Win

By Josephine Culbertson

An Interesting End-Play

One of the favorite bids of many Contract players is what has been described as an inhibitory notrump bid—a bid made over an adverse Opening bid, without a stopper in the suit bid, but having as its basis a long escape suit to which the player may run if doubled. The setting, of course, for such a bid must be that the other side is vulnerable and that the maker of the bid is not. Occasionaly, this bid produces a most satisfactory result, but at other times it does not work so well, as, for instance, in the hand below, which was played in a Duplicate game at the Cavendish Club, New York, the inhibitory bid furnishing to the Declarer the clue to the correct play of the hand.

South—Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.



The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	1 N T (1)	Double (2)	Pass
Pass	2 ◇ (3)	3 ♠ (4)	Pass
6 N T (5)	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—An inhibitory notrump based on a long diamond suit, which West, of course, intends to bid, if doubled.

2—North obliges.

3—West discloses his escape suit.

4—As the prey has escaped from the trap, North now assists his partner's Opening bid.

5—South decides that the hand should produce a Slam and prefers to play for it in notrump because of the probability of four, and possibly five, spades in the East hand.

West opened the singleton spade, which was won by the Ace in Declarer's hand. Declarer now counted 4 spade tricks, 5 club tricks, 1 diamond trick and 1 heart trick, totaling 11 tricks. He realized that the only way to win the hand would be to get an end-play on West, so he immediately led the Queen of diamonds. West did not overtake, as he feared South had the King-Queen-Ten. South now ran 5 club tricks, and then his three spades, stopping in his own hand. In the meanwhile, West discarded all his diamonds but the Ace, in order to hold the King, and two hearts. Realizing this, South led the King of diamonds, placing West in the lead and forcing him to lead away from the King of hearts, up to South's Queen.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Both sides vulnerable. South, Third Hand, bids one diamond and West passes. What is North's correct response, holding:

♠ J 10 9 6 5 ♡ K Q 7 ◇ J 7 5 ♣ 8 7

Answer: One spade. The hand contains 1 plus honor-tricks, and the shaded biddable suit should be preferred to a one-notrump response.

Maid Brings Home Interesting Story

Every one of us in Mr. Barnes' sitting room at Whitney Hall straightened instinctively at the announcement of her lame waitress, that one of the maids, who had been asked to report anything she had heard bearing upon the disappearance of Mary and Carolyn, had come to the school.

"Rose has heard something, Lucy?" Mrs. Barnes asked.

"Yes, she says so," Lucy answered, and her excited eyes told us that whatever news the other maid had brought was already known to Lucy.

"Shall I bring her in here?" Mrs. Barnes asked.

"Don't you think it might be better," I suggested, "for Mrs. Barnes to talk to her first by herself? She probably would be so frightened by all of us that she would not be able to think coherently. You can question her afterwards, to be sure she has forgotten nothing."

"It's a good idea," Harry Underwood commented, and as Dr. Barnes nodded his assent, Mrs. Barnes hurried out of the room. She returned in less than five minutes with a girl about 20, whose face bore out the promise of her name. She looked around at us shyly, and sat down in the chair Dr. Barnes had pushed forward for her, but I noticed that she was careful not to seat herself until Dr. and Mrs. Barnes were in their chairs.

"Now, Rose," Mrs. Barnes said encouragingly, "please tell these people exactly what you told me, in the same words, if possible."

TELLS HER STORY

"Well!" she said jerkily at last, "it's like this. A lot of the folks in town here that don't know any better like to kid—" she looked at Mrs. Barnes apprehensively—"like to tease us girls that work here, about the strict rules for the girls of the school. They say the girls here aren't any better than anybody else, and that they break the rules every chance they get. Of course we know," she explained hurriedly, "that it ain't—isn't true. There's not much rule-breaking in Whitney Hall."

Her voice suddenly held a note of pride.

"I've got so I don't never pay no attention to nothing they say," the girl went on volubly, "but what Mrs. Barnes told me tonight made me listen when one of the neighbor's boys began to tell about seeing two Whitney Hall girls getting in with a strange man and taking an automobile ride."

"Oh, no!" The cry tore from Lillian, and she half started from her seat, but I put my hand on her arm and held her back.

"Wait, dear," I whispered. "It's probably all a mistake, but we must listen to every word."

Rose had looked around, startled at Lillian's outburst, but Mrs. Barnes said softly, "Go on, Rose. Tell us just what the boy said."

"He said he was workin' inside a field on that road that leads out towards Easton," Rose said, "and he saw two girls that he was sure came from Whitney Hall walkin' along, stopping to look at the autumn leaves, and once picking some. There weren't many automobiles going by at that time, so when one came from Easton way and slowed down when it saw the girls, and stopped just beyond them, he got interested.

RODE AWAY

"He said the man began to back his car," she went on, while I felt as if I could count the heart beats of everyone in the room if their pulses were pounding as mine were, "and stopped when he came opposite the girls. He leaned out and said something to them, and for a second they didn't answer—only looked straight ahead. Then they turned and went towards the car. They stood talking for a couple of minutes, then the girls got into the rear seat and he turned the car around and started off Easton way."

Her voice ran down as if it were the ticking of an unwound clock, and Dr. Barnes said quietly, "Is that all, Rose?"

"Yes, Dr. Barnes," the girl replied, "that's all he said."

"Did you say anything to him when he got through.

"You bet—I mean, I did," Rose replied.

"Tell us what you said," Dr. Barnes persisted, as the girl hesitated.

"Must I say it exactly, just the words I said?" Rose asked, awe of her august employer vibrant in every syllable.

"Yes, every word," he answered firmly.

"Well!" She brought up her courage from some hidden depth. "I told him he was a darn, dirty liar, and that the girls he saw couldn't have been Whitney Hall girls."

"And what did he say to that?" Dr. Barnes asked.

Fashion Flashes

By ALICE ALDEN

You'd be surprised to know how interested even quite young children are in style. And so all little girls will welcome a new accessory set that consists of a beret and a bag of matching felt. This is offered in various color combinations, one nice one being a blue beret with red pompoms at top and a bag of blue with a red felt flower applique.

The panel slides back into prominence on the back of many a new evening frock. An evening ensemble has a frock of black Bagheera and there is a back panel with openings at the sides working into a deep V decollete in front. There is a sleeve trimming of pink swan and ostrich. The short jacket of black Bagheera has very wide armholes to let the feather trimming of the dress show through.

Also on the menu for the new sartorial banquet is the dinner glove. This has a flared cuff which extends to midway between wrist and elbow and is gayly decorated. A model of black suede has a bracelet motif made of rhinestones, while another model in white glace has an intricate design done in gold and metallic thread.

Household Hints

Putting a pinch of fine oatmeal in milk puddings gives them a delicious creaminess.

Mix tar and yellow ochre together. It will be a good green color, and is excellent for painting rough woodwork or iron.

Never throw away sour milk as, if used in the mixing of cakes, they will turn out very much lighter than if fresh milk is used.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Step Carefully, Avoid Painful Ankle Sprain

Everywhere you see the warning, "Watch your step." Carelessness, neglect to observe this rule, results in many cases of sprained ankle. It is responsible for other minor but painful disabilities.

Dr. Copeland

When pavements and roads are wet and slippery, sprained ankle is a common accident. As a matter of fact the ankle is more frequently sprained than any other joint of the body. Some persons seem to be extremely susceptible to accidents of this sort. They have a weakness of the muscles, joints and ligaments, and may sprain it by simply twisting the ankle while walking.

Often the sprain can be traced to improper footgear. This is especially true of women who wear high heels, with poor support of the ankle.

If you ever experienced a severe sprain of the ankle you know how painful this affliction really is. The pain may be so severe as to incapacitate the victim. Complete rest in bed is sometimes necessary for relief of the pain.

Persistent pain arouses the suspicion there has been a fracture of one of the small bones of the foot. In these cases an X-ray picture will determine whether there is a fracture and it should be taken.

Never neglect a sprain. For the first and second day after the injury the leg should be kept in a horizontal position. The injured ankle is treated by applying hot fomentations, light massage and passive motion two or three times a day.

Beginning on the third day it is a good thing to bathe the ankle in hot water for 30 minutes, and follow this with a cold footbath for five minutes. This treatment is continued by giving a light massage.

In a more severe case, where swelling and discoloration are present, the pain is more marked. The use of cold compresses will relieve the pain and reduce the swelling.

Avoid constricting the ankle and be careful not to shut off the circulation. When bandages or adhesive are applied too tightly, the foot will feel cold and appear pale and blue. This must be avoided because serious damage may be the result.

Persons who are subject to recurring sprain of the ankle may benefit by wearing a rubber anklet or one made of leather which laces up, giving support. The use of an elastic bandage may be helpful. Such appliances strengthen the ankle joint and prevent undue twisting and spraining.

Proper shoes are essential for everybody, but they are particularly necessary for the person who is susceptible to sprained ankle. Avoid high heels. Make sure that the shoe is of a simple design, broad in the toes and straight on the inner side. It should fit snugly in the arch and loosely at the toes.

In walking always carry the weight of the body on the balls of the feet. Watch your step!

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Decorative Scheme

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please give me some suggestions about decorating tables for a banquet? This banquet is for the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. The colors are purple, red, blue and white. P.

Good fortune and Mother Nature are with you these days in offering you perfect flowers and foliage of just the colorings that you wish to dramatize for your banquet table. For instance, you might combine purple and red and white asters with delphinium, and this would make charming bouquets for vases. Or you might alternate these vases, first one filled with purple asters; then one of red asters or small red roses or red African daisies or red carnations; then one of delphinium, all of one shade of blue of a lovely group of the various blue shades of delphinium, or bachelor buttons or blue stock; and then a vase of white flowers, the lovely delicate bouvardia (jasmine), or baby's breath, or white stock, or white roses or white carnations. Or you might in each case combine the white flowers with the color.

Down the center of the table, or in oblong form, you might have a background of laurel leaves, one of the most effective and loveliest of back grounds for flowers, or autumn leaves, or smilax, or ferns of other kind.

Birthday Card

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have known a young man for quite some time, and occasionally we go out together. We are very good friends. His mother, whom I have met once, is to have a birthday very soon, and it is on the same date as mine. Do you think it would be proper for me to send her a gift or a card? If so, what would be best to send, what kind of gift or card? L.

My first inclination, in answering your question, is to tell you that this gesture that you plan would possibly seem a bit "forced" to the mother of this friend. But I'd like to modify this judgment by saying that much depends on the nature of that "once" that you met the mother. If, for instance, it was at her home for dinner, say, probably you got to know her fairly well, and so sending her a box of flowers for her birthday would not seem out of order. But if, on the other hand, you met her only once, in a very casual way, it would seem that you would make a social error in sending her a birthday greeting.

Don't, in either case, send her a birthday present. You might send her a message, such as a birthday note, or telegram, or card, but the nearest thing to a gift would be a box of flowers, inclosing your card with a birthday message on it.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Happenings

In Mayfair
—With—
Patricia Pitt

Almost any morning you can find the debs energetically rehearsing at the Pittsburgh Golf Club for their dances to feature the Cinderella Ball, to be an event of November 25 in the University Club.

Mrs. Frederick Gwinner III, who's in charge of this phase of the ball, has asked Bert Layton to coach the girls. And the names of the two deb dances are "I'll Never Have to Dream Again" and "Please." The group of debutantes of a year ago who'll dance, have as the title of their appearance, "Three on a Match." You've guessed it—the titles are from the music to be played for each dance.

* * *

At last the word is out. Patsy Mellon, christened Helen Sedgley Mellon, daughter of the T. A. Mellons, is a debutante this year, her parents have just announced. They haven't yet set the date for her party.

* * *

Every day we hear of more folks who are going East this weekend for the Yale-Princeton game. The debutantes are going to be ever so well represented, and the debs of several seasons past, too. Polly Schoyer, who's studying at Radcliffe, will go to the game, I understand, and Margret Brill, another post-deb, who's studying the harp at the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia, will be there.

Going To Game

The J. Porter Gillespies will attend the game, and so will the David Chaplins, Betty Craig and Taber Grange, who will leave tomorrow by motor.

Others going are Bertha Brooks, Nancy Byers and Laura Childs, three of our debs, who'll stay on in New York to be on hand for the Yale-Harvard game.

ALL BLACK COSTUMES FAVORED FOR MODISH AFTERNOON WEAR

—Sketched in Paris—

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Nov. 10.—The French designers are apparently pleased with the return of black—all black—as a fashionable afternoon color. After all, it is their old favorite; they know it better than any bright color, and are more aware of its possibilities and limitations than any other. This year they have shown their favoritism for black by producing some of the best of their designs in black materials of all types.

* * *

FOR EXAMPLE, there are the two dresses in today's sketches. Both are all black, without any touch of color, but both are distinctly original in treatment and design. One, strangely enough, combines wool with lace, for a dinner gown; the other is ordinary crepe de chine, but the treatment is so unusual as to make the frock distinctly unlike any other.

* * *

THE CHANTAL dress, of wool, is designed for late afternoon or dinner wear. The general plan of the dress is simple enough, but the combination of lace with the wool marks the dress as definitely formal. Half the sleeves—the outer half—are of lace, and lace outlines the vertical lines of the neckline.

* * *

THE MIRANDE dress, of black crepe de chine, cut mostly on the bias, resorts to the simple use of dozens of small tucks to get a widened, heightened shoulder line. More little tucks at the center-front opening end in a triple ruffle which cascades from neckline to waist.

The Biggest Job In Allegheny County

• The worker who will ask you for your subscription to the Welfare Fund sometime this week or next week, is a citizen of this community, serving without any pay and meeting the full expense of campaign meetings and lunches out of his own pocket in order that every dollar raised may go directly to meet the budget announced in the newspapers and printed in detail in the campaign folder.

• These workers know the facts:—

43,000 major family cases under care of family agencies
35,000 families receiving direct relief
1,500 babies under two years of age given free milk
3,600 neglected and homeless children under care of children's agencies
45,600 patients given nursing care, medical treatment, and heatlh service
46,488 young people and adults given an opportunity for character-development through recreation
300 blind and handicapped adults given occupation

• These are the facts of service given by Welfare Fund agencies. It is because this appeal is based on facts that 8,000 people are willing to give their services as well as their contributions to make it a success. It is because of these facts that the Welfare Fund receives the support of over 110,000 citizens and corporations in Allegheny County, most of whom are intelligent enough to study the facts, and careful enough to make sure that their money is used for the purpose for which it was given.

• There is no need to talk about unemployment, human suffering, the crisis which faces the community this winter. All of us know that. What we need to know is that the Welfare Fund is carrying on a sound and intelligent program of service to meet these problems in the only way in which they can be met. This program needs your support.

• The worker who will ask you for your subscription to the Welfare Fund deserves your respect and attention. He is doing the biggest job in Allegheny County this fall. And the job will only be done when there is a Welfare Fund window sticker in the window of every home where there is a worker.

Reminded him that naturally they met Kaufmann's standards of workmanship—or they wouldn't be here . . . and showed him a few of the subtler points of superiority. Then we told him the price.

He said: "Rave your head off—the price tag is modest enough."

And to our friends we say: "Remember this is a Super-Value, and if you want a good suit for surprisingly little money, act quickly."

BREWERIES HERE WAIT 'O. K.' TO SPEND MILLIONS ON PLANTS

WELFARE FUND DRIVE NEARS $1,000,000

First Day's Record Exceeds Amount Of Last Year

Welfare fund workers in all parts of the county today were working to raise the $2,500,000 by the time the campaign closes November 23. Already pledges have been reported reaching toward the $1,000,000 mark and leaders are confident the entire amount can be raised within the allotted time.

Mayor Kline called together heads of the city departments today and they were urged by welfare leaders to encourage contributions by city employes.

Five hundred workers braved the rain of yesterday to attend the opening luncheon of the campaign, at which William P. Witherow, general chairman, presided. R. Templeton Smith, president of the Welfare Fund, opened the meeting and then turned it over to Chairman Witherow. Mr. Lawrence introduced some of the division workers, including Senator Frank J. Harris, James Rae, John W. Lawrence, Mrs. J. C. Dilworth, Leo G. Griffith, Charles W. Ridinger, D. M. Craig, C. W. Head, Frank R. Phillips, Alexander P. Lindsay, A. K. Oliver, A. M. Oppenheimer, Mrs. Joseph M. Jackson and F. B. Shipp.

HEINZ EMPLOYES LIBERAL

One pledge reported yesterday was that of the employes of the H. J. Heinz Company, who subscribed 100 per cent to the fund with $7,479.07, a sum 87 per cent greater than their quota.

The special division reported 341 subscriptions amounting to $453,700. Other reports made were as follows: Sewickley division, $115,175; Central division, 146 subscriptions, $98,018.45; city neighborhood division, $400; county neighborhood division, $4,000; the unit division, $1,250; corporation division, 106 subscriptions, $250,480, and the employe division, three subscriptions, $235.69.

HARDSHIP DESCRIBED

Dean N. R. H. Moore, of Trinity Cathedral, spoke briefly at the luncheon yesterday, describing the hardships of the families who are without funds or help. The Rev. Dr. Clarence E. Macartney, of the First Presbyterian Church, delivered the invocation.

Mr. Witherow cited the first day's pledges of slightly more than $900,000 as being larger in percentage of the total sought than was received on the first day of last year's campaign.

Wilbur F. Maxwell explained to the workers the block aid plan, where contributors can sign pledges for as small as $5 and pay as low as 25 cents weekly by the purchase of stamps.

North Side Man Hurt By Fall in Tunnel

A. A. Worzen, 40, of 1212 East Ohio street, was in Allegheny General Hospital today with a probable fracture of the skull, believed by homicide detectives to have been suffered in a fall down the steps in the Pine street tunnel, North Side, late yesterday. Worzen was unconscious when found.

Democrat to Fill Linthicum's Post

BALTIMORE, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Maryland's new representative in Congress will be Ambrose J. Kennedy, a Democrat, who will take office in December to fill the unexpired term of the late J. Charles Linthicum, from the state's Fourth congressional district. He has served as state senator.

GEN. CRONKHITE RENEWS OLD TIES HERE

Wartime Leader of 80th Division Pays Honor to Dead

Making his first visit to Pittsburgh since 1924, Maj. Gen. Adelbert Cronkhite, wartime commander of the Eightieth Division, was in town today renewing acquaintances and, to use his own words, "having a good time."

Gen. Cronkhite, whose boast is that not a man under his command was needlessly sacrificed, came here last night to pay homage to the memory of one of the boys who didn't come back. He took part in the dedication last night of the newly-organized Robert D. Fleming Post, No. 2454, Veterans of Foreign Wars, in Bellevue. The post bears the name of one of Bellevue's heroes, one of the first to die on the battlefields of France.

Today, the General spent visiting friends and tomorrow he will march in the Armistice Day parade. He was asked:

"How does it feel to get back among the men of your old command?"

He replied:

"Well, right now, I'm tired, but you can say in your paper that I'm having a fine time, too."

The General is 72, hale and hearty, although a few pounds heavier than he was in 1917 when he took his command to France.

Too heavy for a uniform, did someone inquire? Let's ask the General.

"No, sir!"

Look to House For Beer, Senate For Free Lunch

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Administration defeat proves that hog-calling is not oratory.

Kentucky voters aren't home from the wars yet.

Minnesota Republican says he never saw the solid South so far North before.

Michigan total indicates there ain't so many Ford workingmen as we suspected.

A Republican crow wouldn't get much corn flying from South Carolina to California.

Wet House insures beer. And we have enough votes in the Senate to okay the free lunch.

This ends the quarrel between Dolly Gann and Alice Roosevelt. Nothing to fight over now.

The nearest Republican territory to Pennsylvania is Lake Erie. The state is bounded on the north by Al Smith, on the east by Mayor Hague, on the south by Gov. Ritchie and on the west by Ma Ferguson.

Senator Bingham is a Republican wet. He was walloped by a Democratic wet. Only a chemist could detect the difference in precipitation of moisture.

But that ain't strange when you figure that it requires 42 different states to sing the stein song for Maine.

'SPIRITS' CAUSE GHOST SCARE

Although Halloween is over and spirits for the time being are supposed to be resting peacefully, residents in the neighborhood of Woodlawn Cemetery were startled last night by a series of weird yells and ghostly lamentations.

So loud were the sounds which poured forth from the cemetery that neighbors called the Wilkinsburg police. Stalwart officers entered the cemetery in the early morning and found the shouts came from a man reclining on a brushpile among the tombstones.

Edward Corbertt, 50, of 721 Mifflin avenue, Wilkinsburg, whom, police said, was drunk, was released on a forfeit in Wilkinsburg Police Court today.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Nov. 10.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Mr. Hoover, the consolation you have from the whole American people is no doubt greater than that ever shared by a losing President. There was nothing personal in the vote against you, you just happened to be associated with a political party that the people had just "lost their taste for." There is something about a Republican that you can only stand for him just so long. And on the other hand there is something about a Democrat that you can't stand for him quite that long.

We all know that you was handed a balloon that was blowed up to its utmost, you held it as carefully as anyone could, but the thing "busted" right in your hands. Well, there just ain't much you can do in a case like that. No, it wasn't you, Mr. President, the people just wanted to buy something new, and they didn't have any money to buy it with. But they could go out and vote free and get something new for nothing. So cheer up, you don't know how lucky you are. Yours,

WILL.

Fighting Bird of Paradise Gives Beating to Feathered Thief

CHAPTER XXV.

The bird of paradise was greedy. Obtaining one bit of rambutan, he would stand over it, protectingly, while he spoke his piece again, and secured a second morsel—and so on, until all the visible supply was in his possession.

The mina used to watch this performance from the back of the cage, trying to figure out why he never got any rambutan. It was not given him because the fruits were hard to secure and were not an indispensable part of his diet. But the mina could not quite make out why we were playing favorites. Of course he had too much respect for the Earl's fighting ability to do any open thieving—for the paradise bird is one of the most ruthless and powerful battlers in the bird world.

The Earl's vocal efforts required complete concentration. Talking was a difficult job for him, and when he started to say "Hell-o-hozbzz" it required every faculty he possessed to accomplish his purpose.

It was his concentration that gave the mina a chance at the rambutan. Carefully watching the Earl, Gabby would come up from behind, landing quietly on the wire of the cage. He would so perch himself that he would be in an excellent position to lean over, and while the Earl's attention was on vocalization, Gabby would take a hasty peck at the rambutan between the Earl's feet.

The mina continued these raids with success for some time. He grew bolder and bolder, and I had a feeling that some day his thefts would get him into trouble.

SPEECH IMPROVED

There came a day when the Earl's speech was practically perfect as far as the first three syllables were concerned, but the fourth syllable was an oddly blurred mixture of all the sounds in the final word "business." I stood by his cage a full half-hour, encouraging him with a handful of rambutan to repeat his lesson. I was sure it was only a question of time and patience now until he would be sufficiently educated to create a tremendous sensation in America.

I was doling out rambutan pretty generously, until the Earl had quite a nice pile of fruit morsels collected between his claws.

Then the fun began. The mina had become very much excited by the sight of the growing pile of rambutan. He fluttered down to the floor from the topmost of the three wooden perches in the cage, then fluttered right back again—not quite sure what to do. Finally,

WATER PROTEST MEET CALLED

A mass meeting at which all citizens of Mt. Lebanon will have an opportunity to discuss the rates charged and the service rendered by the South Pittsburgh Water Company was decided on last night at a gathering of the Mt. Lebanon Civic League in the Municipal Building.

One of the new buses of the association was used to take as many as possible for a ride through Mt. Lebanon.

DRY LAW CHANGE TO PUT CASH, MEN TO WORK

Thirst Quenchers Set To Resume Job When Congress Acts

Several million dollars will be spent by the breweries of Pittsburgh as soon as they have definite assurance that the Volstead Act is to be modified, according to H. A. Friday, of the American Brewers' Supply Company, 112 Smithfield street.

Friday stated that none of the breweries in this city has started intensive work on rehabilitating plants up to the present time, but he declared that elaborate plans are being made for the future.

While the isolated breweries which are active in the production of near beer can be immediately turned over to real beer production, a considerable period of time will be required to put inactive plants into working order.

LABOR, MATERIAL NEEDED

A brewery which has been idle for several years will require the almost complete installation of new equipment and old equipment still in condition to be used will have to undergo a thorough overhauling. This will require months of work in many cases.

M. S. Englert, secretary and treasurer of the Fort Pitt Brewing Company, of Sharpsburg, says his organization has plans for the construction of a new bottling plant to be built in the event that the changed law should require beer to be sold only in bottles.

MAY SPEND $4,000,000

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 10.—(INS.)—Expenditure of approximately $4,000,000 and employment of more than 2,000 men was considered a possibility today by two Milwaukee brewing companies as the result of anti-prohibition sentiment expressed in Tuesday's election.

Edward Landsberg, president of the Blatz Brewing Company, said bids have been asked for construction of a new power plant and the addition of a new bottling works. Legislation of beer, he said, would add more than 700 employes to his company's force.

Fred Pabst, Sr., president of the Pabst Corporation, said his company planned to spend $2,000,000 in improving plants and will add nearly 2,000 employes should beer be legalized.

Erie Brewer Plans New Equipment

ERIE, Pa., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Learning that an anti-prohibition Congress had been elected, J. M. Magenau, general manager of the Erie Brewing Company, acted immediately.

He is studying plans for the installation of new beer-manufacturing equipment which, he said today, will probably be completed at an early meeting of the board of directors.

Gov. Roosevelt, Democrat, won North Dakota's four electoral votes, but other Republican candidates were successful, including United States Senator G. P. Nye.

Void in Washington's Tooth History Filled

It Now Develops They Weren't Made by Paul Revere

Whether George Washington's mouth was agape while he crossed the Delaware, because of poorly fitted false teeth, reported made by Paul Revere, and whether the same plates were soaked in port wine, were controversial questions cleared up today before the Odontological Society of Western Pennsylvania convention in the William Penn Hotel.

Dr. W. J. Prysor, of Cleveland, who started the controversy last September before the national convention of the American Dental Society, told local members this afternoon that "misquoted statements enlarged by writers' imaginations" had given a wrong meaning of the story. He condemned the attack made on him by Congressman Sol Bloom, of New York, as associate director of the Washington Bi-centennial Commission, "without first obtaining the facts."

Washington was used as the subject of the description of poorly fitting false teeth because every listener was acquainted with his pictures, Dr. Prysor said. Washington's mouth could not have been agape, Prysor said, because the teeth made 20 years later were held together by a spring that seems to have been too tight even to hold the plate in place.

That Washington had been told not to soak his teeth in wine, Prysor emphasized, was his statement. However, Bloom's denial the plates were set in a wrought gold base was contradicted. Price said the original base was held at the College of Dental Surgery, Baltimore. He denied saying Revere made the plates. The making of a few partial dentures is accredited to Revere, but not borne out in records, Price explained, had been his statement.

REED IN LINE FOR WATSON'S PLACE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The name of Senator David A. Reed, of Pittsburgh, has been projected prominently into the discussion revolving around the selection of a new Republican leader of the Senate made necessary by the defeat in Tuesday's election of Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, present majority leader.

The all but complete rout of Senate "old guard" stalwarts, including such figures as Moses, of New Hampshire; Smoot, of Utah; Jones, of Washington, and Bingham, of Connecticut, has left the party in a quandary over the successor to the Watson mantle of leadership in the Chamber. Some observers profess to see a spirited battle in caucus over the leadership between "old guard" and progressive elements.

THE POSSIBILITIES

Whether the mantle falls on the shoulders of Senator Vandenberg or Senator Reed, on the one hand, or those of Senator McNary, on the other, depends largely on the outcome of this prospective conservative-liberal battle.

Senator Reed and Senator Vandenberg are both definitely catalogued as conservatives, while McNary is classed among the liberals, though not to the degree of some of his colleagues.

Both Senators Reed and Vandenberg have arisen to positions of influence on the Republican side of the aisle in the last few years. Either would be acceptable to old guard Republicans, it is believed.

On the other hand, Senator McNary enjoys a wide popularity among his Republican associates. In the past, he has acted as a sort of assistant leader to Senator Watson.

JOHNSON, NORRIS OUT

Such well-known figures on the Republican side as Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, and Senator George W. Norris, of Nebraska, are eliminated from consideration, of course, because of their participation in the revolt against the Hoover-Curtis ticket.

The same objection will be raised by old guard elements against Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, whose silence almost made him the "forgotten" man of the Republican campaign.

Clairton Robbers Routed by Screams

County detectives and Clairton police today were searching for three armed bandits who held up John Yonich, his wife and their three children in their home at 676 Third street, Clairton, last night.

The gunmen fled without loot to their automobile when Mrs. Yonich, the wife, and the children screamed, according to the detectives.

HOUNDS TRAIL JAILBREAKERS

DOUGLASVILLE, Ga., Nov. 10.—(INS.)—Five prisoners, one a condemned murderer, escaped from the Douglas County Jail here by sawing through bars of a cell window, Sheriff A. S. Baggett discovered today.

The prisoners, who are believed to have made their escape some time around midnight, are being sought by hastily-formed posses with bloodhounds in Douglas and Fulton counties.

Carl Almond, 24, one of the prisoners who escaped, was under sentence to be electrocuted at the state prison farm, November 18, one week from tomorrow, for the murder of George Hicks.

WOMAN AND TWO STORES HELD UP

An East End woman and two confectioners were held up by bandits last night.

Miss Lee Nearhoff, of 4803 Ellsworth avenue, was confronted by a gunman in Ellsworth avenue near Sphar street and robbed of $8, according to a police report. Miss Nearhoff was walking home when the thug stopped her.

An armed Negro held up William Metzger in his confectionery at 6265 Frankstown avenue, and rifled the cash register of $60.

From the confectionery of D. B. Waltmer, at 1400 Arch street, another armed Negro obtained $5. He warned Waltmer against an outcry before leaving.

ESCAPED GIRL HELD HERE

Pauline Pissano, 23, alias "Spanish Jackie," who escaped last Sunday from jail in Steubenville, O., while awaiting removal to Pittsburgh for a hearing before the United States Commissioner, has been captured and last night was placed in the Allegheny County jail in default of $3,000 bond. The woman and Charles Pangborn, Negro, were apprehended Tuesday night in Ellwood City by special agents of the U. S. Bureau of Investigation and state police, who had followed in an automobile from Aliquippa.

The couple had an automobile faster than that of the officers, who telephoned to Ellwood City police. Pangborn's car was stopped there by setting the red traffic lights against him and the two were arrested.

Pangborn is being held in Aliquippa, and the woman will be given a hearing tomorrow before the commissioner here.

GIBBONS TELLS INSIDE STORY OF ARMISTICE

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—What really happened at the greatest capitulation in the history of the world, 72 hours before the armistice was signed, is told today by Floyd Gibbons in the current Cosmopolitan for the benefit of millions of young people "who aren't old enough to have that tremendous panorama of 1918 burned into their minds."

The finish is the important thing in every war, Mr. Gibbons points out, adding that nobody could suspect that the end of the World War would come in a dense forest.

While millions were crushed by the news that the first announcement of the armistice was an error, a train bearing Marshal Foch and his Allied staff was crawling over rails hidden by boughs and artificial camouflage, out into Laigue Forest, and the German armistice delegation was struggling across shell-torn roads. Mr. Gibbons describes the tense scene which took place at 9 a. m. around a long table that had been built into the dining car of the Foch train:

"Suddenly the door at the end of the car opened. Marshal Foch appeared. He was wearing his customary blue-gray uniform with its double row of decorations and military belt.

FOCH SPEAKS

"Then Admiral Wemyss entered. The Allied officers advanced to the table, and Marshal Foch spoke:

"'To whom have I the honor of speaking?'

"Erzberger, polite but unawed, replied: 'To the plenipotentiaries sent by the German government. I am Herr Erzberger, president of the delegation. These gentlemen are Count Oberndroff and Gen. von Winterfeld. Here, sir, are our credentials.'

"The Marshal took the papers. After the Allied chiefs had examined those formal calling cards, Foch spoke again.

"'Very well. What is the object of your visit, Herr Erzberger?'

"Erzberger pronounced the words of capitulation slowly and calmly. 'Marshal Foch,' he said, 'we have come to inquire into the terms of an armistice, to be concluded on land, on sea and in the air.'

"'I have no terms to submit to you,' Foch replied.

"'If the Marshal prefers, we may say that we are here to learn the conditions on which the Allies would be willing to grant us an armistice.'

'I HAVE NO TERMS'

"'I have no terms, Herr Erzberger.'

"Things weren't looking so good for the German side, but Herr Erzberger fished another paper out of his pocket.

"'I have here a paper,' he said, 'in which President Wilson informed our government that you, Marshal Foch, have been invested with the power of submitting the Allies' conditions to the German plenipotentiaries.'

"Foch remained stiff and stern. 'I will let you know the Allies' conditions when you have asked for an armistice. Do you ask for an armistice?'

"The ice was cracked. The German delegation piped in unison: 'Ja-Ja.'

"'In that case,' said Foch, 'I shall have Gen. Weygand read you the terms.'

"The business of peace was turning the corner."

deciding that it would be best to resume his old tactics, he flew over to the side of the cage where the Earl hovered over his fruit, hooking himself slantwise onto the wire with quiet precision.

To my inexpressible delight the Earl gave me three "hello-hozbzz" in a row—not perfect but understandable—when Gabby got his pillaging under way. Flushed with victory after a peck that netted a tasty morsel (the foray was staged while the Earl of Dobo was talking to me) the mina decided to try a second time, selecting the largest morsel in the heap.

ATTACKS SMALL BIRD

But in his haste to grab the rambutan the mina dropped the fruit to the floor of the cage. As he picked it up again and flew with it to the middle perch, the Earl of Dobo turned his attention from me to see what was going on. Quickly taking in the situation, he made for the thief, flying above and jumping down on him. They fluttered to the bottom of the cage, a tangled mass of flapping feathers, the mina emitting anguished squawks as the Earl gripped him with his claws.

Usually it's enough to yell at a pair of fighting birds. It was different in this case. My shouts availed nothing. When I saw the bird of paradise, with a ferocity unbecoming a member of the genteel upper classes, sink his claws deeper into the flanks of the mina and start pecking away viciously at his black opponent's head, I knew that the Earl of Dobo had murder in his heart. For the paradise bird's favorite method of destroying a feathered rival is to get a good grip with his claws and peck the other fellow's brains out with his sharp bill. Quickly I flung open the door of the cage and broke the Earl's grip on the less formidable Gabby, whose frightened cries could be heard all over the compound.

STOPS TALKING

The Earl was furious when I loosed his hold on the poaching foe, pecking away at my hands by way of proving his displeasure. I placed the mina in a separate cage on the porch, where he soon recovered from his shock and could again be heard yelling, "Hello, how's business?"

The Earl declined to forget the incident. Every time he heard Gabby give his familiar cry he would fly into a rage, ruffling up his feathers and sometimes flying against the side of the cage nearest the prattling enemy as if trying to get at him. Finally I had to move Gabby back to the bird sheds where the Earl could no longer hear him.

Then I resumed what proved to be a hopeless task. Standing in front of the Earl's cage I would utter the word "hello" but its only effect was to send the bird into a blind fury. He would ruffle up his feathers as when Gabby's voice last reached his ears, in the process emitting throaty squawks of anger by way of making it clear how he felt about me and my silly word. For weeks I tried to restore him to a more peaceful frame of mind—employing many rambutans—but my efforts were futile. As far as the hello situation was concerned, the Earl of Dobo had definitely said goodbye to all that.

Nevertheless I had proved that a paradise bird can be taught to talk. Which was something of an achievement even if the monetary reward was snatched from me by the final turn of events.

BIRDS SOLD

A couple of months afterward, I delivered the Earl to Ansel W. Robinson, the Pacific Coast bird dealer, in a big allotment of birds that included many fine members of his family. In another consignment was Gabby, bound for the Kempfers, of Chicago, still repeating endlessly his refrain, "Hello, how's business?" as he was sent on his way to this big Mid-Western clearing house for feathered merchandise.

So it goes in the profession of collecting birds and animals. You never know your luck. Some of your best finds disappoint you, either by dying before delivery or by developing peculiarities that prevent their being marketed for the purpose you have in mind. On the other hand, there are equally surprising developments on the other side of the ledger, and specimens which you have not regarded very highly deliver a handsome profit in some devious and unexpected way.

When Your Cough Hangs On, Mix This at Home

Saves $2. So Easy! No Cooking!

The best cough remedy that money could buy can easily be mixed at home. It costs very little, yet it's the most reliable, quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn coughs, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. To make syrup, use 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water, and stir a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. It's no trouble at all, and saves two-thirds of the money a family usually spends on cough medicine. Keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the germ-laden phlegm, soothes and heals the inflamed membranes, clears the air passages, and thus ends a severe cough in a hurry.

Pinex is a compound of Norway Pine, in concentrated form, the most reliable healing agent for severe coughs. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

BOLTS HIS LUNCH

—but his digestion is "clicking"

What the man with a "cast-iron stomach" really has is six-hour digestion. If you suffer from a slow stomach, taking soda won't help matters. Do this:

Get some diapepsin at the drug store. Each tablet saves the stomach half an hour's work. If your digestion is an hour slow, two tablets after eating will correct it. No distress. Not even any gas or sourness. Take this precaution after every heavy or hurried meal until your stomach seems able to do its work without help.

Pape's Diapepsin has ended all food fear for many men and women who once had to pamper their stomachs.

THE BATTLE OF HASTINGS—1066 A. D.
"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by J. Scott Williams . . . inspired by the surging fury of the Norman hordes under William the Conqueror, in their merciless onslaught against the English in the Battle of Hastings, October 14, 1066. "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes.
"Nature in the Raw is seldom MILD"

No raw tobaccos in Luckies —that's why they're so mild

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

"It's toasted"

Escape

I passed your house last night—and as of old
Stopped short and turned and then all suddenly
Remembered—and the moon and stars went cold,
And heartbreak had its sorry way with me;
I saw a light, and there against the shade
Two shadows moved as two had moved before;
One shadow tall and one a wistful maid
Who long ago had barred a heavy door.

Still, after all, I had my fleeting day,
And love is dead and quiet as the dawn;
How strange my footsteps took me down your way
To pause and stare and quickly hurry on . . .

To other streets where shadows do not bring
The memory of one enchanted Spring.

Things That Burn Me Up And Knock Me Cold

You might have read about Harry Kimmel, the taxi driver, a credit to his craft. He found some valuable gems in his chariot, took them to the 51st St. Police Station, where the loser, a wealthy woman, claimed them. Before detectives and other cops, she rewarded Kimmel with $25, saying that it was all she had with her—but that she would reward him with a "substantial" check on Tuesday.

Kimmel phoned her on Tuesday only to be rebuffed with:

"If you phone or annoy me again I will complain to the police!"

It's little things like that that make big paragraphs like these.

Oh, Ben Bernie!

Dying as Fine Art Is Now Revived by Hampden In 'Cyrano'

By GEORGE SEIBEL

WALTER HAMPDEN'S death scene in "Cyrano de Bergerac" is the most impressive part of his fine performance at the Nixon. It was like the good old times when dying was a fine art. Actors then were often judged by their death scenes. To see Cleopatra expiring esthetically to the writhings of a rhythmic asp was the climax of an evening's enjoyment. To witness hump-backed Richard mopping up the stage in bloody agony while waiting for the horse that never came, filled the gallery gods, of whom I was one, with unholy joy. Each expiring gasp of the smothered Desdemona gave us sadistic ecstasies.

Mr. Seibel

Now this is different. Dramatists, to spare our sensitive nerves, even let their villains commit suicide in the wings, which manifestly isn't fair, not even to the villain. Not as bad, however, as one incident from an amateur performance on the South Side many years ago.

The play was called "Christopher Columbus," and there was a wicked vamp in it, who did her best to keep Chris from discovering the new world. As the play had been written, this wicked vamp rushed off the stage in the last act, swearing some more vengeance because she had been foiled.

But the lady who played the vamp had ideas of her own, and she persuaded the stage manager that such a desperate female as she was ought to commit suicide right then and there. So she produced a dagger from some pocket of her apron, called down some more assorted curses on Columbus, and thrust the dagger into her palpitating bosom.

She was a portly lady, with plenty of palpitations, and she fell dead at the feet of Columbus, with Ferdinand and Isabella calmly looking on.

Then the curtain fell, and it was found that she had died right under that curtain. Down came the curtain, down and down, and as it was within two or three feet the corpse rolled over twice to the foot of the throne, while the audience rolled over half a dozen times with ghoulish mirth.

In those days villains always got their just deserts.

Besides his death scene, Hampden merits high praise for his noble diction. By diction I mean his vocal art. We use that word "diction" wrongly when we apply it as we usually do, for it means the choice of words, not the way of uttering them. But very likely the real meaning will soon be forgotten, and the new meaning will be the only one, for words are like chameleons, always changing color.

Alexandra Carlisle, an English actress now appearing in "Criminal at Large" in New York, will today receive the medal of the American Academy of Arts and Letters for good diction on the stage. This medal, which she richly deserves—for she speaks flawlessly—has been awarded in past years to Julia Marlowe, to Edith Wynne Mathison, to George Arliss, to Otis Skinner and to Walter Hampden.

Hampden's diction is a treat to the ear. He does not mouth words—he does not swallow them—he does not chew them or spit them or purr them. To listen to him is a lesson in good English such as the stage has afforded but few since the days of Booth and Barrett.

Reading blank verse is a difficult art. Most actors fall into singsong or rant. Now the verse of a poet like Shakespeare can be as natural as prose and as delightful as the murmur of a brook. Hampden delivers his verse so spontaneously and his utterance is so melodious that I think he takes his place with Alexander Moissi, the greatest German actor of our day.

County Won't Block Wharf Improvement

County Commissioners will raise no objection to the improvement of the wharf between Stanwix and Ninth streets, Allegheny River, so long as no county structures are destroyed, they have informed United States Army Engineers.

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

The Kinder Fate

MRS. BROWN was very proud of her son Bill. From the time he was a small lad she would talk about him for hours without end. Discussing her boy made Mrs. Brown extremely happy, but it was rather annoying to the neighbors, who were waiting impatiently for a chance to boast about their own offspring.

The strangest part of it all was that from his earliest childhood Bill did absolutely nothing to justify his mother's pride in him. No amount of work—strictly on the part of the teachers—had been able to drag him further than the sixth grade. He was as much a failure at legitimate jobs, which he lost, one after another, with dizzy swiftness.

But that worried Bill not one particle. For one of the very few things that he had absorbed at an early age was that there were were easier and pleasanter ways of making money than by working for it.

Mrs. Brown, of course, was not aware that her son was crooked. Even if she had been informed of the fact, it is almost certain that she would not have believed it.

When Bill was 21, he departed from home very suddenly. Although she missed him sorely, his absence did not make his mother unhappy. She was glad, she declared, that he had obtained a good steady job, even if it took him out of town. Bill's job was steady all right. But that is about all that could be said in favor of it. He had been caught, as was to be expected, and for a period of 12 months or more was to be a guest of the state.

His mother excused his failure to write to her with an indulgent laugh. Boys, she often told herself and her other son, Joe, weren't very good hands at writing letters. Joe, who knew the true nature of Bill's whereabouts, looked very solemn as she spoke. He shuddered at the thought of what would happen if his mother were ever to learn the truth.

By the time he had spent a few months in prison, things began to look a little different to Bill. For the first time in his life he began to think deeply. For the first time he began to appreciate his mother's love and devotion. His home, which he had always considered with scorn, appeared very attractive as compared with the bleak cell where he was to remain for a year. He sighed with envy as he thought of the placid and normal life his brother Joe was leading.

Bill's reformation did not come about suddenly. Slowly he began to realize that he hadn't been quite as smart as he had once believed. Then one day came a letter from Joe which brought him to his senses entirely.

Their mother, Joe wrote, had been in an accident. The oil stove in the kitchen had exploded and she had been badly hurt. She spoke of Bill continually. She wanted very much to see him. Joe wished that there was some way that it could be arranged.

Bill was sincerely distressed when he received his brother's letter. From that moment on he was a changed man. He spent long hours worrying about his mother. Finally, he wrote back in a very unhappy vein.

Joe, he instructed, was to try and pacify mom. To tell her that Bill had sent his love, that he was thinking of her constantly, and that he would be home just as soon as possible. And, most important of all, he insisted, she was not to receive the slightest inkling as to where he was.

There followed weeks of anxiety for Bill. Then another letter came from Joe. This one was even more disturbing than the first.

"Bill," it raid, "I've done all that I could. But mom insists upon coming to see you. I tried every way I knew of to prevent her, but finally I had to promise to bring her. I don't know what's going to happen when she learns the truth. It will just about break her heart. Isn't there anything at all you can do to keep her from learing that you're a jailbird?"

To say that Bill was frantic would be putting it a little too mildly. He paced up and down the cell with the letter in his hand. He cursed himself for a first-class fool. And each time he thought of his mother, and her feelings when she realized that her son was a crook, he grew cold all over.

In desperation he sought out the warden and explained the situation to him.

"I wish that you could help me out, sir," he said earnestly. "Don't you see how important it is that my mother shouldn't find out about me? I know I shoulda thought of all that before, but it's too late to talk about that now. Only I want you to know that if I get out of this mess now things are gonna be different. When I get out of here I won't ever do anything again to make her feel bad. Isn't there something you can do so she won't know?"

The warden thought for a moment. Then he nodded his head kindly.

"In cases like this," he said, "I usually break a couple of rules to keep a couple of hearts from breaking. And usually, I wind up by kicking myself for being a sap.

"But you're a pretty decent sort of kid, Bill. So I'm going to help you. I won't tell you now what I have in mind. But don't worry. If I've got anything to say about it, your mother will never know that you've been in prison. Is that all right?"

Bill nodded rapidly.

"You're a swell guy, warden," he said . . .

The next visiting day Joe and his mother were at the prison. Mr. Brown sat and stroked Bill's hand and told him what a fine boy he had always been. It was plain to be seen that she was a very happy woman. And Joe and Bill, because their mother was happy, were happy, too.

At the end of an hour, she arose to go home.

"I'll be back next week," she promised.

Bill exchanged glances with his brother and grinned.

"That'll be great, mom," he said.

On each visiting day, Mrs. Brown and Joe go to the prison. Each time his mother sits beside Bill, holds his hand and chats contentedly. Each week Bill does a little mental arithmetic and tells her that he will soon be home. At the end of the hour all three are very well satisfied.

After one of the visits was over, Bill went to the warden and thanked him for his part in the little affair.

"It was fine of you to help me, sir," said Bill. "If it wasn't for you, mom would surely have found out. And believe me, that would have been pretty terrible. That was a great idea of yours—putting me in the hospital on the days when my mother was coming to see mee. That was the only thing in the world that could have kept her from knowing."

Bill was silent for a moment. He shook his head with a little sign. Then he said softly:

"Maybe it seems a funny thing for a son to say about his mother. And yet, at those times, when I see how happy she is and how she believes I'm all she thinks I am—well, I honestly believe that it was just as well that the oil stove explosion left her blind!" . . .

Roosevelt in Hearst News

THE GLOBE TROTTER

Pitt defeating Penn and President-elect Roosevelt at his home are among scenes shown and described in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News, showing in the Penn, Fulton and other theaters.

Pictures of two new fighting planes, the latest addition to Uncle Sam's flying corps, are shown coming from Wright Field, Dayton, O. One is a giant bomber and the other a tiny pursuit plane which the bomber covers with one wing like a mother bird shielding a fledgling. They are the biggest and littlest and fastest fighting machines of their kind in the world. The Globe Trotter describes their maneuvers.

Pictures of Gov. Roosevelt, taken at his home at Hyde Park, New York, two days before election, shows him greeting hundreds of motorcyclists. Confident of his election, he invites the entire party to Washington next spring.

Lady Nancy Astor, American-born peeress and member of the British Parliament, is seen and heard as she arrives in New York on her way to visit her Virginia home.

Undefeated Pitt is shown winning from Penn by a score of 19-12 in its drive toward the gridiron crown before 70,000 persons in Franklin Field, Philadelphia. Sebastian, Heller, Masavage, Powell and Weisenbaugh are shown making great plays.

The opening of the hunting season brings unusual pictures from Tule Lake, California, and from Long Island, N. Y.

SOME WOMEN ALWAYS ATTRACT

You want to be beautiful. You want the tireless energy, fresh complexion and pep of youth. Then let Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets help free your system of the poisons caused by clogged bowels and torpid liver.

For 20 years, men and women suffering from stomach troubles, pimples, listlessness and headaches have taken Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets, a successful substitute for calomel, a compound of vegetable ingredients, known by their olive color. They act easily upon the bowels without griping. They help cleanse the system and tone up the liver.

If you value youth and its many gifts, take Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets nightly. How much better you will feel—and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

Miss Crosman To Be Star

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 10.

Every producer in Hollywood is excited over the fact that Marie Dressler, Wallace Beery or Allson Skipworth can out-draw nearly all of the glamorous youngsters on the screen, and being excited, they are doing things about it.

Miss Crosman

Fox has put Henrietta Crosman under contract and is buying Jerry Horwin's original story, "Mommer," for her first starring picture.

To those of you who saw the screen version of "The Royal Family of Broadway," Miss Crosman needs no introduction. She played the gallant old trouper, Fanny Cavendish, who carried on to the very end.

Appropriately, her first picture for Fox also is to have a theatrical background.

COLDS GO THROUGH 3 STAGES!

And They are Far Easier Stopped in the First than in the Second or Third!

A cold ordinarily passes through three stages—the Dry Stage, the first 24 hours; the Watery Secretion Stage, from 1 to 3 days; and the Mucous Secretion Stage. Relief is twice as easy in the first stage.

For prompt relief take a couple of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine immediately upon catching cold. This will usually expel the cold overnight and thus prevent the spread of the infection within your system.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is effective because it does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels. Kills the cold germs and fever in the system. Relieves the headache and grippy feeling. Tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is absolutely safe to take. Contains no narcotics and produces no bad after-effects. It is regarded the world over as the standard cold tablet. Comes in handy, pocket-size box, cellophane-wrapped. For sale in every drug store in America. Make it your first-aid in all cases of colds and grippe. Accept no substitutes.

Although Earl Carroll stresses always the beauty of his dames in the various editions of "Vanities" he puts out, the ninth number in this revue series, coming to the Nixon next Monday, is said to go in largely for the fast and roughhouse brand of comedy that is looney but always gets the laughs. The comics are Al Trahan, who does his best to be foolish at a piano, and Frank Mitchell and Jack Durant, knockabout cut-ups. In addition to their separate specialties, the three are featured in several skits. "Vanities" seats are selling ri-i-i-ight now.

DUKE GAME TO HAVE PATRIOTIC COLOR

DUQUESNE UNIVERSITY authorities are sparing no effort to make their Armistice Day football game with South Dakota State College have all the patriotic color the day warrants. Not only will numerous American Legion bands be admitted to Forbes Field free of charge and special prices given to Legionaires and members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, but the start of the game itself has been put back to 2:30 o'clock, thus allowing the paraders ample time to attend.

Cy Kasper

In addition to all of these Armistice Day observations, Coach T. C. (Cy) Kasper, who brings the big Jack Rabbit grid team to Pittsburgh, was state commander of the South Dakota American Legion last year. He takes a prominent part in national and state legion affairs. Coach Kasper arrived with his squad of 22 husky battlers late yesterday afternoon. He has some of the outstanding players of the Jack Rabbits' home region, including Capt. Nusier Salem, who is expected to be an all-North Central Conference guard this year, his last on the team.

AN INTERESTING ANGLE for the fans to watch in this Duke-South Dakota game will be Kasper's use of the Carnegie Tech style of play though the Jack Rabbit coach himself is a Notre Dame graduate. The spectators will see the ends move back and the halfbacks shift up, and probably a number of well-executed end-around plays.

The difference between the Duke style of play, the Notre Dame system, and that of the visitors will lie in the man-in-motion feature in the South Dakota backfield, and the use of both the balanced and unbalanced line of the Kaspers. The Duke backfield shifts and pauses before the ball is passed, the balanced line is used, and the ends "hip" out instead of back.

THE GALLOPING GAELS of St. Mary's, like the fighting Irish of Notre Dame, to whose pattern they have been cut by Slip Madigan, present a strange mixture of nationalities. Indeed, Capt. Bill Beasley, at quarterback, is the only regular of Irish descent.

The Canrinus brothers at the ends, George and Fred, are Dutch, as is Emory Rubel. Carl Jorgensen is a Norwegian, born near Oslo; Mike Steponovich is a Pole, Charley Baird is English, Angel Brovelli is an Italian—and so on.

GOAL LINE PICKUPS: Frank Carideo's Missouri team didn't taste victory until its sixth game of the season and didn't even score in the first four. Four members of the University of Indiana squad are married. Imagine the embarrassment of the smart boys arrested for selling counterfeit tickets to the Rice-Texas game when the judge before whom they were brought to trial proved to be one of the men who had bought their phony pasteboards. Harold Robertson, Oglethorpe coach, while coaching the Syracuse freshmen several years ago, challenged a sub-tackle to stop him and the youngster broke both of Hal's legs. Paul Pardonner, Purdue quarterback, can dropkick accurately with either foot.

Gibby Welch

WITH PITT INVADING Lincoln this week-end, many local fans are wondering what Panther will rise to all-America distinction by his play against the Cornhuskers. With the exception of the 1930 scoreless tie, there hasn't been a Pitt-Nebraska game since 1921 in which the Westerners were not plagued by a Pitt man who later won all-America laurels.

In 1927, Gibby Welch ran wild at the expense of Nebraska, Pitt winning 21 to 13, and Welch was a unanimous all-America choice. The following year, Mike Getio led a great defensive team for Pitt that held Blue Howell and the other Huskers scoreless and without a first down.

THEN IN 1929, Ray Montgomery and Joe Donchess were responsible no little for the 12-to-7 victory of the Panthers. And last season, Jess Quatse and Ralph Daugherty rose to the heights against Nebraska as Pitt won, 40 to 0.

Warren Heller, present ace of the Sutherland brigade, will be the main offensive threat Saturday. A good performance by the Steelton lad ought to make him an all-America certainty, though most local fans are already convinced that any 1932 all-America team without Heller will be the bunk. Last year, Warren picked up four touchdowns against Nebraska in the first half.

ASKED TO EXPRESS his opinion as to the greatest clubs baseball has known, Tris Speaker said he'd have to divide the answer into two eras, before and after the coming of the rabbit. He named the Yankees, with Ruth and Gehrig in the lineup, as the mightiest of the modern powerhouse teams. Touching on the earlier champions, he passed up such pretty fair clubs as the old Orioles, Pirates, Cubs, Giants, Athletics and White Sox, and said that for a team that placed its reliance on pitching and all-around tight defense he considered the Red Sox of 1912, the greatest.

"CONNIE MACK told me the last time I fanned with him," Speaker added, "that of his own best teams the Athletics of that same year received his vote. We beat that club for the pennant, and yet in the world series against the Giants, though we won it, we did about everything wrong.

"Mack thinks his own world champions of 1913 were fully 30 per cent weaker than his 1912 club, so we must have been pretty good to beat out that first team for the American League pennant."

IF FRANKIE FRISCH hopes to be traded to Brooklyn or any other club for 1933, he is going to be disappointed, according to Branch Rickey, who does the talking for the St. Louis owners. Rickey declares that of all the Cardinal players, Frisch is the one who positively will not be traded.

Moreover, Rickey makes it clear that the St. Louis club expects Frisch to give it more than he gave it in 1932. While admitting no leaning in the controversy among St. Louis fans as to whether Frankie deliberately loafed last season or was slowed down by poor physical condition, Branch sounds this warning: "Frisch will hustle for Manager Street next year. He will hustle all the way, or he will not be in uniform."

Stanley Poreda

THE BACK INJURY which forced Stanley Poreda to ask for an indefinite postponement of his match with big George Godfrey, scheduled in Philadelphia tonight, casts out for the time being at least, a good elimination battle in the heavyweight series. Godfrey, fresh from his recent technical knockout victory over Al Fay, of Cherleroi, in the same ring, would have provided a stiff test for Poreda, young New Jersey boxer, who already holds decisions over Ernie Schaaf, Primo Carnera and Tommy Loughran, although the Carnera verdict was declared to have been very questionable. It was planned to match the winner of the Poreda-Godfrey bout with Max Baer in New York next month, the winner to qualify for a bout with Max Schmeling, the former champion. Schmeling, of course, is entitled to another crack at Jack Sharkey without doing any further fighting, but there is a growing belief in the East that Sharkey has no intention of entering the ring with the German again, though the former sailor may stall along until next September in the hope that some one will eliminate Schmeling in the meantime.

PITT LINE UP UNCERTAIN AS TEST IMPENDS

By JESS CARVER
Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—Chicago was rather apathetic about it, but the Windy City was host today to a football team which stands as good a chance as any of pulling down the national collegiate football championship. The team, Pitt's Golden Panthers, detrained here this morning to spend the entire day, and from here will continue their journey to Lincoln, Neb., where Saturday they'll meet another formidable obstacle in their path to gridiron glory—Nebraska's big Cornhusker eleven.

Chicago has been apathetic about sports in general since the late world series and the collapse of Dick Hanley's Northwestern Wildcats.

After putting in the day roaming about this city's famous South Side, and working out at the University of Chicago, the Panther laddies will move further westward tonight, heading for Omaha, where they'll stay until Saturday morning, when they'll complete their journey to Lincoln.

COACH JOCK WORRIED

This is the fourth time that Pitt has invaded the lair of the Cornhuskers. Back in 1928, the Pitts battled the Huskers to a scoreless tie. In 1929, the year the Pittsburghers won the Eastern championship and went to California to perform in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, they licked the Nebraskans, 12 to 7, and 1930, played another 0-0 tie. In all, Pitt and Nebraska have met six times, with Pitt winning three times, losing once and being held even twice. Last year, in Pittsburgh, the Panthers took the Huskers to pieces to the tune of 40 to 0.

Pitt is going to be the favorite over Nebraska Saturday and that is what is worrying Dr. Sutherland. He doesn't like to be the favorite, and he figures he's had his share of it this season. His team was the choice over Ohio Northern, over West Virginia, over Army, Ohio State and Penn. The boys came through for him O. K., even though they were tied by Ohio State, but they more than made up for that lapse by taking Notre Dame.

It was a battered and tired lot of footballers that draped their forms over the hotel chairs today. In fact, the Panther varsity is so black and blue that Coach Sutherland is planning to shoot a flock of replacements against the Huskers and to keep 'em in there as long as it is safe. The gruelling games with the Army, with Ohio, with Notre Dame and last week with Penn, have taken their toll. There isn't a regular on the team, with the possible exception of Cheesio Onder, the big right guard, and Frank Walton, the even bigger right tackle, who hasn't more black and blue spots and bruises on his body than a leopard has spots. It is practically impossible to bruise Messrs. Onder and Walton with anything short of a fleet of tanks.

PLANS NEW LINEUP

At this afternoon's drill, Dr. Sutherland will experiment with a new set of starting Panthers. He plans to have Miller Mungas chanting the signals from quarterback, Dutch Weisenbaugh in at fullback, Harvey (Fire Chief) Rooker at left end, John (Sphinx) Meredith at left tackle and Ken Ormiston at left guard. Maybe George Shotwell will take Joe Tierney's place over the ball, too.

If this combination looks like it might click, it will start against Nebraska.

On the uncertain and even shaky basis of relative scores and past performances the Huskers do not appear to have the right to be in the same ball park with Pitt, but then, the Republicans thought they had a chance until the polls opened Tuesday, too. Nebraska has won the games it has by narrow and indecisive margins and was beaten by the always slow starting Minnesota Gophers early in the season.

But there are three mighty fine ball players lying in wait out there in Lincoln. Steve Hokuf, a pip of an end; Saur, a hard-running back, and Masterson, another nifty trick of a ball lugger, are being primed to twist the tail of the Panther.

PANTHER FACES TEST

And those Huskers are very, very adept at tail-twisting in their own back yard.

Chaperoned by Coach Sutherland, Backfield Coach Andy Gustafson, Assistant Athletic Director Jim Hagan, student managers and the newspapermen, are the following players:

Ends—Ted Dailey, Joseph Skladany, Harvey Rooker, Robert Timmons, Louis Wojciehowski, Karl Seiffert.
Tackles—Paul Cuba, Frank Walton, John Meredith, Robert Hoel, John Love, Stanley Oleoinicsak.
Guards—Charles Hartwig, Tarciscio Onder, Kenneth Ormiston, Francis Seigel, Frank Kulz, George Shindehutte.
Centers—Joe Torney, George Shotwell, John Valenti, Leslie Wilkins.
Quarterbacks—Bob Hogan, Miller Mungas, Rocco Cuffe.
Halfbacks—Warren Heller, Mike Sebastian, Howdie O'Dell, Paul Reider, Mike Nicksick, Dick Matesic, Mel Brown, Walter Balasik.
Fullbacks—Izzy Weinstock, Henry Weisenbaum, John Lich, Clarence Hasson.

Before the present dam was built to conserve the water in Upper Klamath Lake, the river was fed by the lake's overflow. At that time a strong prevailing wind from the south actually would blow the water away from the natural spillway, causing the river to dry up. This condition, of course, would exist for only a few hours at a time, its severity being felt most when the hydro-electric plant on the river bank was put out of commission. SCHOOL—The word "school" is derived from the Greek word "scole" meaning "rest, leisure, employment of leisure," and inferentially a "house of leisure."

JAP STAR LEADS CUE TOURNEY

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Kinrey Matsuyama, little New York Japanese, took the lead in the Eastern Sectional Three-Cushion Billiard Tournament at Dryer's tonight, defeating Frank Scoville, of Buffalo, 50 to 41, in 50 innings. It was Matsuyama's third victory of the tournament against one defeat. Each had a high run of five.

Scoville dropped into a tie with Joe Chamaco, of New York, for second place, each with two victories and one defeat. William Greenwood, of Pittsburgh, followed with two matches won and two lost, while Hames Beecher, of Buffalo, was last with four straight defeats.

Matsuyama won his second game of the tournament in the afternoon, defeating Beecher 50-42, in 72 innings, while Greenwood defeated Chamaco, 50-39, in 53 innings of the second afternoon match.

WESTON LOSES

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Len Kenny, of Chicago, yesterday defeated Charles Weston, a fellow townsman, 50 to 42 in 55 innings, to go into third place in the Northern Sectional Three-Cushion Billiards tournament. The defeat for Weston, his second straight, virtually eliminated him from championship consideration.

Uniontown Features Big Game Tomorrow

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Nov. 10.—Although not a college town itself, Uniontown will be the mecca of several thousands of Western Pennsylvania collegiate football fans tomorrow afternoon, when the Waynesburg and Geneva College grid teams clash at the Fayette County seat in a grid classic which will determine the Tri-State Conference championship and the district Class B title as well.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Battling Gizzy played right halfback for one-half of a football game at Donora last Sunday and was relieved for the second half by Lee Sala, another boxer . . . Incidentally, they have a young amateur boxer in Donora by the name of Patsy Greco who is a riot with the fans, having scored three one-minute knockouts.

Pitt's habit this fall of dawdling about in some of its games for long periods and then suddenly getting itself organized and making long marches for touchdowns reminds a former local gridder of a time when he played on a gridiron which sloped uphill . . . His team worked like truckhorses to get a one-touchdown lead in the first period and then huddled and decided to conserve its energy until the next period, when it would be traveling downhill . . . The plan worked out fine, three touchdowns resulting in the second quarter . . . More loafing followed in the third period, and the team went to work downhill again in the fourth.

The A. A. U. finally has taken a progressive step in preparing an amendment to be considered at its annual meeting this month which will provide for a 3 per cent tax on all admissions to its events to build up a fund for the next Olympic games, which will do away with the quadrennial task of raising funds to finance the American team . . . The failure to raise this year's needed sum by public subscription brought about the action.

An all-America football team could be selected from among track and field stars of the nation, as follows, according to The Amateur Athlete, monthly publication of the A. A. U.: . . . Left end, Hardin, Louisiana State; left tackle, Kabat, Wisconsin; left guard, Laborde, Stanford; center, Malin, Yale; right guard, Garrett, Princeton; right tackle, Zaremba, New York University; right end, Kelly, Georgetown; quarterback, Rentner, Northwestern; left halfback, Fuqua, Indiana; right halfback, Zimmerman, Tulane; fullback, Barber, Southern California.

Hardin is a hurdler, Kabat a discus thrower, Laborde a shot putter, Malin a hammer thrower, Garrett a discus thrower, Zaremba a hammer thrower, Kelly a sprinter, Rentner a high jumper, Fuqua a sprinter, Zimmerman a pole vaulter and Barber a broad jumper . . . Gene Venzke, whose failure to make the United States Olympic team as a miler after setting a new world record indoors, was an upset of the dope, explains his collapse by saying he tried too hard and too long, going through a four-year siege of preparation which left him out of condition, with a leg injury in the bargain . . . He hopes to make the 1936 team, but will train more moderately.

Howard Harpster, Geneva College coach, says no team on which he ever played or coached has won a game which it counted won before the kick-off . . . That's why he always fears for the worst until a game is out of the way and keeps his fingers crossed . . . Right now he's fearing that undefeated Waynesburg team in its clash with Geneva at Uniontown tomorrow.—HARRY KECK.

SPARTANS WIN ON GRID

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—The Portsmouth Spartans, of Ohio, defeated the Battery A Gunners of St. Louis, 12 to 0, in a professional football game here last night that marked the first defeat for the Gunners this season. Gutousky, fullback, made the first Portsmouth touchdown in the second marker in the final period.

CANADA LANDS HORSE MEET

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—The Canadian Army team last night outclassed the pick of the equine jumpers from the armies of four nations to win the First International Military contest of the forty-seventh annual National Horse Show, which opened yesterday in Madison Square Garden.

With Capt. Ed Hammond and Lieut. C. C. Mann in the saddle, Michael and Red Plume, newcomers to the ranks of international competition, faltered only on the last jump as they showed the way to 12 teams in the class for pair of international officers.

The Canadian team was charged with only one-half fault, Michael, with Capt. Hammond up, ticking the bar on the final barrier.

Closely bunched behind, were three teams from the Irish Free State, Slievenamon and Gallow Glass, with Capts. Daniel Corry and Fred Ahearne in the pilot seat, placed second with only one fault. Third went to Beann Edair and Blarney Castle, ridden by Capt. Corry and Lieut. James F. Neylon, while Capts. Corry and Ahearne also rode the fourth place combination—Shannon Power and Kilmallock.

Next were two teams representing the French Army, four from the United States Army and one pair from Fort Meyer, Va.

Grid Rivalry Revived By Bradford, Olean

BRADFORD, Pa., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—One of the oldest scholastic football feuds in this section will be revived Friday when the Bradford High School grid team goes to Olean, N. Y., to meet Olean High.

The rivalry between the two schools dates back to 1897. Friday's meeting will be the forty-first. So far, Bradford has won 19 games, Olean 14 and there have been four ties. Two games have been played some years.

SOUTH DAKOTA DRILLS HERE FOR BATTLE

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

With the Pitt Panthers off on another argosy—this time to Lincoln, Neb., where the celebrated Cornhuskers of the University of Nebraska are to be met on Saturday in just another of that endless series of weekend tests—the attention of the local college gridiron fans gets a chance to center on a few other items of interest.

First of all, there is a group of games to be got out of the way tomorrow, Armistice Day, thus splitting up the weekend program. There are no less than a half-dozen holiday battles involving local teams.

DUKES' FOES ON SCENE

The good old Dukes, who paved the way for the Democratic landslide of last Tuesday by pulling the props out from under W. & J. to the tune of a 19-0 victory last Saturday, return to the same gridiron at Forbes Field for a meeting with the South Dakota State eleven of Brookings, S. D., where the folks probably did some hefty farm voting for Gov. Roosevelt a few days back.

The Dakotans arrived in our fair village late yesterday afternoon and took one look at the deluge and were convinced the country had gone wet already and prepared to use gum boots, if necessary, in the engagement that brings them here. They practiced on the battleground this afternoon to get their bearings.

The visitors are a right husky squad of 22 players and are confident of turning in a good fight against Coach Elmer Layden's proteges. Their headquarters are at Webster Hall.

There will be only one change in the Dukes' lineup, which will see Joe Malkovich start at center in place of Ciccone. The kickoff has been moved back from 2 o'clock until 2:30 because of Armistice Day parade.

JACKETS GET TEST

Most attractive of all of the Armistice Day games in the district unquestionably is that at Husted Field, Uniontown, between the undefeated and untied Waynesburg College Yellow Jackets and Coach Howard Harpster's Geneva College Covenanters, with the Tri-State Conference championship at stake. This battle originally was scheduled for Waynesburg on Saturday, but was shifted to Uniontown so it could be made part of the American Legion's celebration there.

Waynesburg is somewhat of a story book eleven this fall, with its second consecutive victory over Penn State College, the Alma Mater of its coach, Frank Wolf, who first starred at McKeesport High School. The Greene County town has almost forgotten the depression in its enthusiasm for its noble gridiron ath-a-letes, and will move in a body upon Uniontown for the Class B classic of the year in Western Pennsylvania.

GENEVA TOUGH HURDLE

Geneva also boasts a proud record, having lost only to Carnegie Tech, 7-0, and beaten Davis & Elkins, Thiel, St. Vincent, Boston University, Marshall and Grove City. Waynesburg's victims include Muskingum, Slippery Rock, Penn State, Bethany, Grove City, Westminster and Juniata. The Juniata battle, last Saturday, saw the Jackets squeeze through by the surprising slim margin of, 14 to 13.

Grove City and St. Vincent College meet at Latrobe in another game between apparently well-matched rivals which will draw a large crowd. Other Armistice Day games involving district teams are: D. & E. vs. St. Thomas, at Scranton, Pa.; New River vs. Concord State, at Bluefield, W. Va.; Marshall vs. Salem, at Huntington, W. Va.; W. & J. Freshman vs. West Virginia University Freshmen, at Parkersburg, W. Va., and Bellefonte Academy vs. the Bucknell Freshmen, at Williamsport.

TARTANS DEPART

While all of this Armistice Day footballing will be going on, the Carnegie Tech gridders will entrain at 2 p. m. for Cincinnati, where they meet Xavier on Saturday. Tech was idle last Saturday and is well rested and shouldn't have much more than a workout against the Xavier team in preparation for the annual tussle with Pitt at the Stadium Saturday of next week. No chances will be taken on injuries this week-end.

W. & J. is polishing off for its homecoming engagement with Bucknell at Washington Saturday, when it hopes to make up for that pushing around it got from the Dukes last week.

Other games Saturday:

Penn State vs. Temple, Philadelphia; West Virginia vs. Wash-Lee, Charleston, W. Va.; West Virginia Wesleyan vs. Georgetown, Washington, D. C.; Thiel vs. St. Bonaventure, Olean, N. Y.; Westminster vs. Muskingum, New Concord, O.; Allegheny vs. Alfred, Meadville, Pa.; Slippery Rock vs. Edinboro, Slippery Rock; Clarion vs. Lock Haven, Clarion; Indiana vs. California, Indiana; West Liberty vs. Glenville, Glenville, W. Va., and Kiski vs. Penn State Freshmen, State College, Pa.

The lineup for the Duquesne-South Dakota game:

Powell	L.E.	Palmer
Nicolai	L.T.	Strong
DeCarbo	L.G.	Salem (C)
Malkovich	C.	Kummer

WESTINGHOUSE, PERRY OUT TO CLINCH CITY TITLES

SCOTT OPPOSES M'KEES ROCKS TONIGHT

By JULIUS LEVIN

The task of crowning new champions in both sections of the City League will be completed this afternoon when Westinghouse High, coached by O. H. Burton, and Perry High, coached by Chester Smith, will strive to assure themselves of a place in the post-season playoff for the City crown.

Westinghouse, heading the parade in Section I, can clinch the title by defeating or tieing Taylor Allderdice on the Allderdice gridiron in Squirrel Hill, while Perry must defeat Langley at Perry to sew up the crown in Section II.

CHAMPS DETHRONED

Both of last year's champions, Schenley in Section I and South Hills in Section II, have been dethroned.

There are two remote possibilities of Peabody winning the Section I crown and Langley winning the Section II toga. If Allderdice should upset Westinghouse and Peabody defeat Schenley at Peabody, the East Enders will represent Section I in the playoff. If Perry loses to Langley and Oliver defeats Allegheny at Oliver, Ray Peters' Oliver combine will represent Section II.

South Hills, last year's City champion, concludes its schedule by engaging Carrick at Langley Field, while Fifth Avenue winds up its program by tackling South at Schenley High Field in other City League contests. Fifth Avenue hasn't won a game in two years and unless it has taken a decided brace, South should win with points to spare.

SCOTT IN NIGHT GAME

The program of games for out-of-town fans is featured by a night battle between Scott High and McKees Rocks at North Braddock and the Mt. Lebanon-Dormont duel at Mt. Lebanon.

The majority of the school, however, will play their contests tomorrow in commemoration of Armistice Day. Three class AA Conference battles are up for disposal. Washington is the attraction at Charleroi, Monessen plays at Greensburg and McKeesport goes to Norwin.

Beaver Falls will be out to score its seventh straight class A victory by invading Monaca, while the battle between Sewickley and Coraopolis at Coraopolis brings together sectional rivals in a game that holds unusual appeal with the scholastic fans.

BRADDOCK AT HOMESTEAD

Aliquippa plays at Clairton, Swissvale at Wilkinsburg, Washington Township at Apollo, West Newton at Derry Borough, Leetsdale at Etna, New Brighton at Freedom, Central Catholic at Aspinwall, Edgewood at East McKeesport, Duquesne at Elizabeth, Munhall at Glassport, Verona at Oakmont, Braddock at Homestead, Millvale at Springdale, Ben Avon at Bellevue and Ford City at Kittanning in other important games.

Coraopolis High will start things off for its battle with Sewickley at a banquet tonight in the Coraopolis Methodist Episcopal Church. The affair is being held under the auspices of the Varsity "C" Club and members of the football team will be the guests of honor.

Freedom High, setting the pace for the class B crown, has added another opponent to its schedule with the announcement that East Pittsburgh will be met at East Pittsburgh on Saturday, November 19.

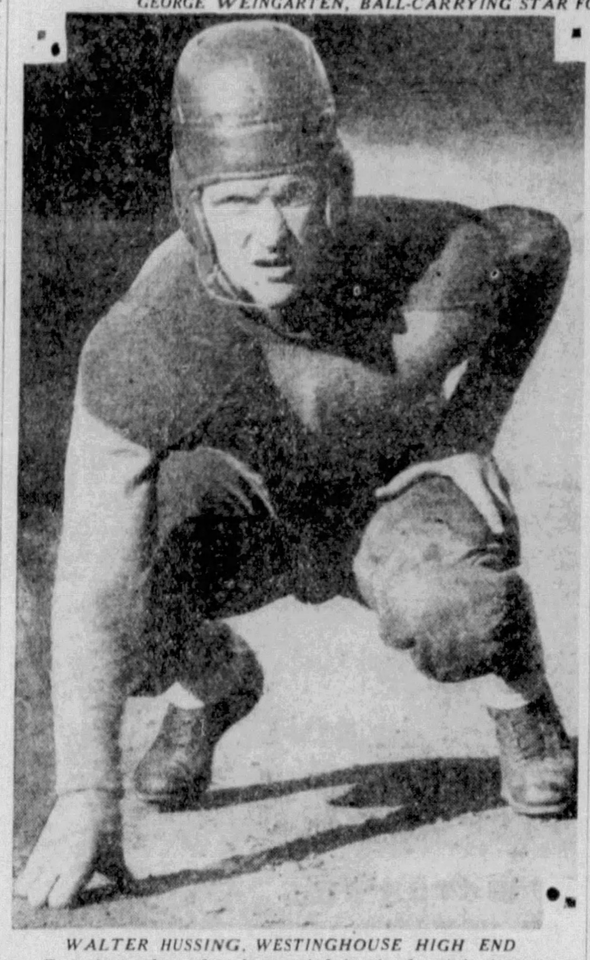
School Stars in Big Games Today

GEORGE WEINGARTEN, BALL-CARRYING STAR FOR SCHENLEY HIGH



WALTER HUSSING, WESTINGHOUSE HIGH END

Two stars whose play is expected to stand out in important school games this afternoon. Westinghouse plays Allderdice at Allderdice and Schenley plays Peabody at Peabody. A victory for Westinghouse will clinch the Section I title for the Silver Lakers. These are Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph pictures.

Maybe Mr. Carideo Has Arranged to Flag Elmer

LAWRENCE, Kan., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—The Missouri Tigers will have to look out for Elmer H. W. Schaake in their traditional forty-first football meeting with the Kansas Jayhawkers at Columbia Saturday.

The statisticians figured that Schaake, who recently was promoted from halfback to quarterback, gained an average of 4.3 yards on the half dozen times he ran with the ball against Notre Dame last Saturday.

Schaake was the author of a touchdown against Notre Dame. He caught a pass thrown by Halfback Carnie Smith, in the bewildering early offensive that sent the Jayhawks ahead of the Ramblers.

BELLEFONTE HOST

LEWISBURG, Pa., Nov. 10.—The unbeaten freshman team of Bucknell University will meet the Bellefonte Academy eleven under the lights at Williamsport Friday night, in an Armistice Day feature. The game is sponsored by the American Legion.

HOCKEY STARS TRADED

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Kay Iverson, manager and coach of the St. Paul American Hockey Association, announced he had traded Louis Holmes, center, to the Chicago Blackhawks, of the National League, for Jerry Lowery, a forward.

FIGHT RESULTS

At San Francisco—Lou Scozza won by technical knockout over James J. Braddock, 6 rounds; Pietro Georgi defeated Chick Raines, 4 rounds; Jack Beasley defeated Big Boy Rawson, 4 rounds.

Grovers Crippled For St. Vincent

GROVE CITY, Pa., Nov. 10.—The Grove City squad, still somewhat bruised, is beginning to shake off the effects of the hard game with Geneva last week. Coach Amos gave only light drills Monday and Tuesday, but was forced to increase the work for the rest of the week in the face of the hard game expected with St. Vincent's powerful team on Saturday.

The Crimson coach has a big job on his hands in juggling the players around to get an experienced player in every position. With Bachs and Tomko out of action, the line presents a problem, and none of the backs are in first-class condition as the result of recent hard games.

With Walter Baylor still incapacitated by a charley horse, Amos is grooming Koma, Oriss, Smith and Thomas for the backfield positions, holding Alexander and Gross for relief duty. Capt. Critchfield's persistent shoulder injuries may keep him out of action again Saturday, and Amos is grooming Glasgow for the center berth in place of the injured Bache.

Shady Side Athletes In Dual Program

The Nichols soccer football and soccer teams of Buffalo, will visit the Shady Side Academy campus Saturday to engage in combat with the Shady Side athletes in Tri-State Prep School League combat. University School of Cleveland is the other member of the circuit and annually the three schools engage in athletic competition.

The Tri-State games are the most important on the Shady side schedule, and the locals are being pointed for the invaders by Coaches Palmer and Davis.

DOBIE 'FIRES' STAR BACK

ITHACA, Nov. 10.—(INS.)—Johnny Ferraro, Cornell backfield star who has been benched with an injury most of the season, was temporarily banned from the Cornell varsity today by Coach Gil Dobie, and he has been dropped from training table.

Dobie's action, it was intimated, was disciplinary. Dick Beyer will take Ferraro's place against Dartmouth on Saturday.

Eastern Briefs

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Injuries have left Yale in a hole when it comes to figuring out the starting lineup for the Princeton game. Vic Malin, regular center, and Jimmy De Angelis, guard, suffered leg injuries in practice that look serious, and Joe Crowley and Walter Kimball are doubtful starters.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 10.—(INS.)—Princeton's chances against Yale were considered weakened today when it was definitely announced Mil Draudt, Tiger left halfback, would not start on Saturday. He is still suffering from a neck injury sustained in the Cornell game three weeks ago. Jack Baics will again take Draudt's post.

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—The current habit of making football trips as economically as possible has made a big change in Dartmouth's order of going to Ithaca for the Cornell game. The team will not leave until Friday noon, instead of Thursday, and will use the sleeping cars in which it travels as its hotel.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Army turned over the Michie Stadium field to the North Dakota State squad for two workouts yesterday while the Cadets held a single session on the regular practice field. Army held its first scrimmage of the week and all the ends were worked with the first team. Jack Lawlor made the best showing. The Bisons stressed their defense against Army's passing attack.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Mil Braudt, Princeton back, who was hurt in the Cornell game, will not be able to play against Yale, it was learned last night. The Tigers were forced indoors for the first time this season and cancelled the week's only scheduled scrimmage. Offensive work was stressed in the workout.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10.—(INS.)—George Munger will replace Carl Perina, injured Penn fullback, in the game against Ohio State on Saturday, it was announced today. The Penn squad will leave for Columbus tonight.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Rain and high wind did not check New York University and Fordham in their preparations for Saturday's struggle. The Violets had an outdoor session, including tackling and a line scrimmage while Fordham had a lengthy passing drill.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Yale held a long signal drill and a short scrimmage on defense against laterals and end runs. Injuries which seemed unimportant yesterday kept Vic Malin, center, and Jimmy De Angelis, guard, out of action.

CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—The Harvard line performed unusually well in a 15-minute scrimmage against the Scrubs. Defense against Holy Cross formations was stressed.

CORCORAN NEW HOLY CROSS GRID COACH

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 10.—(INS.)—Arthur E. Corcoran, formerly of Fordham, will take charge of the Holy Cross football squad, succeeding Capt. John E. McEwan, ousted head coach, it was reported today.

McEwan was suspended by college authorities after it was claimed he made a move to oust the team's trainer, Bart Sullivan. The coach and trainer argued during the recent game, which Holy Cross lost to Brown, 10 to 7.

In announcing the indefinite suspension of McEwan, the Rev. Timothy J. Phelan, S. J., moderator of athletics, said that action had been taken for the following reason:

"On account of your interference with the proper working of our athletic department by an unauthorized though widely published attempt to discharge one of our staff."

McEwan claimed Bart "had mutinied and had disobeyed my orders."

Sullivan has been track coach at Holy Cross for 20 years and is popular with alumni and undergraduates.

Harper to Speak On Radio Tomorrow

Jesse Harper, Notre Dame's athletic director, who in his long years in football has coached such men as the late Knute Rockne, Stan Cofall and Slip Madigan, will be presented by Christy Walsh on the All-America Football Show, tomorrow night. This program, which has been off the air the last two Friday nights due to election speeches, will continue its regular broadcasts until December 16.

Against the background of the cheering grandstand while the two best plays of last week's games are re-enacted, and the medley of college songs by Freddie Rich and his orchestra with a male chorus, Harper will step up to the microphone with some important news for football fans. The recent controversy concerning the coaching staff of Notre Dame will be cleared up by Harper.

Notre Dame Head Defines Team's Sportsmanship

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Notre Dame football teams and coaches aren't expected to win all their games, the Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, president of the university, said today in denying reports that a change in athletic policy was contemplated. Father O'Donnell said:

"Our share of victories is all we can expect. Our schedule should contain games in which our opponents have a sporting chance to defeat us. Thas is what we seek and therefore we must expect defeats."

W. & J. ON EDGE FOR BUCKNELL STRUGGLE

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 10—The lively actions of the Wash-Jeff gridders today indicated that they had snapped out of the daze they seemed to have been in following their decisive defeat last Saturday at the hands of the Duquesne Dukes, of Pittsburgh. The present mood of the Presidents is no happy omen for the Bucknell University eleven, which meets the Red and Black here Saturday.

Since the Presidents' blowup at Pittsburgh abusive fingers have been leveled at them and the most painful of all is that they are not carrying on the fiery spirit for which W. & J. elevens have always been noted.

Regulars and reserves were again sprinkled over two combinations used by Coach Hank Day in his effort to bolster weak spots.

The squad is rapidly rounding into good physical condition, with Basil Gray, center, the only Duquesne casualty, unable to take an active part in the workouts to date. However, he is expected to be available Saturday, along with Carl Bubenheim, guard, and Red Rittershaugh, end. Maury Leiber is also being groomed at the pivot post.

Earick and Deacle are fighting it out for the fullback assignment. King, who started against the Dukes, is still bothered with an aggravated leg injury.

Zagray will probably draw his usual post at left halfback, but Day refuses to indicate his running mate, with Rosso, Romeo and Furjanic fighting it out.

BISONS HAVE NEW STAR

LEWISBURG, Pa., Nov. 10.—George Berry, former Elmira (N. Y.) and Keystone Academy gridder, is the latest sophomore to be advanced to the varsity lineup at Bucknell University. Berry played more than half of the Western Maryland game and has been used much of the time in practices this week.

Coach Carl Snavely is planning to use Berry at end in a big part of the game at Washington, Pa., Saturday, when the Bisons clash with Washington and Jefferson in the Prexies' Homecoming Founders' Day feature.

St. Vincent, Grovers Set for Big Battle

LATROBE, Pa., Nov. 10.—The St. Vincent Bearcats finish up their practice drills this afternoon for the game tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 at Latrobe against the Grove City eleven. The Edwards-coached crew is in great condition and looks for its fourth win of the season. The leg injuries of Furin and Paul are giving the coach some worry, but both players have been holding up well in practice and seem to be able to play through the coming tilt.

The Grovers will be offering the Bearcats their biggest beef competition of the season and will most likely be out to wear down the light Bearcat team with a heavy running attack. But Edwards' second-string line is almost as good and pounds heavier than his regulars and will be able to match the visitors in brawn.

Jacket Star

TOM HOLLAND

STEUBENVILLE HIGH LIKELY CHAMPION

STEUBENVILLE, O., Nov. 10.—The National scholastic championship may be just a dream to some teams, but Steubenville Wells High School's footballers hope to make it a reality this year. Driving in steamroller fashion toward this superlative objective, the Big Reds find only Erie East's Tomcat Tamers blocking their path.

Erie East has trod upon Ashland's Kentucky Colonels, 1931 National kingpins, and, with Erie and Steubenville remaining unbeaten until the crucial test here November 19, it would not be surprising if national honors were contingent upon the outcome of the battle expected to draw more than 25,000 enthusiasts to Harding Stadium.

Steubenville's Big Red machine has aggregated 175 points against 31 for opponents in seven engagements this season, and virtually all of the teams can be rated in the "tough" category.

WESLEYAN ON EDGE

BUCKHANNON, W. Va., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Rain failed to halt West Virginia Wesleyan's preparation for Georgetown today. Everyone except White, who is injured, went through a light workout. All are expected to be in shape for the Hoya encounter.

BUCS GIVE YOUNG STAR TO KANSAS CITY IN SMITH DEAL

STANLEY SCHINO GOES AS PAY FOR HURLER

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Their player debt to Kansas City 50 per cent liquidated through the outright transfer of a highly impressive youngster, Pirate officials apparently have not reached an agreement with the Blues as regards the other athlete destined to receive a one-way ticket to the Mid-Western city.

The Pittsburgh moguls last night announced the release of Outfielder Stanley Schino, late of Tulsa, to Kansas City as part payment for Pitcher Hal Smith, promising righthander who joined the Freebooters in the middle of the past campaign.

Smith was purchased from the Blues for a snug sum and two players to be named at a later date. Schino had a remarkable season on the Pittsburgh farm in Oklahoma and the Kansas City owners made a plea for his services. Prexy Bill Benswanger, of the Buccos, took up the request with Manager George Gibson, who approved the proposition from his Canadian home.

RECRUIT OWNS PUNCH

Schino, 23, is a big boy who should be heard from in the big show; indeed, there is a likelihood that he will again advance to the Pirates, despite the fact that Kansas City has full claim to him. Stanley, a righthand batter, was a feature of the play in the Western League. The rookie batted .354 in 138 contests. His fine offensive showing, including the driving in of 143 runs, and he personally conducted 129 tallies over the plate.

The outfielder, a native of Oakland, Cal., played with Wichita in 1931. Wichita also was controlled by the Pirates. He batted .330 in his first year in the Western League and moved along with the other "Little Pirates" when the club was transferred to Tulsa.

PIRATES NEED PUNCH

Inasmuch as he had six other outfielders, Gibson figured he could spare Schino. The Pirates, nevertheless, is in need of a seasoned ball hawk of the right-hand variety to supply a punch which was missing last season. The home officials would jump at the chance to acquire Fred Lindstrom, but evidently the Giant owners demand one of the Waners or Pie Traynor in return for the dissatisfied Swede.

Pirate directors do not need to be hasty in sending another player to Kansas City. The latter club has not disclosed the name or names of the players desired, but this matter probably will be settled before the next season begins. The departure of Schino reduces the Pittsburgh roster to 29 players. The Buccos' family circle is made up of 11 pitchers, four catchers, eight infielders and six outfielders.

Straw to Appear In Titans' Lineup

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Nov. 10.—Merrill Straw, East McKeesport freshman, probably will start at tackle for Westminster Saturday when the Titans face Muskingum at New Concord, O.

Straw, who weighs more than 200 pounds, will take the place of Capt. Rehfus, while Rehfus will be shifted to guard in place of George Hollander, injured lineman.

Straw saw action against Thiel for more than three-quarters of the game last Saturday and played a good game. He is heavy enough so that the substitution will not weaken the forward wall of the Titans.

California Race Amendment Beaten

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 10.—(INS.)—A proposed constitutional state amendment for legalization of betting on horse races in California apparently had been defeated by more than 36,000 votes, according to returns from 9,201 precincts out of the state's 10,547. The tabulation stood:

Yes, 765,958; no, 801,045.

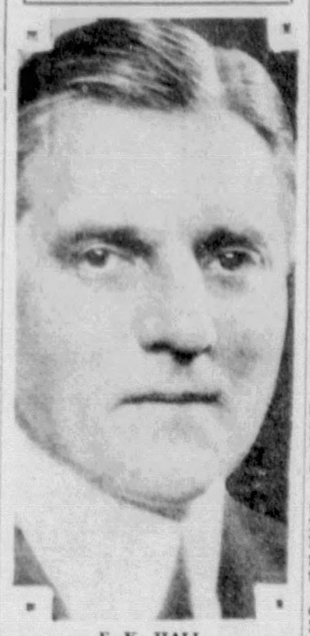
Football Rules Chairman Dies Suddenly



E. K. HALL

Heart Attack Fatal To Veteran Grid Authority

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Edward K. Hall, for many years chairman of the Football Rules Committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association and a former executive of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, died today of a heart attack at his home in Hanover, N. H., according to word received by friends here.

Hall was a vice president of the American Telephone Company when he retired and became a lecturer in the Amos Tuck School of Business Administration, Dartmouth College.

He was born at Granville, Ill., July 9, 1870. He was graduated from Dartmouth in 1892 and took a master's degree from the same college in 1902, and in 1912 became chairman of the rules committee. He, probably more than any other man, has had more to do with shaping the present type of football play. He was appointed its chairman in 1908, a post he has held since. During that period the modern game has evolved.

Between Rounds

Johnny Hazel, local lightweight, who has been trying for many weeks to line up bouts, now has three battles booked within five nights. He meets Nick Caruso at the Arena tomorrow night, Petey Sherman at the Garden on Monday and Frankie Portland in a four-rounder at the Arena on Tuesday.

Jack King, Little Rock welterweight, was to arrive today from Chicago for his windup battle with Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, at the Arena tomorrow night. Nick Venore will get in tonight from Philadelphia for the other 10-round battle, which will send him against Frankie Goosby, local Negro puncher. The card has been completed with three six-round preliminaries, as follows: Carl Montebano vs. Casey Rhodes, Jimmy Gilligan vs. Johnny Woods and Johnny Hazel vs. Nick Caruso.

Louie Disantis, of Cleveland, who boxed Patsy Hennigan and Don Asto at Hickey Park during the outdoor season, is fit again after a layoff due to bad hands, and wants to box here against any lightweight the promoters select for him.

His match at Motor Square Garden being off, Teo Yarosz will box the main bout at the Arena on the North Side, one week from tomorrow night. Matchmaker Lew Raymond is trying to dig up a good opponent for him. He tried to get Eddie Rain, but the Polish star is boxing in New York's Madison Square Garden the same night.

Motor Square Garden is rearranging its seating plan to get in more $1 admissions for its boxing shows during the remainder of the season, beginning with its Frankie Bojarski-Sid Silas show next Monday night.

Frankie Cawley boxes Al Ettore in the main bout of a show at the Cambria Club, Philadelphia, tomorrow night. Eddie Houghton meets Wally Sears in the Quaker City one week from tonight.

The Johnny Datto-Frankie Cheek bout at Milwaukee will be staged next Tuesday night, and not later, as at first announced.

Johnny Hazel and Petey Sherman have been matched to box the second preliminary at Motor Square Garden next Monday night.

Following is the complete list of 13 four-round new-talent bouts to be staged at the Arena next Tuesday night at the popular prices of 50 cents and $1, plus tax: Pep O'Brien vs. Swede Anderson, Steve Semich vs. Tommy Thompson, Johnny Hazel vs. Frankie Portland, Frank Kladdick vs. Red Bruce, Billy Clair vs. George Tucker, Joey Reynolds vs. Jackie Griffith, George Kerston vs. Hal Finney, Paul Monar vs. Joey Zelano, Dominick Mancini vs. Jackie Ruffner, Jimmy Smith vs. Walter Ketchel, George Schlee vs. Johnny Trusky, Harry Fine vs. Young Bordell and Bill Criggan vs. Jimmy Loizes.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—The Naval Academy announced today that E. H. Mohler, Navy baseball coach, will be replaced by Lieut. A. K. Doyle, U. S. N., who will act as coach and officer representative for the 1933 team.

VALLEY CAMP SOCCER TEAM SUSPENDED

By TOM BIRKS

The Valley Camp Soccer Club of the Keystone League last night was suspended indefinitely and fined $10, and Players Harrison, Bailey and Lorenzo were suspended for 30 days by the Western Pennsylvania Soccer Commission as a result of the trouble which arose at the Valley Camp-Curry game at Van Voorhis last Sunday. Referee O'Connor banished the players mentioned for dangerous play, and at the end of the game the referee was assaulted by one of the officials of the club.

The suspension includes all club officials and is effective throughout the United States.

One of the outstanding soccer games of the season will be flashed at the Westinghouse High School field Saturday, when Mt. Lebanon and Clan Douglas clash in the Pittsburgh Central League.

Douglas is a tough opponent and the fans should see a great game. Fred Donnelli is leading the Mt. Lebanon line. He is one of the most dangerous men in the district.

South Park may see a record crowd Sunday when the Shannon Zoneys and Curry clash in the second round of the national challenge cup. Both clubs are undefeated in league warfare and this fact alone should add fuel to the flames. Curry, with Mike Bookie back in the lineup, is playing great soccer.

Bookie is one of the headiest players in the district. Of course, the Zoney aggregation with its powerful defense, is a big obstacle to overcome. And it is the defense that is the major part of the Zoney machine.

In the Central League on Saturday, Ambridge travels to McKeesport. German Sport meets Union Switch at Swissvale, and Westinghouse tackles Lawrenceville at Leslie Park.

CLARK LEADS PRO GRIDDERS

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Earl (Dutch) Clark, of the Portsmouth Spartans, has passed Bronko Nagurski, the Chicago Bears' big line bucker, in the race for ground gaining honors in the National Football League.

Clark has gained 383 yards in eight games, while the ex-leader, who was held in check last Sunday, has dropped to fourth place with 283 yards. Two Stapleton players hold second and third places. Bob Campiglio has gained 300 yards and Doug Sykoff, 295.

Arnold (Flash) Herber, of Green Bay, leads the passers, having completed 14 passes in 24 attempts. Ray Flaherty, end of the New York Giants, has caught 12 tosses for gains of 215 yards.

George Hughes, Boston's Hawaiian halfback, holds the edge over Clark Hinkle, of Green Bay, in punting with an average og 47 yards. Red Grange, of the Bears, and Jack Grossman, of Brooklyn, share the scoring lead with 30 points each.

Papales, Olympics Oppose Rooneys

The J. P. Rooneys, undefeated West Penn Conference champions, went through a strenuous workout last night in preparation for the East Liberty Papale game at Peabody High School field tomorrow and the McKeesport Olympic game at Olympia Park Sunday.

Manager Art Rooney, realizing these two outstanding battles coming close together will be a severe strain on the club, had his reserve strength on hand for the practice session.

The Papales will hold a workout tonight. Seybold, former Burns star, has been added to the ball-carrying end of the Papale squad and he should prove a valuable acquisition.

SCOZZA SCORES K. O.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 10.—(INS.)—Lou Scozza, Buffalo light-heavyweight, today had won the right to meet the winner of the coming John Henry Lewis-Maxie Rosenbloom bout, following his sixth-round win over James J. Braddock, New Jersey heavyweight, here last night. Scozza was awarded a technical knockout last night when an old cut over Braddock's left eye began to bleed profusely.

Matmen in Lap, Scribe Kayos Both of 'Em

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—George Zaharias, of Pueblo, Col., essayed a flying tackle which carried him and his opponent, Nick Lutze, of Venice, Cal., into the lap of Ned Cronin, a sports writer, at a wrestling match here last night.

Cronin, a giant in his own right, arose in disgust and dumped the pair on the floor, knocking both unconscious. Seconds flourished towels and poured water on the dormant pair to no avail.

After the 20-second time limit, when neither arose, the referee called it a draw. Each had won a previous fall.

HIALEAH OFFERS HUGE PURSES

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—A program of stakes and purses totaling more than $300,000 for the winter meeting at Hialeah Park, January 19 to March 11, was announced today by James H. Bright, secretary-treasurer of the Miami Jockey Club.

The offering is the largest of any winter meeting in North America.

A new feature in the Florida derby with $10,000 added, to be run the final day of the meeting, will be the provision of a supplementary class.

The juvenile championship is another new idea at Hialeah Park this season settling the heretofore disputed question of the best 2-year-old of the meeting. This race will be for winners only and will follow the nursery stakes Nos. 1 and 2.

Class AA Honors Goal of Jeannette

GREENSBURG, Pa., Nov. 10.—Jeannette High School's football machine, provided it can win the remaining two games on its schedule with Union High, of Turtle Creek, and Greensburg, will have a better claim to the class AA school title than New Castle, even though the latter goes through its card unbeaten, it is disclosed by the schedules of both schools.

New Castle, according to its present schedule, has carded but four class AA opponents while Jeannette has five on its program. Since the title is to be based upon the percentage system, Jeannette will have a one-game lead over the Lawrence County team, provided neither school loses the remaining games on its schedule. Jeannette already has scored three wins over class AA teams and has the other two still remaining, while New Castle has but one, Turtle Creek.

GROVE CITY READY

GROVE CITY, Pa., Nov. 10.—The Grove City squad, still somewhat bruised, has shaken off the effects of the hard game with Geneva last week. Coach Amos gave only light drills Monday and Tuesday, but was forced to increase the work in the face of the hard game expected with St. Vincent's powerful team at Latrobe tomorrow.

HOCKEY LEAGUE OPENS RACE TONIGHT

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Already hardened by six weeks of intensive training, players of the National Hockey League swing into action at Toronto, Montreal and Detroit tonight in the opening engagements of the 1932-33 ice campaign.

The three opening games send the Rangers against the Maroons at Montreal, the Bruins against the Maple Leafs at Toronto and the Chicago Blackhawks against the Red Wings at Detroit. Ottawa plays its first game, at home, against the Maroons Saturday night, while the Boston Bruins will help the Montreal Canadiens' inaugurate the season on the same night. The New York Americans, last of the teams to get into action, open the season at Chicago Sunday.

Each of the nine teams will play 48 games this year, six against every other team. The season ends late in March with the six leading teams again qualifying for the Stanley Cup playoffs.

The championship scramble in the International League, of which Pittsburgh was a member of the last two years, will be inaugurated tomorrow, when Cleveland will appear at Windsor and Detroit will play at London. The other two members of the loop, Buffalo, the defending champion and Syracuse, will not see action until Sunday, when they will clash at Syracuse.

GRID PROBE TO BE AIRED

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(INS.)—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, today promised "the widest possible publicity" would be given the report of the committee investigating football methods at Columbia. He said the finding of the university committee would be made public in detail as soon as completed, about January 1.

FLOOR LEAGUE TO MEET

An important meeting of the County Basketball League will be held Monday evening at 8 o'clock at the Irene Kaufmann Settlement House. Teams which either have been granted or are seeking franchises are required to attend.

BEAT MICHIGAN, HOPE OF STAGG AND CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Amos Alonzo Stagg is supposed to be conservative at his ripe age of 70, but he's got a persistent hunch that his University of Chicago Maroons are going to bounce Michigan out of their exclusive Big Ten football flat Saturday.

Although the odds against such a stunning upset are about 50 to 1, Coach Stagg and his players figure they have a great chance to turn the trick right in Michigan's own backyard. Here's how they are figuring success in their giant killer role.

First, two Chicago regulars of great value, Pete Zimmer and Hugh Mendenhall, will be back to give the team full strength for the first time in three weeks. Zimmer is rated as a great ball carrier while Gendenhall is one of the best defense men against passes—and Michigan's road to fame has been through the air—in football.

Secondly, the Maroons have threatened to score in the first period of every game this fall. If such a chance is offered in the Michigan game, Coach Stagg's bulging trick bag will be ripped wide open for one big drive, after which defensive football will be played.

Thirdly, Chicago defeated Indiana, 13 to 7, whereas Michigan, apparently showing the strain of the hard drive for the title, turned back the same Hoosiers, 7 to 0, last Saturday.

GAME RAINED OUT

The grid game scheduled for Etna High field last night between the Etna Sycamores and the Tarentum Firemen was postponed because of rain.

STOCK PRICES IRREGULARLY HIGHER

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—The stock market recovered today, just as quickly as it declined yesterday.

During the morning leading issues pushed up about 1 to 4 points, virtually canceling the losses which occurred at the same time yesterday. The list turned dull in the middle of the day, however, and eased off a little from the best.

The backing and filling of the market, such as had been seen in the past two sessions, was described in prominent brokerage quarters as reflecting little save professional trading activity. The public remained aloof. The most encouraging aspect of the market, according to a number of analysts, has been the quick cessation of selling on declines.

Marked strength of the rails coincided with the meeting of the advisory committee of the Association of Railway Executives. Usually well-informed quarters in Wall street have turned hopeful of the formation of a unified national program for dealing with the railway problem. Only yesterday, the Coolidge commission met, and Mr. Coolidge said it had asked for reports from various interested groups. It was recalled, also, that Gov. Roosevelt has taken an active interest in the railway problem, and outlined a program during his campaign which was described as "constructive" in various quarters in Wall street.

The chief item of corporate news was United States Steel's monthly report of unfilled tonnage, showing a small gain for the third successive month, after 16 months of steady declines. The October gain amounted to only 11,950 tons, which might normally be regarded as unimportant. Nevertheless, Wall street would not have been surprised had a decline been reported, in view of the pre-election hesitancy which became pronounced around the middle of October.

BUYING FIRMS COTTON PRICES

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Cotton futures opened steady, ½ lower on disappointing Liverpool cables and under southern selling. December, 6.07c; January, 6.10c; March, 6.20c; May, 6.29c; July, 6.40c; October, 6.54c.

The comparatively light initial offerings were absorbed within a point or two of the opening prices, and the market soon steadied on covering and a scattering demand which came partly from trade sources. There was a little selling at the start through brokers with continental and Far Eastern connections, but offerings from the South tapered off after the call and contracts became comparatively scarce, with December working up from 6.02 to 6.10 and May from 6.29 to 6.34, making the general list about 3 to 4 points net higher.

After holding quiet and steady, with narrow price changes during the greater part of the morning, prices stiffened toward midday. Offerings continued light and it required little demand to send December up to 6.19 and March to 6.45, or about 10 to 15 points higher.

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 10.—Cotton—Receipts, 18,000 bales, including 17,700 American. Spot in fair demand; prices 16 points lower. Quotations in pence: American strict good middling, 6.14; good middling, 5.89; strict middling, 5.64; middling, 5.44; strict low middling, 5.29; low middling, 5.14; strict good ordinary, 4.94; good ordinary, 4.64. European Copper Quotation Lower

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Foreign copper, which sold as high as 5.75 cents a pound yesterday, was shaded in price today, being quoted from 5.50 to 5.62½ cents. Offerings abroad were said to be larger. There was no change in domestic quotations.

DEBT SLASHING TASK FACES NATION

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The country must and doubtless soon will come to grips with the fact that the debt (capitalization) of industry and agriculture has gotten out of balance with the current gross volume expressed in dollars.

Capitalized if not overcapitalized, on the basis of 1928-29 operations, the business structure is overcapitalized on the basis of present volume. The disequilibrium cannot in the nature of things be continued indefinitely, though the advances by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, which have afforded temporary relief, have postponed the day of judgment. The lack of balance, however, acts as a deterrent to the free flow of goods.

Mr. Rukeyser

JOBS PRIME FACTOR

If an economic Mussolini could impose his ideas and make them work, the simplest and most painless adjustment would be to enlarge the gross volume of business. This entails a more scientific study of the economics of consumption, to which, by the way, the United States Department of Commerce under Secretary Chapin has directed its attention. It also involves a real appreciation of the extent to which public buying power has been crippled, and a plan for rehabilitating it, by means of effective farm relief and at least partial relief of unemployment through stimulating construction, public or private.

Such a plan is the soundest long range program for lifting the general standard of living, and raising business, big and little, from its present level of only partial employment.

But the due dates on interest and maturity payments will come too soon—indeed in some instances have already arrived—to permit certain weaker factors to sit down calmly and wait for the outcome of ultimate rehabilitation.

LEGISLATION SEEN

As a matter of fact, when the lame duck Congress meets in December, the pressure for legislation favoring the unhappy debtor will be great. There are, of course, two broad methods for relieving the real weight of existing debt. One is inflation, from which Congress has apparently turned its face. The other is direct dealing with the problem of scaling down indebtedness. Congress is likely to consider especially the question of refinancing farm mortgages, which will entail a plea to give extensions and perhaps scaling down of interest and amortization charges to delinquent farmers. In the urban field as well as in farm mortgages, enlightened creditors, recognizing changes in conditions, have already been quietly making such voluntary adjustments, and others are being widely discussed. The outstanding examples have been the British and French conversion of governmental issues.

Some of the weaker railroads will soon have to choose between scaling down their unwieldly debt through receivership or voluntary reorganization of their financial structures.

Before long also the European debtors of the American Treasury will ask for special revision of their debt, which was already drastically scaled down a few years ago by the debt funding commission.

EQUITY FINANCING LIKELY

To the extent that domestic fixed charges are reduced through corporate and individual debt adjustment and through curtailment of taxes, business will be encouraged by increasing opportunities to operate in the black under changed economic conditions.

A certain amount of the clearing up of the wreckage in capitalization will have to take place even after the gross volume of business begins to move upward.

To the extent that railway and other corporate debt revision is necessary, it should be a lesson to investors that bonds of companies with an unbalanced capital structure are not likely to be sound investments. Until business volume and earnings become better stabilized through the years, sincere and honest financing will lay perhaps greater emphasis than in the past on equity financing, using only such proportion of funds as can be carried even through the trough of the economic cycle.

Young Wife Is Denied Right To See Lennox Before Death Takes Him

CHAPTER XIX.

Fred Van Alstyne moved about uneasily. He was not very alarmed, but the situation upset him. He was a personable young man. He was a very popular one. He flirted with some of the younger girls, was attentive to Fanny. Now and then he looked over at Elizabeth. He had seen her often since she came to live at the Sheldons', but somehow he had never noticed her before. Lovely, lovely—a still, white flame.

After an interminable time it was over, the last guest had gone, the last carriage had driven away. The caterer's men moved deftly about, the orchestra had gathered their stringed instruments together, had cloaked them in dull green and departed. The house was forlorn, the flowers fading, cups and glasses, plates and silver cluttered sideboards and tables.

Louisa spoke to Ella. "Yes, a feverish cold, but he's quite all right. No, of course they cannot travel today. I've wired—yes, in a day or so."

Ella was bewildered. But Louisa was the stronger. She went back to her room, not apprehensive, and helped Elizabeth out of the wedding gown—did some one spill wine here, on the train? What a pity, how careless—and unpacked a little, simple dinner gown. The traveling suit, braided and many buttoned, lay over a chair.

NURSE PRESENT

There was a nurse in the house. No one knew it but Louisa and the doctor and Lennox. Elizabeth was to learn of it. Not now. The nurse was not in evidence. She was behind closed doors.

The wedding party dined at the Sheldon house. If Elizabeth had thought the reception a nightmare, that dinner was something conceived in the brain of a malicious madman.

After dinner the wedding party went on to the theater. That had all been arranged. Elizabeth and Lennox were to have taken an evening train, directly after dinner.

"I have had a couch made up for you in Lennox's room," his mother told her when the house was quiet again. "The nurse will stay on tonight, she will be next door, in my room. She goes to another case tomorrow. She has only come in the emergency."

Elizabeth went upstairs to her husband.

He appeared to be sleeping. The nurse moved about the room, she smiled a little at the girl who came in with a rush and then stood quite still, quiet and timid.

GIVEN DIRECTIONS

"He may not know you," she said, "but don't be alarmed. Mrs. Sheldon has told me I am to stay in her room, to be within call. There is nothing to do. I will come in from time to time."

She explained. Elizabeth did not hear. There was nothing to do.

Elizabeth's night-things had been brought in. She sat quietly beside the bed until the nurse had gone next door. She had her directions by heart—when to call the woman, what to do if he woke. His breathing filled the room with a dreadful sound. The windows were open, she shivered in the draught. She went into his dressing room presently and undressed, and put on the little nightgown with the embroidery and the rosy ribbons. She covered it with a garment of satin and lace and sat down again beside him, her hair loose about her shoulders.

Why didn't he know her? She belonged to him. Why couldn't he open his eyes and speak to her—just once?

She was alone with her husband on her wedding night.

God, make him better . . .

Synopsis

Mrs. Louisa Sheldon, aristocratic widow, who idolizes her son, Lennox, above all things else on earth, is arranging details of his wedding to Elizabeth Howland. Mrs. Sheldon in secret decided to marry off Lennox to some nice girl more than two years before when he attended a party where giddy girls of no social standing had made merry with the boys. Mrs. Sheldon took command of wedding plans and sent Elizabeth home to visit her family for a few months. Lennox goes to Boston to see Elizabeth. They decide to elope, but Louisa spoils their plans. Louisa orders an almost immediate marriage and rushes the wedding plans. Lennox gets a cold and after the wedding ceremonies he becomes very sick.

Now Go On

God, let him get well. Oh, God, don't punish us like this—

Next door the nurse and Louisa Sheldon were waiting, they were awake, they were not speaking.

Three days later every one new that Lennox Sheldon was down with pneumonia.

"When?" asked everybody. "Yesterday, wasn't it? Oh, poor boy, poor little bride—isn't it dreadful?"

KEPT FROM HUSBAND

Elizabeth was banished from the sick room. The guests had gone. Ella had wished to stay, had been tearful and insistent, but Louisa had swept her from the house, an unconsidered atom.

The nurses dominated now, the new ones, two by night and two by day. The doctors came and went, specialists, consultants. But Elizabeth waited, in corners, near the door. His mother went in and out. In the room barred to his wife, Lennox Sheldon fought for life.

If Elizabeth couldn't go in she could at least be nearby, couldn't she? She would wait, quietly, almost hidden, and then dart suddenly upon her mother-in-law and hold her with hands that shook and clutched.

"I will see him—I will see him—just for a minute—I'll be so good, so quiet—Just to go in once—and touch him—? I must——" she cried, her small face swollen, ravaged.

Louisa shook her head.

"He wouldn't let you keep me from him, if he knew!" said Elizabeth hoarsely. "He told me—she shan't hurt you—he said—you're hurting me now—you're killing me, I tell you!"

Her voice rose, escaped all control. She screamed like a thing in a trap.

Lennox's door opened. The doctor appeared, one of them. He looked from Mrs. Sheldon to the swaying girl. He caught Elizabeth in his arms, lifted her, asked briefly, "Where's her room?" and carried her there, laid her on the bed, forced a sedative between her teeth. "Another patient on our hands," he remarked.

ELIZABETH SUMMONED

The nurses talked things over when they shifted duties.

"Just married — taken down two days after the wedding—have you seen her—? Oh, that little thing? No, not exactly pretty."

Then there was a night when the specialist rose from the bedside and looked at his colleague, at the two uniformed women, and then at Louisa. He said, low, "You'd better call young Mrs. Sheldon——"

Louisa asked, dimly, as from a great distance, "You mean—?"

"Yes—now——"

She made an imperative, outward, sweeping gesture with her hands.

"You—all of you—please—"

They understood. There was nothing more that they could do. They left the room, stood within call. A nurse, the dark, younger one, ran to Elizabeth's door, knocked.

"Mrs. Sheldon. Mrs. Sheldon."

She was sitting in there. Dressed. At 3 in the morning. She rose, opened the door, looked out, eager, waiting.

"He asked for me?"

The nurse was transfixed with pity. One didn't get used to it, one didn't, no matter what they said. She lied gently.

"Yes. You'd better come."

They sped along the hall together, like figures in a dream. The lights burned all the way, dimly.

IS SHUT OUT

There at the door they stopped. The two physicians stood there, the other nurse. The family doctor has his hand on the knob. He said urgently, his mouth against the panels, "Mrs. Sheldon is here—"

There was no answer.

He turned, finally, a tired man, with a gesture of amazed helplessness.

"She has locked the door."

Elizabeth panted, her eyes torn wide. She whispered, "The other ——? From her room?"

A nurse ran, was gone a moment, came back. Louisa Sheldon's room had been given over to the nurses. But that communicating door was locked also, from the other side.

She came back with her report. Elizabeth seized one of the men by the arm, shook him.

"He's dying!"

He put the arm about her.

"Yes, my dear——"

"And she won't let me in? Oh, but she'll let you in, doctor. See, tell her you must come in—she'll never see me slip in behind you. I'll be so careful—quiet—"

He answered, as the nurses drew apart, huddled together in terror, for this thing was outside their experience.

"There is nothing I can do—She's kept up so long, I've wondered—she's not responsible, my dear—my dear——"

He looked over toward the other man, who shook his head, watching.

Elizabeth was beating on the door. Her voice was not human.

"Let me in—let me in—Lennox! Lennox!"

One of them caught her hands, held her back.

"No—no—you mustn't—let me try again——"

But she pulled away, frenzied, very strong.

"Let me in!" she screamed. "Lennox, tell her she must let me in. God — God — have mercy!" she implored. "God——"

The door opened. Louisa Sheldon stood there. Her hands were lax at her side, her face was the color of old ashes. She looked at the screaming, kneeling girl with indifference and looked away again. She inclined her tall head, quite formally, to the doctors, the nurses. "Will you go in?" she asked, gently. "You see, my son is dead."

They were hushed; they did not move even as Elizabeth fell face downward in complete unconsciousness. They were as still as the room with the opened door.

In an insane calm, almost with triumph, Louisa passed down the corridor, alone.

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

Members of the Memorial Chapter of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club enjoyed several fine acts of juvenile talent at their meeting Saturday.

Those taking part in the entertainment were:

Regina Pater—"Some of These Days."

Violet Byerly—Dance.

Vera Hollywood—"I Just Couldn't Say Goodby."

Dennis Smith—Dance.

Gene Cotter—"Snuggle On Your Shoulder."

Dorothy Gavallier—Acrobatic Dance.

Billy Mossburg—"A Shanty In Old Shanty Town."

Ruth Masters—"My Silent Love."

Marie Guiser—"Strangers."

Jean Brown—Tap Dance.

Cookie Olsen—"All of Me."

Following the stage part of the entertainment the boys and girls held a singing contest and the boys were judged the winners.

LARGE ATTENDANCE

The Manor Chapter, with more than 900 members present last Saturday, came closest to any club of having a perfect attendance record. In fact it was just about 200 members short of having its entire membership present.

The entertainment was furnished by Vera Liebau and consisted of the Arnold Sisters in a double tap, Betty Lennon in a toe dance and Cecil Becker in an acrobatic dance that brought rounds of applause from the members. Each member as they entered the theater was presented with a jig-saw puzzle.

MANOR NEWS

Evelyn Parker, the "official junior reporter" of the Manor Chapter, sends in the following news items:

Many new members joined Saturday; among them were Lenora Bectin, Jean Tenenbaum, Marcella Rice, Myrille Nevins and Irwin Glick.

William Barkley attended the meeting Saturday. It was the first time William has been out in over a week. A week ago, while riding his bicycle, he collided with a street car and was in bed for a week.

Robert Kann, of Fair Oaks street, attended the meeting. Manager Joe Blowitz asked him where he had been for the past month. Well, it seems that Bob went south with his parents for a vacation. Lucky boy, Bob—two vacations a year.

Here's another lucky member of the Manor Chapter: Rosalyn Rodgers is on her way south and will not return until the spring. The members will miss you, Rosalyn. Write us.

Mary Napoleon is once more able to attend the regular meetings and she also returned to school this week after a long illness.

Robert Goldboom, of 5535 Darlington road, entertained 10 of the members at his home last week on his tenth birthday. After the party at his home, in which the guests played several games, they were the guests of Manager Blowitz at the theater.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAYS

Congratulations to the following boys and girls, all members of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club, who are celebrating their birthdays today:

South Hills—James Eland, Newton Zahniser, James Boustead, Roy Keirm.

Enright—Silas Tutt, Edna Neckert, Chester Brubaker.

Fine Opportunity For the Loser

We realize that it is a tough predicament to scram for office and be defeated by a microscopic landslide.

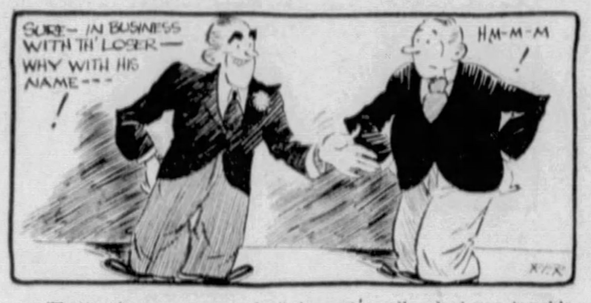
Now, the man who wins feels as chipper as a mouse in the dark. He made the same promises the other fellow made and he won.

The man who loses is a giant emerging from the small end of the horn.

He doesn't have to keep the promises. So he feels pretty good, too.

No matter who wins and loses it ain't bad publicity for 'em both. Just two guys in an elimination tournament all by themselves. And it takes 200 players in the National League to amuse us all summer.

Why do you think Bill Bryan kept on running and losing all those times? It's like chasing a train down the tracks. Even if you don't catch it somebody's new hat is liable to blow out of the window.



That's why we say you don't have to really shed non-taxable tears over the man who lost, for they'll remember him longer than the Vice President who won.

The winner can't leave the country, must dedicate cornerstones and be glad to see his visitors at all times. The loser can go where he desires and can fish without the help of the Marines and the Secret Service.

When we worked on the Washington Times during Mr. Wilson's administration we often walked home at midnight with Kirk Miller of the sports staff. Coming down Connecticut avenue we would bump into Mr. Wilson who was then courting Mrs. Galt. Mr. Wilson was always the pivot man in a squad of four Secret Service operatives. They went where he did, ate when he did and sat on the sofa when he did. Now, what kind of a courtship is that?

That's why we say that flunking in the electoral college ain't so bad. Say, half the fun of living is eating supper without your coat on. And there hasn't been any President who has done that since we remember.

If the loser ain't sure what he is going to do we'll go into business with him. We'll get by with our ability and his name on the glass door.

SAFE AND SANE JOURNALISM

(Garvey, Cal., Advertiser)

It is reported that officers were called to quell a lot of loud talking at a meeting held on South San Gabriel boulevard Friday night. Nothing of the details could be learned except that some were cussed out, some were bawled out and some were put out. So there you are—you know as much about the alleged occurrences as we do. Things of this sort soon die out, although one side or the other is wrong. Sometimes they are both right and one side or the other is wrong. Sometimes they are both right and sometimes they are both wrong. This newspaper knows nothing of the merits of either side of the discussion.

FRISBY HONORED ONCE AGAIN

WASHINGTON. — Congressman Horace Frisby last night addressed members of the Sweet Pea Growers' Association at the annual ice cream and cake festival. He also won the fried fish eating contest, and was made an honorary Sweet Pea grower. Mr. Frisby spoke as follows:

"I am called Beaver by pages in the House of Representatives because, I suppose, I work like one. I am glad to endorse the sweet pea, and if I can help the sweet pea industry at any time I hope your executive council will call upon me to make a speech. You will find me a true friend, a jolly companion, progressive, yet cautious, and always ready with a compliment for the deserving and a good swift kick for the gangster and his ilk. And now, with another dish of ice cream and a piece of cake, if you do not mind, I will continue to circulate among the sweet pea growers and answer any question on the spur of the moment."

Independence Declared

The Democratic Victory in Allegheny County Will Have a Wholesome Effect.

Incomplete and unofficial returns indicate Pennsylvania has remained in the Republican column, though by a comparatively small margin.

But "the great State of Allegheny," as Lincoln once called this county, has gone Democratic, as the Sun-Telegraph's presidential poll showed it would. Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt has swept the county, and multitudes of voters, taking the easiest way of voting for him—that is, by voting the straight Democratic ticket—have also elected a number of Democratic candidates for Congress and the Legislature.

This is one of the most surprising outcomes of the election, although pointed out as a strong possibility in these columns.

The Republican upset in Allegheny County is a declaration of independence by the citizens—a declaration that they will no longer slavishly follow Republican leadership regardless of what that leadership offers, but intend to think for themselves and vote for the candidates, regardless of what their party label may be, whose election promises to do most to advance the welfare of the people.

This new spirit augurs hopefully for the overturn of the city Republican machine in the municipal election next year, in which a Mayor and six Councilmen are to be chosen.

William S. Vare, Republican boss of Philadelphia, appears to have held that city in line for Hoover by a small majority. This feat is a remarkable tribute to Vare's influence and to Philadelphians' docility.

The Republican losses in Pennsylvania should benefit the party in the end, for it paves the way for new leadership which will be more careful to offer the people attractive candidates and policies.

It scarcely need be said that the Democrats will have to be alert and vigorous and to render the best sort of public service if they are to retain their Pennsylvania gains.

The new Democratic members of the Legislature from Allegheny County will be expected to vote for the repeal of the Blue Laws and the Snyder act, and to support such legislation as may be necessary to correct the public utilities evils from which Pennsylvania is suffering.

U. S. Treasury Is Made 'Prince and Pauper' by Shifts in Income Tax

The federal government's dependence for revenue on the highly fluctuating yield from income and profits taxes throughout the business cycle tends to give the Treasury a "prince and pauper" existence.

Thoughtful groups are increasingly restive over the speculative character of public finances.

In this spirit, the American Bar Association at its recent annual convention at Washington, adopted a resolution declaring:

"The Congress should endeavor, in future revisions or amendments of the revenue act of 1932, to decrease substantially the dependency for revenues on taxes on net incomes and to secure a large proportion of the necessary federal revenues from forms of taxes less susceptible to sharp fluctuations as a result of changes in general business and professional activity."

This intelligent plea to broaden and stabilize the tax base merits serious public consideration.

From a revenue standpoint, the great evil of the income tax is that it is a fair weather proposition, which falls down in times of adversity.

Business profits, on which income taxes depend, bulge greatly in time of prosperity and almost vanish in the trough of depression. The taxes fluctuate accordingly.

As Robert E. Coulson, of New York, who presented the resolution which the bar association adopted, pointed out:

"Our present situation is an apt commentary on the total inefficiency of the income tax system. Congress was led to wild extravagance in 1927 and 1928, yet at the present time our government has accumulated a three billion dollar deficit in 18 months, despite the levying of endless oppressive nuisance taxes.

"It is absolutely essential to the financial standing of this government that we establish a system of revenue which will bring in reasonably level returns in bad times or good."

The sanest expression of this policy would be a widely diffused manufacturers' sales tax, such as has been successfully operated in Canada, in the Philippines and elsewhere.

The inadequacy of a makeshift alternative, consisting of special burdensome sales taxes, spread thick on a few items, has been demonstrated.

On the other hand, a general sales tax, tapping the broadest possible base, would be productive even in times of maximum depression, and would operate in a comparatively painless manner, with minimum disturbance to business.

Congress, at the next session in December, should immediately make a genuine balancing of the budget feasible by enacting a general manufacturers' sales tax, supplemented by excise taxes on light wines and beer, which should forthwith be legalized.

The liquor tax can be collected without burden to the community, in so far as it would in effect merely end the illicit tax exemption now enjoyed by disreputable bootleggers.

The advice of the bar association is in line with the conclusions of other competent organizations and individuals who have grasped the need for scientific taxes, in place of the existing hodge podge imposts.

Britain Ready to Pay

But First She Will Make a Strong Effort to Have Practically All of the War Debts Canceled.

By B. C. FORBES

BRITAIN, acting in concert with other leading European powers, plans to bring every possible pressure upon the United States to wipe off the slate all, or practically all, the war debts owed us; but I understand that, if Washington refuses to agree to cancellation, or semi-cancellation, BRITAIN HAS THE MONEY READY IN THIS COUNTRY TO MAKE HER DECEMBER 15 PAYMENT.

Before Britain permitted her currency, sterling, to drop disastrously last month, I am informed that SHE TOOK THE PRECAUTION OF PURCHASING AN ADEQUATE AMOUNT OF AMERICAN DOLLARS and French francs, both firmly based on gold.

Therefore, should it be deemed necessary, in an attempt to intimidate the United States, to depress sterling to something like half its former international worth, the British government would not find it necessary to buy dollars next month at excessive cost in pounds sterling.

WHY is Great Britain less ready than other foreign debtors to refuse to honor her obligations to us? This explanation comes from a responsible British source:

"It is enormously in Great Britain's interest that she should not set an example of default, seeing that she has so many millions of her own capital invested abroad."

From the same source comes this:

"What will Great Britain do if America refuses to cancel or reduce her war debts?

"The answer is: 'She will continue to pay the whole amounts without question.'"

As explained in a previous editorial here, the "weapon" Britain proposes to point at the head of America is sterling; sterling depreciated to $3 or, if need be, $2.50, a rate which, the British claim, would totally ruin America's foreign trade, and enable the various countries comprising the far-flung British Empire to relegate America to second-rate economic and industrial importance.

BRITAIN has begun emphasizing, for the benefit of Americans, that "the cost of living in Great Britain, owing to the immense size of the sterling area, which is indeed virtually self-supporting, has not advanced" since Britain abandoned the gold standard. The warning, or threat, clearly implied is:

"If you Americans insist upon collecting war debts, we will push our currency down to a level which will make it impossible for you to sell anything outside your own shores, and we will do this without causing our own prices to skyrocket, because our empire is 'virtually self-supporting.'"

Unless the inexorable workings of economic law are to be dethroned, no such result will eventuate. No nation has ever yet found a widely fluctuating currency conducive to national stability and prosperity. Nor will Great Britain. Make no mistake about it, Britain is extremely anxious to be able to restore a dependable currency, tied securely to gold, just as soon as she can effect a war debts settlement satisfactory to her.

WASHINGTON must refuse to be stampeded by British or other threats. Britain, France and every other nation admittedly is animated, in all war debt overtures, by self-interest. That is entirely natural.

Why should the United States be expected by Britain or France or any other country NOT to be animated by self-interest? It would be highly improper for those whom the American people have chosen to represent them at Washington to be animated by any other interest.

The American taxpayer is neither in a mood nor a financial position to assume the role of a Santa Claus bestowing billions of dollars to foreign nations, our competitors for foreign trade—and competitors with one another in multiplying colossal armaments.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

This Thing Called Love

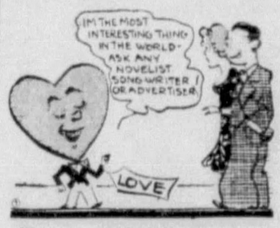
Whether love is "the greatest thing in the world" or not, it is always and forever the most interesting thing.

* * *

Nations may fight wars, thrones may topple, stock markets may crash and cities may go broke—but love quarrels, marriages and divorce scandals still continue to make the front page. And to make the most interesting reading.

* * *

You can't get away from "this everlasting man-and-woman business," as Rachel Crothers calls it. The he-and-she angle of the human equation!



Women may go in for careers, business, politics and professions; but no amount of laurels will ever take the place of orange blossoms. And no pay envelope will ever take the place of a man's shoes in the closet and his hat on the hall rack. No collection of loving cups will ever decorate the house like a husband, or give it that finished look.

* * *

Marriage may change from a life-sentence to an experiment—from a whole-time job to a part-time job; from ownership to partnership. But, in the end, it still runs along on the same old tracks, with the same old bumps and jars and ups and downs, to the same old destination.

Oh yes, love is the most interesting thing in the world. Otherwise, playwrights would find some other plot besides the eternal triangle, and novelists would find some newer theme than the age-old sex problem. And song-writers would cease babbling of faithless men and lovelorn ladies.

* * *

"You can't monkey with the rules of the game," says Miss Crothers. "It's still a man's world. And man made the rules."

* * *

No, you can't monkey with the rules of the love-game—but man did not make them. The rules were made by God—or by Nature—when He made the first man and the first woman. And you can't change them or twist them around any more than you can transpose the eyes and the nose in the human face. Laws may change and customs may change, but love goes on in the same old way.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Only 20 per cent of New York's yachts were in commission last summer. The rest were in dry dock. More than 1,000 luxury sloops in local waters are for sale, for from 30 per cent to 10 per cent of their original prices. But there are no takers.

Upkeep is staggering. A seagoing barque, accommodating 14 guests, costs in the neighborhood of $1,000 a week for maintenance and, in addition, the crew must be paid part salary during off-seasons. A large number, in boom days, were operated solely on market winnings.

Thus yacht owning mostly became an exaggerated magnificence of the very rich. It was such top-drawer folk who fell hardest in the crash. An extraordinary yacht swap recently was that of an owner who turned in his $62,000 boat for a year's accommodation at a local hotel.

Despite obvious extravagances, yachting, in some instances paid for itself. Particularly was this true in the promoting of enormous deals. A yacht owner often took conferees on cruises and, amid such splendor, "important money" deals did not seem so big, and were clinched.

But when the world turned so wholly gray, owners took an oblique view. Society scribblers received sub-rosa requests not to mention certain soirees which were given aboard. Passing dividends and yacht-owning directors, my dears, did not set well with shorn stockholders.

Steve Hannagan, motoring through Long Island, picked up a hitch-hiker who said he had been out of work two years. He rambled on in spurts of garrulity about farmers paying for services only with food, clothes and lodging. "And you wouldn't accept?" asked Steve. He said, "No," and Hannagan jammed the brakes. "Get out, you mug. That's all anybody gets these days. You're a bum!" he yelled.

The most agreeable 15-minute saunter in New York is around the Carl Schurz park on East End avenue, beginning at 86th street. After a half circle of the park along a surprising byway, one comes upon almost an old-world quai, where sun-warmed benches are filled with prosy types. There are pipe-puffing old men out of the Fliegende Blatter, from the Yorkville section, conversing in German. A river, lapping in ping-pong monotony, is dotted with craft—from sailboat to freighter. Uniformed nurses and woolen-bound rosebuds. Unleashed poodles. Here and there, a sketch artist netted in rose bush shadows. Boys, leap-frogging over rotting pier posts. Penny vendors of hot sweet potatoes, which, well buttered, on a chilly day are as fine eating as there is in the world. One appreciates Ring Lardner's dubbing articles, "No Visitors, N. Y.," when temporarily residing and writing from there.

The tug for even a denatured countryside touches all transplanted, sometimes. Manhattan becomes a cycle. The newcomer wants to live in the heart of things, a balcony overlooking Times Square and such. Then he seeks a quieter avenue. And, after years, the almost irresistable urge for sweeps of grass and white heads of clover running before the wind. He's fed up with asphalt and people.

Going is tough for foreign language newspapers these days, and their problems are not of depression alone. Readers—once in hundreds of thousands—were largely those migrating and slow to adopt a new tongue. Their children sniff at old-world ways. Immigration, too, has lessened and the few arriving master English quickly. Other difficulties make publication almost prohibitive.

I dined last night in a decaying brown-stone, luxuriating a soft Louisa M. Alcott decorum, amid the brisk humors of commerce in the 30's. The host mixed his salad dressing at the table in a huge jolly wooden bowl. I noticed, merely watching the deft juggling of vinegar, mustard, salt and pepper; and, perhaps, a thin rinse of garlic whips up the appetite. Not only that, it excited a spontaneous ignition of swell yarns.

There was Rube Goldberg's story of Max Gordon and Al Lewis, East Side boys, who, in a brief span, became two shrewd revue producers. On an off night, they attended a contemporary highbrow offering and Lewis suddenly began to talk of "dominating motifs" and the "symbolism of the ensemble." Gordon peered at him curiously, shook his shoulders and cried: "Don't you know me—it's Max from Grand street!"

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Why don't you "get somewhere in life"?

Why can't you "make your mark"—do something that will make people sit up and pay attention?

You're sure you could, if you only had a chance. You're sure you're different from the common run; designed for a different fate. And yet, you can't seem to find your place.

You've made a dozen starts. Once you thought you'd be a writer; subscribed to a journalistic course. Remember? Then somebody said you had an unusual voice, and immediately you decided to go into opera. But you got disgusted with that in a month. Those tiresome lessons!

Then what came next? Tried to get into a radio hour, didn't you? Went into a Little Theatre movement. Joined a designing class.

But nothing was just right. Somehow, you couldn't seem to "find yourself." And so you waited—and went on dreaming.

Dreaming of being what? You didn't exactly know. But something splendid.

Always you see yourself like that. Splendid and victorious and—different. Doing wonderful things. Always happy and excited.

So you dream. All your life that dream has been in you like a fever, making you restless and discontented, making you hate the common chores and common people.

And now, today? Today you're just where you started. The years have passed, and they have given you nothing. You've made no real friends, had no real fun, established no roots. What was the use? You didn't intend to spend your life with such people, doing such work. Some day soon you were going to leave it all, find different work, different people. So why waste time or enthusiasm on common people and common jobs—or shabby compromises?

Even the love you might have had was a shabby compromise. The love you wanted wasn't going to be like that—a dreary, drudging thing. Love, for you, was going to mean enchantment; romance, that never dimmed. So you've rejected love, too, and gone back to your flaming dream. And what has it all brought you? Nothing.

And you can't understand? How can one dream so gorgeously, yet live so drably? Why can't you express yourself? Why can't you put your mark on life?

BECAUSE YOU'VE NEVER REALLY LIVED. YOU'VE ONLY DREAMED OF LIVING.

YOU CAN'T EXPRESS YOURSELF, BECAUSE YOU HAVE NO SELF TO EXPRESSS. YOU HAVE NEVER CREATED A SELF. YOU HAVE ONLY CREATED A DREAM, AND A DREAM HAS NO POWER.

Remember that sign you've often seen when a Hollywood star came to town?

"TOM MIX—IN PERSON—NOT A MOVIE!"

There in the sign is the secret of your defeat. You've never lived—in person. You've always been "a movie."

Never have you had the courage to be yourself. Never have you had the wisdom to know what you, yourself, really are; what you, yourself, are really fitted to do. Instead, you've tried to live a splendid make-believe, which had no connection with your actual personality or capacity. And, naturally, you've flopped.

Stop it! Stop trying to be a 12-reel fairy tale. Stand still, sober up, and face yourself. Study what you really are; what you really are fitted to do. Then do it, even it it's only digging ditches or washing dishes.

ONLY THE THING WHICH IS REALLY YOU HAS ANY POWER TO EXPRESS ITSELF. ONLY THE JOB WHICH IS REALLY YOURS WILL LEAVE ITS MARK ON THE WORLD.

THE REST IS EYEWASH!

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

You have considerable to say about how you would run things if you were at the helm in city, state or federal government.

How you would change things to meet your own particular needs, of course.

When you have so much to say about this thing or that, that should be done by those in power, do you ever think how your plan might affect other industries or other classes of workers?

The citizens of a country must live together peaceably.

One cannot live by tearing down everybody else.

Not one person can stand alone and say "I want so and so and must have it regardless of the consequences to others."

That is one reason why others in power seem so slow to move.

If they are good rulers they must consider each problem in its relationship to other groups.

Not that there isn't too much red tape in many instances and a lot of lobbying and obstruction thrown up by private interests and individuals.

But the real statesman will not be rushed into decisions that affect a very large group without undue deliberation.

Often committees are too large to get anywhere definitely because of a confusion of ideas but to talk of what you would do in case, is foolish.
